I CANNOT CEASE TO LOVE YOU!

BY MONROE H. ROSENFELD.

You turn away from me in vain;
Each frown of yours to me is pain;
Although we may not meet again,
May skies be bright above you!
Your image, framed within my heart,
Is of my life the dearest part;
Tho' mem'ries bid the tears to start—
I cannot cease to love you!

(REFRAIN):
I cannot cease to love you!
May skies be bright above you,
Your love for me
No more may be;
But, I'll ne'er cease to love you!

Our olden days return to bless;
Your eyes, that beam with tenderness,
Add joy unto each fond caress—
My every thought is of you!
Although the blighting tempest came,
And you may e'en forget my name,
You're still unto my heart the same—
I cannot cease to love you!

No other smile is dear to me,
Your tender glance I long to see;
Tho' we not even friends may be,
No heart I prize above you!
Although I pass from life away,
While you are just as fair and gay,
These are the best words I shall say:
I cannot cease to love you!

THE FLIGHT.

A TALE OF CUBA.

BY R. R.

In the harbor of Havana a boat glided in a zigzag course about the numerous steamers and ships that lay at anchor on the slightly agitated water. Two men in a fisherman's dress sat in it, the younger at the rudder, while the elder rowed.

"Now we will go over to the Spanish growlers, Pedro," said the younger man.

His companion nodded, and they glided slowly by two Spanish warships which had arrived with troops the previous day.

"Six, seven, eight—row slower, Pedro," whispered the younger man, "I must count the guns, for both these warships will cruise in a few days under our mountains on the east coast, and my uncle must be kept informed—so, now I have seen all."

"Only be careful, Senor Paolo Garcia," said the elder. "Have you your belt still?"

"Certainly, and the list of the troops in it who arrived yesterday, and which you found out so cunningly. The fellows will find nothing on the Pearl of the Antilles but a grave from yellow fever or from our bullets. Now, courage, Pedro—over to the fortress!"

"Be careful, senor, be careful!" warned the old man.

"Never fear! I do not wish to land; I only wish to look once more at the rock path which I must venture this evening. To the left, Pedro."

"As you wish," said Pedro, pulling over to the high rock that covers the entrance to the harbor of Havana, which encloses the city in a semi-circle.

The eyes of the two men flew anxiously up the steep sides to the fortress, the now much mentioned Morro Castle, which, with its mighty gray freestone, seemed to have grown into the rock.

"Do you see there, behind the two royal palms, the thick aloe bushes in the channel in the rock? I must climb up there. See where the boat can be landed best tonight."

"Will the sergeant also be on the spot?" asked the old man.

"Gold opens the gates of every fortress, friend. In that cleft in the rock a good rope ladder will hang tonight, and even though the commander increases his guard three fold an insurgent will enter the fortress, to bring the comrades smarting up there in the dungeon news of their speedy deliverance."

"Well, senor, may the saints help you! My son, my only child, the brave boy, is also confined up there, only because he struck down a Spanish sergeant who tried to seduce his sweetheart. The devil take them all! And I will row you in this boat tonight, senor, and follow you tomorrow on the ship to the mountains. Depend on me!"

"Certainly, certainly, worthy Pedro, I depend on you. Now we will return."

The boat glided slowly toward the harbor steps, without the occupants having exchanged another word. The young man stepped out nimbly, nodded to the old man, and, with a careless air, made his way through the usual crowd of noisy negro laborers and idlers to be found here. Presently he turned into a narrow street that led him into the heart of the city; it was so narrow that one walking in the middle could almost touch with outstretched hands the houses on each side, which were only one story high. From behind the grated windows came at intervals the sound of a mandolin and a woman's voice.

Near the end of the street the young man stepped into an armorer's workshop.

The armorer scrutinized the newcomer, who took a lemon from his pocket and smilingly held it out with the left hand.

"Come, senor," said the armorer, recognizing the visitor, and led him past the workmen into his room, which he locked after him.

"Is all ready?" asked the visitor.

"All in three cases," replied the armorer. "Two hundred muskets and swords."

"Well, here is the money my uncle sends you. Give me a receipt. Pedro will come for the cases this evening."

The armorer counted the roll of gold, signed the receipt, and asked:

"What news from the United States, senor?"

"The war clouds are gathering. The American people are clamoring for the freedom of Cuba!"

"God bless them!" ejaculated the armorer, fetching a bottle of wine with two glasses, which he filled, and raised one, crying:

"To liberty, Senor Garcia!"

"To liberty, master!"

"Make yourself comfortable and remain with me all night."

The visitor shook his head.

"I have still something of importance to attend to, and time presses. Come close to me, master, and hear what I tell you."

The two whispered for about a quarter of an hour, then the armorer said aloud:

"'Tis well; rely upon it, senor, at ten o'clock I will be in Santa Clara church; it will be an honor for me. May the saints protect your dear young head, senor!" he continued then, clasping in his powerful fist the extended right hand of the aristocrat. "All our hearts pray for you, for the young senorita and your noble uncle, for Cuba and liberty!"

The young man walked through the workshop and stepped again into the narrow street, throwing his cloak about his chin.

"Nobody will recognize me in this fisherman's dress," he murmured, "but I cannot be too cautious."

His way led him into wider streets, with more respectable houses, but which, after the Spanish fashion, were also built low, with their ornamented side toward the inner court.

He hurried along without attracting attention, but stopped on reaching the Prado with its brilliant lights and bright shop windows.

In gay colored silk dresses, the mantilla over the dark hair, the senoritas promenaded up and down in the shade of the old bay trees, while a Spanish regiment band discoursed lively music.

To avoid meeting the crowd of pretty pedestrians, in which there were doubtless many who knew him well, and whose sharp feminine eye might penetrate his disguise, the young man cut across the square.

The further he went now the more agitated he became; his eyes glowed and his lips murmured broken words. He looked about him warily, and now bent his steps toward the fashionable suburb Cerro.

On hills close to the sea, in the midst of broad gardens, stand handsome villas in the shade of proud, tall palms and dark ebony trees. Fountains spread freshness and entwining plants climb about silent arbors. Over the villas and the sea the reddish glimmer of evening, peculiar to the tropics, shed itself.

Drawing a deep breath, our friend stood still and looked about him. Below him lay the city and the harbor, with Morro Castle looming up threateningly, while to the right the Gulf of Mexico stretched far away to the horizon.

On the top of the hill, he now walked along the garden wall of a beautiful villa till he came to a breach, sprang into the garden, and, stepping behind a thick laurel bush, gave a low whistle.

It remained still. He repeated the whistle, and heard now the soft call.

"Paolo, here!"

With a brisk step he reached an arbor, and there sank down at the feet of a young girl.

"Donita, my love, blessed be the Madonna, I have found you!"

"Paolo, Paolo!" she cried rapturously.

Their lips met, and they blissfully exchanged hasty kisses and flattering words.

"Listen, Paolo," said the young girl, finally, "we must avail ourselves of the hours. Do not think it strange of me," she went on, with flushed cheeks, "but I should like to be your wife this very evening. Father suspects that I write to you."

"Dearest Donita, my wife, my brave love!" cried Paolo, ecstatically. "Indeed, all is ready, the priest awaits us in Santa Clara; I have two trusty marriage witnesses—an armorer and a skipper. Formerly we had, of course, pictured our wedding otherwise to ourselves. Only in the cathedral, before the eyes of all Havana, it was to be solemnized; but the insurgent patriot, who has fallen into disgrace with your father, can no longer show himself there, and must marry his wife secretly in the little harbor chapel."

"Oh, that is all the same, Paolo! My father urges me every day the marriage with the Spanish captain—don't start! He hopes in vain, though. Here are my papers necessary to the marriage, and here are my jewels and some money. So let us go, Paolo!"

"Oh, heavenly bliss! Among Cuba's women you will stand as a model of the highest love—you, my sweet Donita, now soon my wife!"

"Hear, Paolo—you will allow me to take my Barbara along, my faithful old servant?"

"Certainly, she shall remain with you, dearest, and when this cruel struggle in ended—which will be soon now, no doubt, since America threatens Spain with war for Cuba's sake—she shall live with you on my plantation near Cienfuegos. We will then conclie your father and be happy. Meanwhile, however, there is much to endure. We will celebrate our marriage tonight alone on the sea, for this very night Pedro's vessel must carry us to the mountains, where your father cannot follow us. Have you courage, my love?"

"Courage? I will follow you to the end of the world!" she cried, enthusiastically. "And now, away, that I may belong to you entirely! My father is in the city. At half past nine I will be with Barbara in Santa Clara Church. Nothing shall hinder me, not even my father's anger."

"Then, farewell, dearest. I have, meantime, a little errand to do, a letter to deliver ——"

"To whom, you bad man?" she interrupted him.

"In the fortress."

She turned pale.

"Do not be frightened," he continued, "there is no danger, and it is my duty in the cause of Cuba."

"The Madonna protect you!" she whispered, looking with alarm toward the frowning fortress.

They separated in silence. Paolo stole over the wall, and Donita returned to the house to prepare with an uneasy heart for the flight from her father's house and follow the man she loved.

* * * * * * *

Night had set in, and Paolo walked along at a rapid pace, trusting to the protecting darkness.

It was new moon; only the fire flies darted like little lanterns through the bushes, and so Paolo did not notice that he was followed by a shadow, which remained on his track as far as the harbor.

There was still a crowd and stir on the harbor, and once more old Pedro's boat glided with the young passenger, as hours before, through the ships, and escaped here the eyes of the restlessly spying man, who hastened to the harbor watch house.

Without fear of an imminent peril, the men in the boat now rowed slowly and silently along the foot of the rock that bears the fortress.

"A stroke to the right, Pedro," said Paolo Garcia. Then he stood up in the boat and sprang ashore.

The boat glided on, and Pedro's eyes looked solicitously after the dark figure which, behind the palms, slowly ascended the channel in the rock. For a while they followed the one ascending a laborious path, then the latter vanished from his sight.

Cautiously going round thick aloe bushes, Paolo had clambered up the rift in the rocks, taking care that his foot set no stone rolling. At last he reached the smooth rock. A triumphant smile flew over his face; he saw the concerted rope ladder hanging and climbed like a cat up to the parapet. From here a steep flight of steps hewn in the rock led up into the gallery of the upper fortress. There Paolo heard the sentinel walking to and fro. He crept softly up the steps and looked toward the soldier. All went to his wish. The sergeant bribed by him was on guard. A light knock, and he came to meet Paolo.

"Give me the letters," he whispered, hastily, "and be off! I will deliver them to your friends—but begone—I risk being shot!"

Paolo nodded and slipped back down the high flight of steps. He unhooked the ladder after he had used it, and now descended the dangerous path to the spot where Pedro awaited him in the boat.

"All is well, old man!" A push against the rock and the little boat shot away. "So, Pedro, now to the wedding!" cried Paolo—"to Santa Clara church, and then off for the mountains! Is the vessel ready?"

"All ready, senor. It is unquiet on the water, and I saw just now the harbor patrol boat being manned with Spanish soldiers; they must not see us."

As he imparted this news Pedro pulled more vigorous strokes, and they soon reached the safe shore. The boat was made fast, and now both walked swiftly through several gloomy streets. A dark figure detached itself from the corner, and came toward them. It was the armorer.

"The senorita entered the church just now," he whispered.

"Thanks for this intelligence, master," replied Paolo. "I feel as if a great load weighed upon my breast; I wish we were already on the water!"

He quickly opened the the church door. The interior was but faintly lighted by a few candles at the altar.

Donita advanced to meet him, accompanied by her old servant. Silent, speechless, they clasped each other's hand and approached the priest. Paolo placed a heavy purse in the offering stick, the armorer and the mariner drew near, and the holy act to unite two loving hearts forever began.

The last words had been spoken, and, softly weeping, the old servant bent over the hand of the young wife, while the two witnesses stepped forward, congratulating Paolo, when the door was opened hurredly, and a boy of thirteen rushed into the church, crying breathlessly:

"Danger threatens! Quick, senor! Away—father! They are searching the harbor? A spy has betrayed you!"

Frightened and helpless, the group still stood there, when the priest approached, saying:

"Follow me. I will lead you safely through my house."

They all hastened through the street, and in a few minutes Paolo, in the guise of a priest, beside him Donita and Barbara, Pedro with the armorer and the boy, were on the other side of the city limits, where the priest had led them through the convent garden.

"Thanks be to the Madonna!" cried Pedro, "behind the palms there lies the American ship, and nobody suspects that we have hired it!"

"Poor Donita!" whispered Paolo, as he ran, "the pursuit is already beginning."

"With you I defy all danger!" she said, gently. "It was, I fear, my father's gardener who saw and betrayed you."

They hurried through the grove, and saw a trim little yacht, which tugged impatiently at the anchor.

Pedro clapped his hands. A plank was at once pushed ashore; they hastily took leave of the armorer and the kind priest, and the next moment Paolo, Donita, Barbara and Pedro, with the boy, stood on board. The crew, which consisted of only a few sailors, promptly executed Pedro's orders; the anchor was weighed, and the yacht bore away fleetly toward the outlet of the harbor.

"It's new moon, senor," whispered Pedro, at the helm, to Paolo, while the women sat in the little cabin, "and the night is pitch dark, just as I had wished. If we were only past this cursed fortress!"

"Courage, old man!" said Paolo, "our Dart flies!"

Under the load of canvas, which caused it to heel far over, the yacht pitched ahead in a furious course.

Suddenly a rocket hissed in the air nearby and illuminated a Spanish custom house steamer, on whose deck, in the group of officers, Paolo recognized Donita's father and the gardener who had betrayed him.

"Stop! stop!" resounded from the steamer.

A cannon shot rolled down from the fortress, the signal that no vessel was allowed to leave the harbor.

"Haul tight the foresail! Let out the jib reef!" cried old Pedro. "Now we must run for it!" and with greatly accelerated speed the yacht swept out of the harbor.

The government steamer pursued. It was a wild, daring chase. A fine rain fell, and only the rockets helped lighten the darkness of the night, so that the steamer did not lose sight of the sailing vessel, and could follow close to her heels.

Silently and diligently the sailors worked according to Pedro's orders. Donita wrung her hands anxiously in the cabin, and Paolo stood by the helm, a rifle in his hand, determined to sell his life dear.

Again a rocket went up. Pedro boldly threw the yacht about, so that it flew along in a wide bow. Then there was a flash aboard the steamer, bullets whizzed over the ship, and the rifle fell from the hand of Paolo, who sank to the deck with a groan.

* * * * * * *

They had escaped from the Spaniard, but Paolo lay unconscious in the cabin, with a crushed arm. Pale and praying, Donita knelt beside him.

"What a wedding night for my poor mistress!" murmured old Barbara, who had just finished bandaging the terrible wound as well as she knew how.

Thus they sailed for two days and two nights along the coast of Cuba, in fear and anxiety. Paolo raving in a fever, and longingly calling the name of his dear wife, who watched incessantly by his bed. On the third day, at dawn, the gigantic forms of the south-eastern Cuban coast rose up. Pedro hugged the land until he saw a little gap in the rocks, into which he steered.

Surrounded by mountains, here lay a small bay, the harbor of the insurgents. The yacht had been noticed already. Sentinels ran down to the shore, and soon the commander stood by the bed of his nephew and greeted the latter's pretty wife with cordial words. A physician dressed the wound, and declared, that the arm would grow stiff, and that Paolo must remain far away from the campaign.

A few days later the whole civilized world was startled and shocked by the awful disaster to the "Maine;" then came the investigation, the declaration of war by the United States, and now, in the Cuban mountains, Donita and Paolo, who is convalescent after a long fever resulting from the wound, wait with impatient enthusiasm for the insurgents, with Uncle Sam's brave boys, to drive the Spaniards from the Pearl of the Antilles, while old Pedro, who also waits with the young couple, chuckles to himself as he foresees the speedy crushing discomfiture of the tyrants of his country.

GOLDEN GATE GLEANINGS.

Lewis Morrison Continues His Very Successful Engagement—The Orpheum Still Attracting Crowds Which Pack the House.

(Special Dispatch to The New York Clipper.)

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19.—At the Columbia Theatre "Liberty Hall" was presented last evening very creditably and satisfactorily by the Frawley Company. E. E. Kidder's new play, "A Gallant Surrender," is under rehearsal.

ALCAZAR THEATRE.—Lewis Morrison, assisted by the stock company, presented "Faust" here last night, continuing that bill into a second week.

TIVOLI OPERA HOUSE. — "The Bells of Corneville" was the attraction here last night.

ORPHEUM.—The sign "Positively no more admitted, house is packed," was displayed here last night. The new faces were: Wilton and Stack, Little Irene Franklin, Lorenz and Allen, and Gilbert and Goldie.

BELASCO THALL'S STOCK COMPANY has reorganized for a tour of the entire Pacific coast. They will commence at Fresno, Sept. 5, where they will open with "The Girl I Left Behind Me" and "The First Born." They will carry entirely new scenery for five plays, which will be produced under the management of George Ashbourne, specially engaged as stage director. Geo. H. Fielding has recovered his health.

FROM OTHER POINTS.

The Sans Souci, a New Music Hall, Opened in Boston—The Great Northern Roof Garden, Chicago, Again in the Field—Robert Mantell Makes His Vaudeville Debut.

(Special Dispatches to The New York Clipper.)

ST. LOUIS, July 19.—The Suburban opens with Gilbert's "Palace of Truth." The week has started with bigger attendance even than witnessed "Merry Wives of Windsor" last week. Evidently the long delayed hot weather which the managers have been praying for all the week has come, and it is to be expected that it will bring the people out in better numbers than the first part of July did. The Suburban has made great money with its six weeks of elaborate drama, and St. Louis is proving more and more the best Summer show town in the country.....At Uhrig's Cave "Girofle-Girofla" is being well put on by the Dorothy Morton Opera Co. Manager Fair reports a satisfactory attendance so far this season, and expects a big increase, now the work of the company warrants the prediction.....Treasurer Aherns will have a benefit Sunday night.....At the Highlands the vaudeville bill includes: Corinne, Dixon, Bowers and Dixon, Polk and Kollins, Carlin and Clark, Lemoyne Brothers, Grant and Norton, Barr and Evans, and the biograph, with Corinne featured as the leading act. The attendance is excellent.....At Koerner's Park an excellent vaudeville bill draws well this week. The bill is headed by the Rossow Midgets, their return engagement, and Hines and Remington are also warm favorites. Other turns are J. J. Gaffney, Cameron and Belmont, Annie Leslie, Williams and Loretta.....The Lewis and Ernest Pavilion reports a good business Sunday last. The attendance broke the season's record. The entertainment consists of a Military Minstrel first part and a vaudeville bill. This also includes Edward, Eva and Robert Rinaldo, John H. Mock, Bison City Quartet, W. H. Maxwell, West and Williams and Lewis and Ernest.....At Athletic Park Pain's "Cuba" is drawing the crowds it deserves and Havana falls every night to big enthusiasm.

BOSTON, July 19.—So far as the opening of the week went yesterday, there is nothing of material import to wire. Few and far between are our open show shops, and last evening, and especially so in the afternoon, the "crush" element was conspicuous by its absence. The only dramatic house doing business is the Castle Square Theatre, where the war drama, "Across the Potomac," was finely staged and acted, to fair audiences only, afternoon and evening.....At Keith's Theatre Robert Mantell received a warm welcome and made his debut in vaudeville, presenting the bright comedietta, "A Lesson in Acting." It is a one act bit of fun, and is thoroughly enjoyable throughout. Mr. Mantell has the support of Arthur Maitland, Arthur J. Whaley, Wm. Mooney and Marie Booth Russell, and it is but just to say that his selection of a company could not well have been excelled.....The Sans Souci, Boston's first European Music Hall, was opened yesterday, and if the start be a criterion of the future for this new and novel innovation in our amusement resorts, then the success of the establishment is a foregone conclusion. From the opening of the doors of the old Public Library building, on Boylston, near Tremont Street, until the close of the house at a late hour in the evening there was a continuous influx and out flow of patrons. The vaudeville show was particularly fetching as rendered by Henry E. Dixey, Kate Davis, Horwitz and Bowers, Marie Heath, Gray and Conway, and Kathleen Warren, all of whom were warmly welcomed and applauded in their various specialties. The homelike tone, and free and easy style of the place just catches our people who love to be relieved of the stiff restraint and stringent abeyance to the rules of our regular theatres and popular price places.

CHICAGO, July 19.—Nothing of particular interest marked the opening of the week. "Shenandoah" entered on its tenth and last week at McVicker's to crowded houses, in spite of the intense heat..... The walls of Hopkins' could hardly hold the enthusiasm of the audience which saw "The Flag of Truce." Harry Allister and Annie St. Tel were on the list of specialties.....With Josephine Sabel and Papinta on the same bill the Masonic Temple Roof Garden had an attractive offering, and it was witnessed by packed houses.....The Great Northern Roof Garden started out with Albini and Emma Carus at the top of the list of vaudeville. A fair number of people enjoyed the cool resort.....The Chicago Opera House entertained its usual large patronage, the Manhattan Comedy Four and Countess Von Hatzfeldt being the premier performers. .....Sam T. Jack's was filled, the attraction being a burlesque bill, with Jennie Yeamans featured.... At the Chutes and Ferris Wheel Park crowds came to cool off and see good shows.

PHILADELPHIA, July 19.—At the Bijou last night an excellent light entertainment was presented, admirably suited to the warm weather, and that it was thoroughly appreciated was attested by the size of the audience, which completely filled the house.....Large crowds were at Woodside Park, and as many as could obtain seats enjoyed the commendable performance of "The Mascot," given by the opera company.....The other parks had splendid attendance, a special classical concert at Willow Grove being very much enjoyed.

STEWARD LITHGOW, manager for Frank M. and John B. Wills, is here spending a week with the Messrs. Wills.

ALABAMA.

Mobile.—Knoll and McNeil have been entertaining large crowds at Monroe Park for the past week and have been re-engaged for another week. The bugle calls introduced by them, with Northern and Southern songs between the calls, never fail to make hits, and they receive much applause.

Vaudeville and Minstrel

THE FAIR LIST.

Attention is directed to the list of State, County and District Fairs in all parts of the United States and Canada, which appears in another part of this issue of THE CLIPPER. It has been compiled with great care from the official lists received from the various agricultural societies throughout the country, and from other sources, and is as nearly correct as it is possible to make it. Very many readers of this paper are professionally interested in these annual expositions, and to those a careful perusal of the list is recommended.

DAVE GARRISON, black face comedian, has recently returned from a Western tour, and has taken the management of the Grand Pier at North Beach, L. I. He introduced a new song this week, written by Ed. Rogers, entitled "There's a Spaniard Lives Upstairs," and pronounces it to be the biggest hit of any song he has ever used. He is also singing Sterling and Von Tilzer's latest coon song, "You'll Get All That's a Coming to You," which brings him rounds of applause.

BILLY BRADLEY has been spending the past few weeks in Cleveland, O., and Pittsburg, Pa., where he has been taking a needed rest. He and O. Laurence Jenkins will head their own show next season. They intend fitting out a first class burlesque and vaudeville company, and will carry twenty-five people.

THE VERSATILE TRIO has reorganized, and signed with George Turner's Robin Hood Burlesquers for next season. The trio now consists of Chas. H. Weston, tenor; Nellie Sylvester, soubrette, and Jack Marshall, comedian.

BELLE THURSTON, serio comic, is featuring a march song, published by Feist & Frankenthaler, entitled "Miss Harvard of Yale," and much credit must be given her for the rendition of this song.

GERTIE GOLDEN is at Morrison's Casino, Rockaway Beach, L. I. N. Y., singing her negro melodies and giving Hebrew impersonations.

THE BOOMING TRIO, Murray and Murray and Mardo Brown, played at Lakeside Park, Akron, O., last week, and they are at Shea's Garden Theatre, Buffalo, N. Y., this week.

CONWELL AND SWAN have been well received in their new act. They will soon play the Orpheum circuit.

GEO. YOEMAN has just closed a five weeks' engagement at Koerner's Garden, St. Louis, Mo. He opens at Phœnix Hill Garden, Louisville, Ky., July 24, with Cincinnati, O., to follow.

JOHN R. NALON has been re-engaged this week at Riverside Park, Amherst, Mass.

EMMA CARUS has canceled her engagement at Sam T. Jack's house in Chicago, Ill., and also as leading boy in his New York theatre. She opened at the Great Northern Roof Garden, Chicago, July 15, for two weeks, with Koster & Bial's and American Roof Gardens, New York, to follow.

BELLE GOLD, serio comic, is at Sam T. Jack's Chicago house indefinitely, and is singing among other songs "The Story of a Broken Heart."

J. FRANCIS SULLIVAN, of Sullivan and Lester, opened at Amityville, L. I., July 2, and after the first show was re-engaged for four weeks.

ELLIS AND RAYMOND play a return date at Oak Hill Grove, Rockland, Me., this week.

GEO. SCANLON and Pearl Stevens played week of July 11 at Keith's Theatre, Boston, Mass. They are this week at the Palace Theatre, in that city.

GUS BANKS is located at Cottage City, Mass., for the Summer season.

KARINA has closed her engagement with Sam T. Jack, and will rest a few weeks before joining the London Belles for next season. Fifteen of the young ladies of the company, headed by Jennie Yeamans, recently gave her a handsome diamond.

CHAS. AND JENNIE WELSH were at Wonderland, Detroit, Mich., last week. This week they are at Mt. Clemens, Mich.

ADA SWEENEY, who is still touring the South, is featuring a march song, entitled "Miss Liberty," also a patriotic song, "There's Room for One More Star," written by Leo Feist.

COL. FRANK E. WILLIS has just terminated a three weeks' engagement of his attractions, Mlle. Adgie's lions, boxing kangaroo and Giovannie's trained cockatoos. They have been re-engaged for six weeks longer at Capt. John L. Young's Mammoth Pier, Atlantic City, N. J.

HERRING SISTERS play Bergen Beach week of July 18.

IRVING AND HAZELTON were engaged at Ferris Wheel Park, Chicago, Ill., July 14, 15, 16, in their sketch, "A Manhattan Cocktail," taking Giguere and Boyer's place on the programme, owing to the temporary illness of Eddie Giguere.

ED. ROGERS, and Sterling and Von Tilzer are making their headquarters with Feist & Frankenthaler, 1,227 Broadway, New York, and would be pleased to have their friends call on them.

L. C. BEHMAN, of Hyde and Behman, was presented with a daughter by his wife on Saturday, July 16, at Sayville, L. I.

LEO CLIFFORD has signed with Ed. F. Rush's Bon Ton Burlesquers for next season, and will do an act with Agnes Behler.

THE GOLDEN GATE QUARTET, after a two weeks' engagement at Sam T. Jack's house, Chicago, Ill., opened July 17 at Hopkins' Theatre. They commence rehearsing with Sheridan & Faust's Metropolitan Burlesquers on Aug. 8.

GERTIE GILSON intends featuring the coon song, "There's a Spaniard Lives Upstairs," in farce comedy next season.

IDA WALLING GREAVES, late of Hart, Walling and Weston, is visiting in Montreal, Can. She has signed with Fred Rider.

CHAS. A. VAN has signed with Al. G. Field's Minstrels. He leaves this week for Columbus, O.

M. J. MACK closed a week's engagement at Riverside Park, Amherst, Mass., and is re-engaged for week of Aug. 15.

IRENE MACKEY, sister of Julie Mackey, has just closed a three weeks' engagement at Schenley Park, Pittsburg, Pa., where she sang Sterling and Von Tilzer's taking ballad, "Stories That Mother Told Me," and in a letter to the publishers, Feist & Frankenthaler, she writes that this song brought her repeated encores nightly.

NOTES FROM GORMAN'S COMEDIANS.—While playing Westwood Park, Dedham, Mass., the Lynn Sisters were presented with bouquets by the wife of the manager of the electric railroad. We played Savin Rock, Ct., last week. A banquet was tendered to our manager, Mr. Robinson, celebrating his birthday; songs by Mr. La Wole, Miss Starnem and others made the affair a pleasant one.

BILLY NELSON'S BIG BURLESQUE SHOW, en route through Maine and the Provinces.—We carry eighteen people, band and orchestra, show all the large towns and cities, and business has been far ahead of expectations. The people: Gus Fox, Joe Miley, Tim Nolan, Pete Baker, Joe Wilson, Dave Watson, May Bryant, Nellie Fox, Emma Miley, Kitty Francis, Fannie Davis, Jessie Conroy, Grace Shannon, Josie Curtion, Minnie Vandose, May Booker, Ida O'Neil and Gertie De Bondoy. The weather is fine and all are well.

WILSON AND LORAINE close on July 17, after having played an engagement of five weeks at Wenger's Theatre, New Orleans, La.

DOROTHY NEVILLE was at Schenley Park Theatre, Pittsburg, Pa., week before last, with her sketch, "A Jolly Good Fellow," and her engagement was extended for another week. She has left for New York, where she will shortly commence rehearsals with Harry Williams' company (Manager Sam C. Scribner), and will open Aug. 7 in Cincinnati, O. She heads the company.

STANLEY AND FAY closed an engagement at Elmwood Park, Syracuse, and are this week at Niagara Falls.

GORMAN AND FIELDS played Fort Wayne and Muskegon, with Chicago to follow. After resting five weeks in Milwaukee they will play East.

MORRISEY AND RICH, and Mrs. Paulscraft and mother are now on their way to Mt. Clemens. Harry Blocksom and wife, Annie Hart, will remain at Fairhaven a few days, prior to their annual trip to Atlantic City, N. J.

JAMES R. ADAMS and his company are presenting their pantomime at Guvernator's Theatre, Atlantic City, N. J., where they are engaged for two weeks. Last week they closed the show at Tony Pastor's with their new pantomime.

SCOTT'S REFINED NEGRO MINSTRELS send notes written on both sides of the paper, and for that reason they are not used.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Philadelphia.—The Summer dullness continues to prevail here in the way of theatricals, though the announcements of openings are beginning to appear, and serve to keep one in mind that it will not be long before another season will be upon us.

THE BIJOU.—There is an old saying that admonishes us to "make hay while the sun shines," and in pursuance of this adage Keith's local house is reaping the benefits of its practical monopoly of the theatrical field. Although always doing a good business, the houses have been literally packed during the past week, and many were turned away, unable to gain admittance. For the current week the following bill is announced: Francesca Redding and Carleton Macy, in "A Forgotten Combination;" Bobby Gaylor, Lew Bloom, Genaro and Bailey, Conroy and McFarland, Lovenburg's Instrumentalists, Waterbury Brothers and Tenny, Ed. Cressie, the animated song sheet, with Elizabeth M. Murray as soloist; the biograph, the Ryeford Sisters, Lew Randall, Ida Marie Rogers, the Rio Brothers, Sadi Alfarabi, and a number of timely views on the stereopticon.

WOODSIDE PARK.—The opera company appears this week in "The Mascot," and, judging by last week, when "The Chimes of Normandy" was sung to large and appreciative audiences, their efforts should meet with great encouragement. Prof. Lavalle's dog circus and Bob Prickett, a big ourang outang, are added features this week. Prof. Meyers' Band continues in popularity, and the roof garden, with the Cuban Serenaders rendering sweet music, is one of the attractive places of the park.

WASHINGTON PARK.—On Saturday the spectacle, "The Bombardment of Manila," was produced, and met with great success, as did also the ballet, which was cleverly arranged. These two features are continued, and, with the playing of Liberati's Band and the other regular features, make a high bid for the appreciation of the public.

WILLOW GROVE PARK.—This park continues in prosperity, drawing large crowds daily and nightly and providing them with much entertainment, including the excellent music furnished by Brooke's Chicago Marine Band.

NOTES.—One of the many rumors in regard to the Grand Opera House is to the effect that William Wolff and Thomas H. Persse, two of the popular members of the Castle Square Opera Co., will install an opera company of their own in the house next season.....A regular press dispatch which has been given to the papers here announces that F. F. Proctor will have a theatre in this city ready for opening in the Fall, but as to which house it is to be there is no indication, and there is no first class house known to be in the market, with the exception of the Grand Opera House.....The National Theatre is to open on Aug. 20, with "When London Sleeps.".....'Side Tracked" is to be the opening attraction at the People's Theatre, Aug. 27..... The next season of grand opera at the Academy of Music begins Nov. 30 and lasts for seven weeks. The season will consist of fourteen evening performances and six matinees, the evening performances occurring Nov. 30, Dec. 5, 7, 9, 14, 16, 26, 28, 30, Jan. 2, 4, 9, 11 and 13. The matinees, which all occur on Saturday, are dated Dec. 10, 17, 31, Jan. 7, 14 and Feb. 11. The singers engaged up to the present time are Mesdames Melba, Ternina, Gadski, De Lussan, Behnee, Toronta, Matteld and Van Cauteren, and Messrs. Kraus, Bonnard, Pantolfini, Soler, Van Hoose, Alvarez, Story, Bensaudo, Stehmann, Boudouresque, Rains and Viviani. Walter Damrosch has been engaged by Manager Charles A. Ellis to conduct the performances given in German, which will include a magnificent revival of the Nibelungen Trilogy.

Harrisburg.—At Paxtang Park business was fair with the Swan Stock Company. Danny Mann's Company comes week of 18.....The Fitzpatricks have joined Hill's Entertainers. The latter opened the Klapperthall Pavilion at Reading 11.... Harry Dare, who was ill with typhoid pneumonia at Carlisle, Pa., is out and resting at his home in this city.....Manager Nathan Appell is preparing for the rehearsals of the King Dramatic Company. Kirk Brown was here 16, and will return 21, when the company will begin preparations for opening the season during the latter part of August. Mr. Brown will do leads. Spencer Charters, of this organization, will leave 21 for New York, to secure wardrobe. "The Cotton King" has been added to the repertory. Manager Appell is busy getting the five theatres on the Markly & Appell circuit, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Hazleton, Lebanon and Carlisle, to open the latter part of August.....W. Morrow Tait, pianist, was taken suddenly ill with brain fever 11. He is recovering slowly.....Edwin Young, manager of the Mountain City Theatre, Altoona, Pa., also of several Summer attractions, is home from Philadelphia, where his little daughter underwent an operation for her eyes. Mr. Young will open his Altoona playhouse about Aug. 15. .....Laura Russell, of the Kane Opera Company, who has been ill, was unable to play 11 and 12, but is all right now. Miss Evans assumed her roles admirably.....Maurice Russ, a debutante for the coming season, has been appointed Commissary Sergeant of the Third Brigade Staff, Pennsylvania Provisional Guards, by General Frank Magee. His soldier duties will not interfere with his contemplated entry into the theatrical ranks.....Hill's Entertainers report big Summer business. Waller and Waller, and Lebarde and Ruth are new members of this organization.....Robert Hennesey, formerly treasurer at the Bijou Theatre, this city, will direct the new theatre stage at South Fork, Pa., J. H. Dietrich, manager.

Pittsburg.—All of our places of amusement now present the appearance of banquet halls deserted, the Avenue Theatre, the last one remaining open, having been announced to close its doors for the Summer July 16, with a double bill, comprising "The Silent System" and "The Bells," in which Hugh Ward presented a very strong and original conception of Mathias, which was admirably wrought out, and deserving of the highest praise. The only resource in the way of amusement now left the merry men and women of the burg is to take the Consolidated Traction Co.'s cars to Schenley Park and witness a free show in the wilds of Panther Hollow, where the bill includes the La Velles, Carr and Tourgee, George Austin, John T. Hanson and Maybel Drew, the Melrose Bros. and Irene Mackay..... Fred M. McCloy, who, as business manager of the New Grand Opera House and Avenue Theatre the past season, has made himself one of the most popular men ever engaged in show business here, was married 12 to Georgia Anderson, a beautiful and accomplished non-professional. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's mother, Penn and Lang Avenues, East End, and was performed by Rev. W. H. Leak. Only the immediate relatives of the bride and groom were present, the recent death of the bride's grandfather having caused the abandonment of the large and brilliant church wedding which had been originally planned. Harry Davis, the well known theatrical manager, acted as best man. The bride was married in her traveling gown of dark cloth, and immediately after the ceremony the happy pair started on a wedding trip of ten days' duration, at the close of which they will take up their residence in the East End, where, as I said in last week's CLIPPER, Mr. McCloy will manage the East End Theatre the coming season.

MONTANA.

Butte.—Maguire's Opera House is dark.....At the Union Theatre this week "The Rose of Killarney" was given, to fair business.....No new faces at the Imperial or Casino.....Prof. Gentry's Dog and Pony Show comes week of 18.

—Chas. Salsbury left for Chicago, Ill., on July 17.

World of Players.

—M. B. Leavitt has arranged with Frank W. Conant as manager for the Great Triple Alliance—Le Roy, Fox and Powell. Bury Desant will be in advance. The season will open at Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 28, with Chicago, Ill.; St. Louis, Mo., and Kansas City to follow, with three weeks at Leavitt's New Comedy Theatre, San Francisco, Cal. The company will next Winter make an extensive tour through Mexico, playing the principal cities. Cushman and Holcomb, Hector and Lauraine, and the Four Luciers will be the special features with this organization. Negotiations are also pending with the Nichols Sisters. Everything will be brand new and up to date, and the traveling will be done in their own special car.

—An arrangement has been effected between M. B. Leavitt, George W. Lederer and George B. McClellan whereby Mr. Leavitt will produce all the Casino successes for a season at the New Comedy Theatre, San Francisco, Cal. A special company will be organized by the Casino management, with new scenery, costumes, etc. After the San Francisco engagement the company will make an extended tour of the principal cities of the Northwest and California, with a probable engagement of some length in the City of Mexico. Mr. Leavitt has practically concluded negotiations to that effect.

—Mrs. Pacheco, authoress of "Incog," is at present organizing a comedy company for the production of her latest farce comedies. She has arranged with Manager M. B. Leavitt to open her season at the New Comedy Theatre, San Francisco, Cal. Her first play, "Incog," received its initial production at this playhouse, when under the name of the Bush Street Theatre.

—Priestly Morrison has signed with the Brosnahan-Jackson Co. for leading business for next season. He is spending the Summer at Mt. Washington, Md., with Wingrove Bathon, whose story, "A Creole Courtship," will be dramatized and produced early next season by Eugenie Blair. Mr. Bathon and Mr. Morrison are at work upon an original three act comedy, dealing with creole life and character in Louisiana.

—Palmer Morrison (John Carter), late of Geo. W. Sammis' Co. and "Out of Sight," has volunteered in the Fifth Maryland Infantry and is now in Tampa, Fla.

—Clair Tuttle, since closing her company in May, has been filling engagements with her singing specialties at the Summer resorts in Pennsylvania.

—Bonita Loring has signed with Manager J. D. Flynn to play principal soubrette with "Finnigan's Four Hundred."

—H. W. Taylor will remain as business manager of the Elroy Stock Company next season, that making his third year with the organization.

—Prof. Ivan Kerkhoff has been appointed pianist and musical director of the Woodward Stock Co., Creighton Theatre, Omaha, Neb.

—John Leffler has been engaged by Girard and Calder to support Eddie Girard, in "Natural Gas," next season.

—W. J. Accooe and Eugenia Barker are busily engaged on a new operatic farce comedy to be produced early the coming season.

—P. W. Wolf has been engaged as advance representative of Miller & Steele's dramatic sensation for the coming season.

—R. Edgar Vance has been re-engaged by A. Q. Scammon to play his old role of Judge Pecksniff, in "Side Tracked." This is his third season in the part. He will also do a turn of descriptive ballads.

—T. H. Winnett has placed with the Elroy Stock Company David Higgins' latest play on the American-Spanish war, "A Union Soldier." Kennedy's Players have secured several new plays from Mr. Winnett, including "The Hand of Fate," and Corse Payton has taken McKee Rankin's "Runaway Wife" for next season. Jennie Calef has appointed Mr. Winnett the exclusive agent for all her soubrette plays.

—European advices tell of a row between Jean de Reszke and Manager Grau. The tenor is said to have declared his intention not to appear in any Wagnerian opera during the coming Winter season at the Metropolitan Opera House.

—Joseph W. Whiting has been engaged to succeed W. J. Lemoyne in "The Moth and the Flame" next season.

—Chas. Frohman has engaged Annie Irish for next season.

—The Durand Family are with "A New England Home" Co., touring Maine and the Maritime Provinces. They have been playing the Summer resorts on the coast and enjoying the cool breezes of the ocean. Business as a rule has been most excellent. They open Sept. 19 with Stanselle's Specialty Sensation, going West to the coast and thence through Texas to Mexico.

—Chas. A. Abbott, musical director, writes: "I have opened my seventh consecutive season at Gray's Inn, Jackson, N. H. (White Mts.). The roster of the orchestra is as follows: Clint Raven, violin; Wm. Ellinger, cornet; H. J. Percival, flute; Max Van Osten, 'cello, and Chas. A. Abbott, pianist and director. At the close of my Summer season I will join Harry F. Curtis' Co., featuring Knoll and McNeil, cornet duettists."

—Manager Pliney Rutledge writes: "I am visiting my friends at El Dorado, Kan., before opening the coming season. The corner stone of the new $25,000 opera house at Enid, Oklahoma, was laid July 4. Prospects are good there this year."

—The Barbour Theatre Co. closed July 16 a tour of forty six weeks, embracing the best stands in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin. The company opens its next season Aug. 15, with a new repertory and enlarged company. Time is booked over the circuit on which this organization has been a favorite for past seasons. E. B. Barbour and wife, Phyllis Barnes, will spend their brief vacation in Western Wisconsin.

—Susie Howard's Co., in "Nell the Waif," under the management of Evans and Olcott, has signed the following people for band and orchestra: H. Irving Reed, leader of band; Morice Lenzburg, leader of orchestra; John Miller, T. F. Kenney, Harry Kennaird, J. B. Sherwood and James Libby. They have also signed Dorthy Bancroft for leads and R. P. Sullivan as advance.

—Alberta has been engaged to play the role of Piquita, in "The Dawn of Freedom," commencing at the Fourteenth Street Theatre, this city, early in September.

—Selena Johnson closes at Milwaukee, Wis., July 23, and will shortly be married to Duncan Preston.

—Mme. Modjeska commences rehearsals Aug. 1, in San Diego, Cal.

—Edward McWade and Margaret May go to the Grand Opera House Stock Company, New Orleans, La.

—Louise Marcelli left for Milwaukee, Wis., July 17. She plays with Salsbury's Stock Company for two weeks, commencing July 25, in "Lady Bountiful."

MASSACHUSETTS.

Boston.—We are now at the bedrock of closed up regular dramatic houses, only one, the Castle Square Theatre, being open at present, and in that respect we have probably reached the lowest margin that will prevail during the Summer season. At the Castle Square, week of 18, the management will stage "Across the Potomac," with a cast that takes in the services of Lillian Lawrence, Maude Odell, Lizzie Morgan, Mary Sanders, Marian Chapman, J. H. Gilmour, W. C. Masson, N. H. Fowler, Lindsay Morison, Tony Cummings, Horace Lewis, Chas. Mackay, J. L. Seeley, Mr. Humphreys and a half score others of the house stock. Next week, "Red, White and Blue." Last week "A Scrap of Paper" was finely staged, cast and acted.

KEITH'S THEATRE.—One of, if not really the most important booking of the season on the Keith circuit is the engagement of the leading romantic actor of the day, Robert Mantell, who steps from his dramatic altitude, and on Monday, 18, will make his debut in vaudeville at this house. Mr. Mantell will have the finished support of a company not great in numbers, 'tis true, but eminently so in ability, and it is a foregone conclusion that their presentation of the one act play, "A Lesson in Acting," will be a delightful and thoroughly enjoyable one. In addition to this notable attraction Mr. Keith offers the symphony orchestra, with new selections, and the celebrated French tenor, Albert Guille, as soloist, who will be heard in "The Palms," by Faure, and in Gounod's "Ave Maria." In the specialties are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Sidman, in the comedy sketch, "A Bit of Real Life;" Billy Clifford and Maud Huth, in "The Chappie's Visit;" Bogert and O'Brien, Smith and Campbell, the Quaker City Quartet, the Donovans, Charles Hartley, Ali and Ben, Leavitt and Nevello, Hawley and Leslie, Frank Hammond, Bartelmas, Prof. Gies and his stereopticon views, and the American biograph with a series of pictures showing the landing of the American troops in Cuba, and other interesting scenes.

PALACE THEATRE.—Manager Frank V. Dunn is known in Boston as one of the leading providers of burlesque and vaudeville. At the beginning of the present Summer season, however, he made a strong effort to convert the Palace into a dramatic house for the season, and with that end in view he engaged J. Walter Kennedy as a "star" and supplied him with a well appointed company in support. But the "star" did not materialize as a Klondike nugget of large dimensions and auriferous hue. Ergo, Francs V. did not harvest gold galore on the Kennedy date, and, being now convinced that vaudeville and burlesque are the attractions which will pay best at the Palace, he has gone back to his first love, and henceforth will cling to it firmly. For the the current week the attraction will the French Gaiety Girls troupe, headed by Ida Howell, Minnie Cline, Pearl Stevens and others. One of the big features of the week will be the posing of Mlle. Ordlai. Vari-colored electric lights add to the effect. In the variety are Scanlan and Stevens and a half dozen or more others, and the show closes with a snappy burlesque, which abounds in local hits and laughable situations.

THE OLYMPIA.—Manager Burgess made a big hit when he put in the American Detective and Police Museum of mementoes, memorials and curios of criminal life as an adjunct to his list of attractions. The exhibition attracts thousands weekly, and is one of the most interesting—in fact, the only one of its kind—ever shown in this city. The place is visited daily by members of the detective and police patrol force of this and other cities, and they readily agree that the collection is one of the most complete character ever completed. The scenes of the present Americo-Spanico rupture are also very attractive, but the representations of the New York Fire Deportment in service are always sure to evoke a storm of applause as they are shown on the bioscope. On the stage are the living pictures, as presented by a corps of comely lasses, and a variety show fills up a very entertaining programme. The "rough riders" outfit in the lower lobby is also a big drawing card.

THE NICKELODEON.—It costs but a trifle of cash to visit this jolly little house, but you get your money's worth ten times over while you are there. Manager J. N. Genin is constantly on the alert to keep with the times in producing novel and attractive features, and that he is a success in that respect is shown by the big crowds that frequent his house day and night, in and out, the week around. For the present week he presents his patrons a very attractive variety stage show and a burlesque and comedy troupe, and in the lower hall will be seen the duo of young French female wrestlers, Mlles. Picaut and Trouche, whose struggles in the huge tank of water last week were a source of much amusement to all who saw them. Capt. Malcom, who walks on the water, is also retained for another week, and various additional novelties add largely to the pleasure of a visit to the "Nick." The regular season of the house will begin Aug. 15, when Manager Genin will open with an unrivalled collection of freaks, curios and entirely new stage attractions.

AUSTIN & STONE'S MUSEUM.—The "house of perpetual prosperity," as Stone & Shaw's Museum is christened, keeps straight on its course of providing ever changing weekly diversion—and, for that matter, instruction for the multitudes who throng the spacious lecture hall, and listen to the eloquence of Prof. Hutchins, as he dilates on and describes the curiosities presented. In the hall this week we have the Cuban insurgents, their second and last week, who were objects of the closest attention and observation last week, and the stories of whose sufferings and hardships, as graphically related by Lecturer Hutchins, awakens the sympathy of all present. On the stage this week are: The Hurbert Troupe, Casey and Leclair, Emery and Marlowe, Edward J. Gallagher, Dooley and Brennan, William J. Hart, Prof. Edwin Kenney, Hewlette and Howard, the Sisters Rousby, Flo. and Fannie Oliver, the Brothers Dubois, and Carl Haighton.

THE CHUTES.—At this season of the year this is the most enjoyable spot in or around Boston to pass away a few hours. Cool and comfortable in every respect, you get your fill of pleasure at a very trifling expenditure of coin, and you will be amply repaid for your visit. By the way, Manager Wallace E. Hyde is in order for congratulations. The boys smoked prime cigars with him last Monday, July 11, and shook his hand with fervor. It is a boy, and, with his mother, is doing well.

NOTES.—Manager George W. Magee, of the Grand Opera House, has returned from his Summer outing, and is at present busily arranging for his coming season, to open early in August. Manager Magee will give his patrons a series of attractions the equal of which has never been presented in this city at popular prices. "The Two Little Vagrants" will be presented here Aug. 15, and Mildred Holland will begin her season's tour as a star in the cast.....Mrs. Agnes Booth-Schoeffel, wife of Manager John B. Schoeffel, of the Tremont Theatre, has arrived here from Europe, accompanied by Sidney Booth.....The lower part of New York, a panoramic view showing the large buildings, Castle Garden, Battery Park, etc., together with views of the landing of a portion of Gen. Shaster's troops, will be shown on the biograph at Keith's Theatre next week.....Assistant Manager Chas. J. Rich, of the Hollis Street Theatre, is summering at Siasconset, Nantucket, with other theatrical celebrities in the neighborhood.....Charles Waldron, formerly general manager for Ed. H. Rush, is now the business manager of Frank V. Dunn's Palace Theatre.....Milton and Dollie Nobles will be seen at Keith's next month, in "Why Walker Reformed.".....The Little Minister" will be seen here early next season, with Maude Adams in the principal role....."The Female Drummer" will open the Park Theatre here Aug. 15, and rehearsals will begin July 25. The comedy is a new one by Blaney, and this will be its first production on any stage.....Manager George Milbank, of Austin & Stone's Museum, has booked for next week a group of novelties that appeared with the Barnum & Bailey Show during the noted London season, and among the striking features will be ten trained great winged geese, also an acrobatic Soudanese ape and goat, and the week will also be notable for the first appearance in this country of Sig. Martinelli, Neapolitan modeler in clay. Manager Frank V. Dunn, of the Palace Theatre, is enlarging his enterprises, and in about two weeks he will open his latest amusement acquisition, the Park Theatre, at Manchester. Mr. Dunn will run the house on first class principles, and make it a strictly family resort in all respects. A very liberal outlay of money has resulted in great improvement in the ornamentation, furnishing and stage fittings of the house, and it is now one of the neatest and brightest places of amusement on the New England circuit.....Wm. A. Brady brings "'Way Down East" to the Tremont Theatre next month, and in the cast will be Phœbe Davies, Odell Williams, Chas. V. Seaman, Felix Haney and all the other favorites who made the play such a success in New York last season.

Springfield.—At the Nelson Theatre, July 11-16, the Madison Square Opera Co. played the "Mikado" and "Chimes of Normandy," to good business, and this week will present "Said Pasha," "Olivette" and "Pinafore."

MOUNTAIN PARK.—P. J. Casey, of the Hayes Amusement Co., is doing the booking for Mountain Park, and with the entertainment department under his efficient management this resort is rapidly increasing in popularity. The attractions are much better than the usual "park" performances, and greatly appreciated by people of this vicinity. Daley's Vaudeville Co. entertained large crowds the past week, and 18-23 Hayes' Virginia Troubadours will hold the boards.

NOTES.—Managers P. F. Shea & Co., of the Nelson and New Gilmore Theatres, have leased the theatre now in course of construction on the site of the old Bijou, Front Street, Worcester, Mass..... Sol Davis is organizing a new stock company in this city for the coming season. Charles Bowser and Ellenore Carroll have been engaged, and rehearsals will be held in the New Gilmore.

Taunton.—At Sabbatia Park, week of July 11, the Tally-ho Minstreis had the largest audience of the season. For week of 18 Gorman's Big Vaudeville Co. will be the attraction.

DIGHTON ROCK PARK, week of 11, Prof. P. C. Bonnette gave balloon ascensions with parachute drop every afternoon and evening. He is re-engaged for week of 18.

PILGRIM PARK.—Gorman's Specialty Alliance came week of 11. For week of 18, Howard's Comique Novelty Co. will present a big bill.

Lowell.—At Lakeview Theatre Andrews' Opera Co. played "Mikado" and "Martha" during week ending July 16, to large houses. The company open its third week's engagement 18.

NICKELODEON.—La Belle Alexandria, Pearl Dionne, Swift and Zolo, Dionne are billed for 18 and week.

WILLOW DALE PARK.—John Weber, Alice Barnes, Clara Moss, W. J. Holmes, Marie Stanley, Mlle. Ordlar are billed 18 and week.

Fall River.—At Lincoln Park, week of July 18: Raymon Moore, Lawrence Crane, Mr. and Mrs. Graham and the Ventini Trio. Week of 25, Kate Davis is the headline. The patronage is the best that has been known in years, which speaks well for Al. Haynes' management.....The renovation of the Casto is going on apace. The opening in September will find it one of the prettiest vaudeville theatres in this section.

VIRGINIA.

Richmond.—Continued bad weather the fore part of last week was again responsible for the limited attendance at the vaudeville parks, but towards the close of the week conditions improved and with it business.

MAIN STREET PARK.—Opening 18 and week: Charles and Lottie Freemont, Annie Lloyd, Leslie and Curdy, Clerise Sisters, and Sisters Bernard.

BROAD STREET PARK.—Billy Van, Flatow and Dunn, McIntyre and Peak, Gallagher and Evans, and Harry Taft.

Norfolk.—This week's amusements opened under disadvantageous circumstances, rain again demonstrating its power. But as the week drew to a close the weather became perfect, and, as a consequence, business was all to be desired.

ATLANTIC GARDEN.—New people week 18 are Saville and Young, and Bessie Harris.

FRANKLIN THEATRE.—People who open week 18: The Jarretts, May Flemming and Francis Hudgins.

OCEAN VIEW.—People to be seen week 18: Rice and Elmer, Flossie Simott, Edward Leonard, Oscar P. Sisson and Esther Wallace.

Petersburg.—The Academy of Music was dark week of July 11.....The W. H. Harris Nickel Plate Shows gave two performances to fair business July 16.

DEATHS IN THE PROFESSION.

JAMES M. SHIELDS, an actor, died July 13, at the Presbyterian Hospital, Chicago, Ill., of quick consumption, and was buried from his mother's residence July 15. Mr. Shields was twenty-six years old and for the past two years was connected with Fitz & Webster's "A Breezy Time" Co., and before that with "A Turkish Bath" and several other attractions.

GRACE WALLACE ROOT, an actress, committed suicide by taking chloroform July 15, at Bailey's Island, in Casco Bay, off the coast of Maine. She was twenty-nine years old, and had appeared with one of the Frohman companies.

CHAS. ALFRED BECKWITH, tank performer and swimmer, died July 2, in London, Eng., aged thirty-five years. His father was a veteran swimmer, and the family name has long been associated with aquatic amusements.

Under the Tents.

INDEPENDENCE WEEK ECHOES FROM BARNUM & BAILEY.—Independence Day was never more enthusiastically celebrated than was the one just spent by the Barnum & Bailey Greatest Show on Earth at Glasgow, Scotland. July Fourth is a double anniversary with this show, since Manager J. A. Bailey was born on that day, in 1847, and it is always celebrated with zest by the company. But the national holiday had new interest when it came for the first time to many of the Americans of the company in a foreign land, reminding them of home. The welcome news from Santiago of the destruction of the Spanish squadron added to the enthusiasm, and started the laggards to hunting for the national colors to display. Most of our performers were decorated with the emblem of Liberty, and many of them had secured expensive and beautiful costumes for the occasion. The exceptions in the wearing of the national colors were a couple of Spaniards, a troupe of Italian acrobats with strong Spanish tendencies, and, though it will perhaps seem hard to credit it, a few American performers who think more of a ha'pence than they do of their country, and who came in for a good roasting on all sides for their lack of patriotism. It is hardly likely that any of our patrons realized that these offenders were Americans, and we all feel happy that they did not. Carl Clair had been saving up a trunk full of patriotic music, and he brought it all out. For the seventy horse act he led the National airs with the "Star Spangled Banner." The event of the day was the dinner. Charles Kohl had outdone himself, and a large American flag was entwined with the British union jack, and wreathed about a large portrait of Mr. Bailey in the centre of the tent. The Scottish lion had the place of honor over the entrance, and every flag under the canopy was floating to the breeze, except that of Spain. At the opening of the season a Spanish flag was ordered with the others, but it could not be found, and the only explanation of its absence was that one of the elephants had eaten it in a patriotic moment. All the company, with the Glasgow newspaper men, who had been made guests for the day, gathered in the tent at an early hour and waited for Mr. Bailey's entrance. There were no speeches—we do better than that, as one Glasgow editor remarked—we worry no one with long winded spouting, but give all a chance to enjoy themselves. Mr. Bailey's admiration and gratitude were expressed quite as plainly as though he had delivered a speech on the subject, and as soon as he was seated at the head of the tables a menu that did full honor to the occasion was discussed. The napkins (serviettes, we are all learning to call them) bore on the corners the handsome new President's flag and the Union Jack, with the rampant lion of Scotland in the center and the words "Long live McKinley." "Success to Sampson." "Prosperity to Barnum & Bailey's Show." "Glasgow, Scotland, July 4, 1898." The menus were printed on a handsome card and showed a portrait of Mr. Bailey, the flags of the United States and Great Britain, and the words: "Many happy returns of the day. July 4, 1898. Great Britain and the United States of America; divided in 1776; united in 1898." "Blood is thicker than water." The splendid spirits of every one about the show were manifested in the performances, which never went with more dash, the patriotic fervor in the hearts of all communicating itself to their work, and it was a common observation among the large crowds of spectators that all were in the best of form. None of us will ever forget our Fourth in Glasgow. Everything national goes well with this show, and every afternoon our boys enjoy a game of baseball, which excites both curiosity and interest among the wearers of the kilts. The happiest man around the whole show is undoubtedly Rohelia Judge, who, being Cuban born and bred, having a father in the insurgent army, and longing to see Cuba free, now realizes that his heart's desire is soon to be realized, thanks to Uncle Sam's loyal sons, and when the news reached us of Santiago, notwithstanding that it is his native city, and reports seemed to indicate that it would soon be in ruins, his joy knew no bounds. So excited was he that he shook hands with our Spanish members before he realized that a bottle of tears would perhaps have suited them better. Business continues splendid and everybody is in good health.

NOTES FROM THE JOHN ROBINSON SHOW.—Our show is now in its eleventh week of the season and all goes well. Our CLIPPERS of July 9 arrived on time and were welcomed

World of Players.

THE FAIR LIST.

Attention is directed to the list of State, County and District Fairs in all parts of the United States and Canada, which appears in another part of this issue of THE CLIPPER. It has been compiled with great care from the official lists received from the various agricultural societies throughout the country, and from other sources, and is as nearly correct as it is possible to make it. Very many readers of this paper are professionally interested in these annual expositions, and to those a careful perusal of the list is recommended.

— Eugene A. Phelps, stage manager for Rentfrow's Jolly Pathfinders, writes as follows: "After a very prosperous season of fifty-six weeks we closed July 9, at Flint, Mich. We, the members of Mr. Rentfrow's Co., wish to thank him for the courteous manner with which he treated us, and to say that salaries were paid in full. With two exceptions the company will remain the same for next season, which opens early in August. Prof. E. G. Able will retain the band and orchestra, which met with so much success throughout the East. Next season we will make a feature of our electro-spectacular production of 'Faust.' Our electric effects will be new, startling and something never before produced on any stage. The entire wardrobe is being made by Madame Honte, of Philadelphia. Mr. Rentfrow is at Jackson, Mich., getting out new paper of original design for next season. We have good time booked, and will have one of the strongest repertory companies on the road. Mrs. Rentfrow has recovered from her sickness and gone with her daughter, Grace Rentfrow, to the Thousand Islands for the Summer; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Borton, to Bay City; Prof. Able, to Lincoln, Neb.; W. B. Benjamin, to Rosebery, Ore.; A. D. McKee, to New York; R. Warren, to Niagara Falls; S. Mompas, to Mominee, Wis.; H. D. Fordyce, to Cedar Falls, Ia.; Helen Myrtle and Jap Rentfrow, to Chicago; Senora Ogarita, to Denver, Col.; C. D. Hatfield and Eugene A. Phelps, to Chicago."

— Scott Raymond holds contracts signed by the following people, to appear with his attraction; Lester Cohn, business manager in advance; Orson Clifford, stage director; Eugene Phelps, stage manager; H. R. Lurvey, leader band and orchestra; Ned Curtiss, Henry Munger, stage carpenter; A. B. Berton, Honan and Cawley, Ivy and Mack, Sadie Hart, Marie Weeks, Frankie C. Gray, Gracie Hickey, Chas. B. Curtis, Ed. G. Andrews, Bert Benjimine, Remmie Fluette, Fred W. Perkins, Henry Trial and A. B. Fletcher.

— Tommy Shearer opens his regular season at Marion, O., week of Aug. 29, and is booked well into the coming season, covering most of the territory of last season, where the company left an excellent impression. The roster: Tommy Shearer, Tedd. Brackett, Paul Hudson, W. H. Vedder, Edwin Barton, Spencer Carlton, A. H. Dustan, Isabelle Fletcher, Josie Mitchell-Vickers, Marie Blair and Alice Ives. Executive staff: Business manager, Harry R. Vickers; advance representative, W. C. Robey; musical director, J. E. Love. Mr. Shearer is now busy perfecting some new effects in the way of scenery and stage settings for his repertory, which will consist of "Dangers of a Great City," "Blacklisted," "Camille," "My Lady Winchester," "The Sultan's Daughters," "The Waif of the Mines," "Little Miss Military," and possibly "Only a Farmer's Daughter."

— Frederick H. Wilson may add "The Bells of Shandon" to his repertory, in which case Jas. W. Ryan, who formerly starred in it, will be featured, leaving Mr. Wilson out of the cast. The season opens Aug. 22. Eighteen people will be carried, and the continuous policy which brought success last season will be adhered to.

— The Erie Railroad Transfer Co.'s stables, in Jersey City, N. J., were destroyed by fire July 14. In the second story Julia Arthur had stored a lot of stage scenery and eighteen trunks containing costumes. Only two of the trunks were saved. The other sixteen, with all the scenery, were destroyed.

— According to a cablegram from Charles Frohman, received in this city, three thousand persons attended a special performance of "Sue," given by Annie Russell at the Crystal Palace, London, afternoon of July 14.

— Marion Giroux has been engaged to fill the vacancy made in the cast of "Why Smith Left Home" by the death of Berenice Wheeler, who perished on the Burgogne.

— Vernona Jarbeau has chartered a canal boat, and is spending her Summer vacation making a trip to the Thousand Islands.

— Stewart Lithgow, manager of Frank M. and John B. Wills' starring tour in the musical comedy, "In Atlantic City," spent several days in Atlantic City, N. J., with Manager John B. Wills, of Guvenator's Theatre. He reports having signed Pat and Mattie Rooney and the Harvey Sisters while there. The season opens Aug. 10, at the Hartford Opera House, Hartford, Ct., for three performances prior to the opening of the Star Theatre's season in New York, Aug. 13. The company will number twenty-five people. Jos. Nichols has signed as musical director, while John F. Sullivan will have charge of the affairs ahead, assisted by Warren Ferguson.

— A new departure is announced to be made by Davis & Keogh in their forthcoming production of a sensational play entitled "Strangled on Sunday." It has been customary to use a running horse in theatrical productions, but Davis & Keogh have decided to deviate from the establis..ed rule, and will use a trotting horse in their new play. In "Strangled on Sunday" it is proposed to have this horse make a dive of thirty-five feet into a big tank of water. The action of the play requires him to walk up a winding roadway at the rear of the stage to a platform attached to the fly gallery; a blind girl is then strapped to the horse's back, and the horse is compelled to dive headlong from the dizzy height of the fly gallery into a tank of water on a level with the stage.

— Managers Klaw & Erlanger have secured, to support the Rogers Brothers in their new play, Georgia Caine, George Marion, Edith St Clair and Le Petite Adelaide.

— Jas. H. Love has signed with Lincoln J. Carter to handle the advance and press work of Carter's Western "Chattanooga" Company. Their season will open Aug. 22, in San Francisco, Cal., at Leavitt's Comedy Theatre, and all cities on the Pacific coast will be played during the Winter.

— John Kellard was married in this city July 2 to Mabel Aylward, a non-professional.

— It has been decided by a number of admirers of the late Anton Seidl to issue a memorial volume. It will be published in a limited edition by Charles Scribner's Sons, and every volume will be numbered. Unless subscriptions for as many as three hundred are received the edition will not be attempted. If there should be any profit from the undertaking it will be handed over to Mrs. Seidl.

— The Harvey Sisters have signed with Frank M. and John B. Wills for their comedy, "In Atlantic City," for next season, opening at the Star Theatre, New York City, Aug. 12.

— Margaret Reid, the American prima donna, who has been so successful during this season singing with Maurice Grau's Company at Covent Garden, London, has signed a contract to appear in opera at Liege after the close of the London season. After that she will leave for this country, making her appearance with the Maurice Grau Opera Company.

— Manager Rosenbaum has signed Mlle. Pilar-Morin to play the part of a Japanese girl in May Irwin's production of "Kate Kip."

— W. J. Ferguson is to play the leading comedy role in "The Turtle," at the Manhattan Theatre.

— E. E. Rice is to compose the music for a new burlesque for which Richard Carle is writing the libretto, to be called "The Night Blooming Serious, or the Queen of Burlesque." Mr. Rice and Ben Teal also are collaborating on a musical comedy.

— Five large trunks filled with music belonging to Gilmore's Band were attached July 13 in Baltimore, Md., by Edgar Strakosch, the manager of Music Hall, on a claim for $352.22, advanced to pay board bills.

— Major O'Laughlin goes with "Uncle Josh Spruceby" next season.

— Lawrence B. McGill closed the Summer season with the Harry Davis Avenue Theatre Stock Co., Pittsburg, Pa., July 16. After a three weeks' rest he goes to Harrisburg, Pa., to begin rehearsals with the King Dramatic Company.

— Katherine Grey, who will play Celia Pryce, supporting Charles Coghlan, in "The Royal Box," next season, has returned from Paris, where she expected to remain until Aug. 1. Mr. Coghlan, who is spending the Summer at his country home, Souris, P. E. I., writes his manager that he will finish his new play about Aug. 15, when he will return to town.

— Edwin Arden has been engaged by Charles Frohman for the latter's coming production of "A Brace of Partridges."

LOTTIE BLAIR PARKER,

Whose portrait appears above, is a successful playwright, who has employed in her writing experience gained upon the stage. She began her professional career as a member of the old stock company at the Boston Theatre, and was afterward a member of several road companies, including those of Mme. Janauschek and Lawrence Barrett. Her first attempt at playwriting was made in competition for a prize offered by The New York Herald for the best one act play. Mrs. Parker's play, "White Roses," won this prize. It was immediately purchased by Daniel Frohman, who gave it a production, and it proved very successful. Mrs. Parker wrote two more one act plays, "Dick o' the Hills" and "The Broken Sword," both of which were produced by students of dramatic schools. She then tried her hand at a more important work, with the result that her latest play, "Way Down East," was one of the prominent successes of the past season. It enjoyed a lengthy metropolitan run, and will no doubt win additional triumphs during its coming season on the road.

— Viola Allen is spending the Summer on the Isle of Man, the guest of Hall Caine, studying her part and getting local color for his play, "The Christian." Walter Clark Bellows will stage the play. Miss Allen will open her season in Washington, D. C., Sept. 20, and in the event of the company being unable to fill the time arranged for at the Lyric Miss Allen will produce "The Christian" for the first six weeks in large cities outside of New York, and return here for a run at another prominent theatre at the expiration of that time. The cast for the play has been completed, and will include Frank Worthing, who will play John Storm. The other members are: R. J. Dillon, the Father Superior; George Woodward, Archdeacon Wealthy; John B. Mason, Horatio Drake; Jamison Lee Finney, Lord Rubert Ure; Myron Calice, Faro King; Edgar Morton, the Manager; Ernest Hastings, Brother Paul; Guy Nichols, Brother Andrew; Mrs. Georgia Dickson, Mrs. Callender; Ethel Marlowe, Polly Love; Carrie Merrilees, Betty; Edith Merrilees, Nett; Bessie Dunn, Letty; Perdita Hudspeth, Liza, and Viola Allen, Glory Quayle.

— J. W. Gillingwater has closed as advance for Robert Sherman's Co., and is summering at St. Louis, Mo.

— Charles Stow, the circus bill writer, has been engaged by Davis & Keogh to take charge of the publication department of their numerous enterprises.

— Sam Bernard has written H. B. Sire from Mount Clemens, Mich., where he is spending his vacation, that the company which will support him in the production of "The Marquis of Michigan" is, in his opinion, an exceptionally strong one. Manager Rosenbaum announces the cast complete as follows: Maud Haslam, Dan Collyer, Maud White, Charles Jackson, Helen Brackett, William Burress, Grace Freeman, William Post, Vivian Townsend and Lillian Collins. The new comedy will be staged by William Post.

— Bonnie Meyers, of the Meyer-Thorn Co., writes to THE CLIPPER as follows: "We have been troubled with quite a siege of sickness in our company. James H. Thorne has just recovered from a two weeks' illness from erysipelas, and James Allen is still very sick with typhoid fever. We were obliged to leave him behind five weeks ago, and he is still too weak to raise his head from his pillow. His wife, Zephie Dinsmore, is with him and he has the best of care and attention. Frank Thorne is just recovering from a severe attack of quinsy, and is still confined to his bed. The remainder of the company are enjoying good health."

— 'Cycle Park Theatre Notes, Dallas, Tex.: Beaumont Claxton and Jewell Kelley have joined for leads and heavies. Knoll and McNeil closed a two weeks' engagement July 10, and the Johnstons opened 11 for one week, with McCoy and Reagan to follow week of 18. Our dramatic stock company wins new laurels for themselves at every performance. Lettie Colton joins for soubrettes 17. On Tuesday, 12, Managers Geo. W. Loomis & Co. generously donated the Park to the young ladies of Dallas, who gave a benefit to the Texas soldier boys. The receipts netted the young ladies $286. Stage Manager Lou N. Harrington prepared an extra programme for the occasion, which was heartily enjoyed by all. The Carleton Sisters and Thos. P. Jackson closed 10, to rejoin the Perucchi Beldeni Co., with whom they were under contract for the coming season. 'Cycle Park has become the favorite resort of Dallas, and all are loud in their praises of Managers Geo. W. Loomis & Co. and their company.

— Copy for the autobiography of Manager Jas. R. Waite is now in the hands of the printers. It will be published under the title of "Twenty Years as a Barnstormer," and will relate in colloquial style all the humorous and interesting events in a busy twenty years in the "show business."

— Melbourne McDowell, husband of Fanny Davenport, will next season appear in a melodrama, as it is not thought that his wife will in any case be able to return to the stage.

— Wolodia Ronjitsky, a Russian pianist, seven years old, recently made his appearance in London, and was most favorably received. It is very probable that he will be heard in New York this coming Winter. He is a pupil of his grandfather, his father and his uncle, all of whom are Russian musicians.

— Raymond Gilbert writes to THE CLIPPER thus: "In his letter to THE CLIPPER Francis Morey states he played 'Faust' until the Clarence Bennett Co. closed. In this he made an error; the company is even now upon the road. When Mr. Morey left the company suddenly I was given the part of Faust, and other leading roles, upon short notice, and had the offer to retain the position for the coming season. In 'Two Roses,' 'Rob Roy' and 'Maine and Georgia' (the last named was only rehearsed) I was given parts equal to Mr. Morey, and was one of the leading supports for Clarence Bennett the entire season. My true meaning was evidently misconstrued. I meant to announce I had been with Clarence Bennett forty weeks, and had played his leading support for the last several weeks—seven in all."

— Mme. Sofia Scalchi's concert tour, under the management of Geo. C. Dent, will begin in October, last twenty-five weeks, and will include visits to the principal cities as far as the Pacific coast. Of her company, Codurri Carzio, tenor, has not been heard in America. Marcello Lobardi will be musical director, and the company will also include Helene Noldi and Achille Alberti.

— Jack Henderson has joined Merri Bell Opera Co. to play leading comedy.

— Frost's Stock Co., which has been in Canada a year, goes to St. Johns, Newfoundland, for a season, then plays return engagements in Canada and the West. The roster: Mabel M. Frost, Flora V. Frost, Dawn V. Frost, Mrs. Frank Y. Dean, Mrs. E. S. Lawrence, Walter Hill, Frank P. Dean, James E. Willace, W. S. Percival, E. S. Lawrence, and F. H. Frost, manager.

— Corse Payton has received from the owner, A. M. Palmer, the manuscript and parts of "Jim the Penman," for which Mr. Palmer has received royalties in full for the entire season. Mr. Payton will give the play an elaborate production.

— James O'Neill will be seen this coming season in a new play by Joseph Hatton, entitled "When Greek Meets Greek," produced for a brief period by Olga Nethersole, under the title of "A Daughter of France."

— H. C. Leslie has commenced divorce proceedings against his wife, Alice M. Leslie.

— James L. King has been appointed receiver for the Grand Opera House at Topeka, Kan., by Judge Hazen, of the District Court. The appointment marks the passing of the house from the hands of L. M. Crawford, who has owned it for several years. The receivership was asked for by the attorneys of L. B. Kendall, of Denver, Col., who holds a second mortgage on the house for $16,000. The property will be sold under foreclosure within ninety days, and it is understood that Mr. Kendall will buy it in at the mortgage price, and will lease it to some one to run in competition with the new Crawford, owned and managed by L. M. Crawford. The Grand Opera House is one of the largest in the West, and the stage is the only one between Kansas City and Denver that could accommodate Fanny Davenport's production of "Cleopatra."

— Manager Joe W. Speares writes: "Next season will make the fourth for 'Finnigan's Ball.' Many farces bearing a somewhat similar title have come and gone, but, like the brook, 'Finnigan's Ball' seems to run on forever. I have engaged a capable company to support Murray and Mack, and look for a big season. We will have two companies out next season playing the farce. I will manage the one featuring Murray and Mack, and Matt Smith will have charge of the one featuring the play. Mr. Smith will confine his operations to the East and middle West, while we will play the West and South."

— Story & Ketchum's National Theatre Co. Notes: We will open our season in Belleville, Wis., Aug. 1, after which we will play towns and cities of Wisconsin and Minnesota. The following people have been engaged: Thomas Ellenwood, Harry L. Beck, Charlie Paxton, Fred C. Thomas, Happy Harry Hoy, R. S. Ewen, G. E. McTaggart, May Pfaff, Ruth Craven, Marguerite France and Little Thelma. Ten of our people will do specialties. Mr. Story will take care of the front of the house and Mr. Ketchum will go in advance. We have secured an almost entirely new repertory and are negotiating with Howard & Doyle and the International Play Bureau for the latest successes.

— Last Winter L. M. Crawford, of Topeka, Kan., started out to manage the Del Conte Italian Grand Opera Company. After an eventful tour of the Pacific coast trouble broke out and Mr. Crawford found himself holding the scenery and costumes for a claim of $1,250. The claim has been paid and the property released. Mr. Crawford still holds the copyright to the opera, "La Boheme," and will demand a royalty for its production in America.

— Sackett & Hardy write to THE CLIPPER thus: "It has been finally decided to have the New York production of 'The Dawn of Freedom' occur on Sept. 19, at the Fourteenth Street Theatre. After the run at this theatre it will be seen in Chicago, Ill.; Boston, Mass.; Philadelphia, Pa., and a few more of the larger cities."

— Manager Edwin P. Hilton, of "The Gay Matinee Girl" Co., writes as follows from Chicago: "I never in all my experience felt so sure of a big season as I do of the one which opens late in August. I am simply overwhelmed with offers of splendid time and terms. My new scenery, which is magnificent, is completed. I have, I think, the prettiest wardrobe ever used in a musical comedy, and I have engaged the exceedingly clever soubrette, Mattie Vickers, for the title role. Others with whom I have signed contracts are: Charles H. Dean, James F. Green, Elmer Jerome, Wm. Herbert, Al. Strauss, Thos. J. Culligan, Lillian Durham, Myrtle Franks, Bertha La Frantz and Ella Dewolf. My rehearsals start in Chicago, Ill., about Aug. 8, and the season will open about Aug. 25."

— Comody and Hyland go with Fitz and Webster's "A Breezy Time" Co. for the coming season.

— Agnes Wilkinson and Alice Barnes are engaged for Elsie De Fourney's "Joan of Arc" Co.

— Forrest and Lang state that they are going to produce a sensation this season, which will be known as "The Pulse of Greater New York." It will consist of dramatic, farce, comedy and trick pantomime work, and the following people have been thus far engaged: William A. Lang, Robert L. Forrest, William I. Blish and James Le Clair.

— Rudolph Aronson has opened negotiations with the leaders of three of the largest bands and orchestras in Europe to play a season of four months in New York, commencing next May. They include the Garde Republicaine Band of France, Ziehr's Orchestral Band of Berlin and the Imperial Gypsy Orchestra of Vienna.

— Rosenthal, the pianist, who broke down in health the middle of last season in Chicago, being compelled to abandon his tour, has again recovered his health and is rusticating in the Tyrol, preparing for his American tour, which opens in this city on the evening of Oct. 26, in Carnegie Hall.

— Cecile Loraine, a prima donna soprano, will make her appearance in this country the coming season, for the first time on the concert stage. Although an American by birth, Mlle. Loraine has never been heard in public in this country.

— Barton Williams, M. Wolf, C. Harry Robertson, Charles Leekins and Harry P. Coffin have signed with the Klimt-Hearn Co. for next season. "Life in Greater New York" has been secured by the company from Fred J. Wildman.

— A new farce comedy, with incidental music, will be produced at an early date by Harry Rogers, who will assume the leading character. The piece is entitled "Solomon's Return from the War," and was written by Willis Arden, the author of "A Spy of Spain," the military melodrama which was played in this city last May.

— Warren W. Ashley, after closing a pleasant season with Lincoln J. Carter's "Heart of Chicago" Co., is summering at his home on Rock River, Dixon, Ill.

— Spenser Walker is no longer connected with the Big Afro-American Specialty Co. as business manager, having resigned to accept an engagement at Faurot Opera House, Lima, O., supporting Chas. Mortimer and Agnes Leone Gamble.

— W. A. Moriarty and wife, Frankie Gray, are rusticating at their home in Clarion, Pa.

— The Kempton Komedy Kompany closes its season at Central City, Col., July 23. It opens next season at Colorado Springs, Aug. 8, and is booked through the old circuit, Kansas, Colorado, Oklahoma and Texas.

— Henry Guy Carleton has changed the name of his new comedy from "A Wise Child's Father" to "The Cuckoo." A cuckoo clock plays an important role in the piece.

— Eleanora Allen and Frederic Sumner, having closed a six weeks' Summer engagement with the H. R. Jacobs stock company, in Ottawa, Can., have been engaged for "The Egyptian of Pompeii," to be put on for a run at Atlantic City, N. J. Miss Allen will assume the role of Nydia, the blind girl, while Mr. Sumner will appear as Apaecedes, the Greek boy.

— Frederick McCloy, lessee and manager of the East End Theatre, Pittsburg, Pa., was quietly married in that city, July 12, to Georgia Anderson. His bride is not an actress.

— Lieutenant "Dan" Godfrey, the English bandmaster, and his British Guards Band sailed for home July 12. Many of their friends and acquaintances were at the dock.

— James Ten Brooke, late of Dooley and Ten Brooke, has signed with Whitaker & Crossley for their Russell Bros.' "Maids to Order" Co.

— John G. McDowell does not go with Royer Bros.' "Next Door" Co. the coming season, but has signed with Fitz & Webster's "A Breezy Time" Co. This will make the second season for Mr. McDowell with the above company.

— E. S. Brigham, manager of the Crawford Theatre, St. Joseph, Mo., and booking representative for the Crawford circuit, which includes theatres in Topeka, St. Joseph, Wichita and Leavenworth, reports having booked a strong line of attractions for the circuit since his arrival in New York. Mr. Brigham states that last season's business at the Crawford, in St. Joseph, was the largest in the history of the house, and he expects a very prosperous season for all the theatres on the circuit.

— Monte Thompson has secured for the Bennett-Moulton Co.: A. C. Gunter's "Mr. Barnes of New York;" Sidney Ellis' plays, "Bonnie Scotland" and "Darkest Russia," and from Louis Aldrich "My Partner."

— The Scoville Caufmann Co. opens at Pavilion Theatre, Clear Lake, Iowa, July 18.

— The R. J. Erwood Stock Company, at New Philadelphia, Ohio, will open season the first week in September. Special scenery will be carried for the plays owned by R. J. Erwood. The route is booked for Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky.

— W. Ganet will produce his new play, "Gaffir Carewe," July 20, and will give it a road tour next season.

— Manager Phil Ketchum has now everything in readiness for the production of "O'Hooligan's Wedding." The season will open about Sept. 5, and rehearsals will begin at Pittsburg, Pa.

— The Arnold-Welles players are contemplating going South again next season, opening at Hagerstown, Md., Aug. 15. Harry Arnold, Lula Espey and Chas. L. Welles alone remain of the original company.

— Joseph L. Roe has signed with the Wilbur Comedy Company as comedian.

— W. J. Jossey, of Jossey & Marion's Company, writes: We produced our new play, "The Signal of Liberty," at the Third Avenue Theatre, Seattle, Wash., week of July 4, to an aggregate business of $1,750. Rather good business, considering that it is the Summer, and the fact that we used stock paper. We have placed large orders for special paper with Greve, of Milwaukee, and Donaldson, and expect to have an assortment second to no show on the road. I have written a new act for the play, showing the sinking of the collier Merrimac in the harbor of Santiago de Cuba. We expect to continue all Summer, business being exceptionally good.

— James Kay Applebee Jr. is engaged for the Bennett-Moulton Co and not the Kennedy Co., as reported a few weeks since.

— Clifford I. Venie and wife are spending their second Summer at Niagara Falls, N. Y. Mr. Venie has concluded to continue to produce "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" with local talent, under the auspices of prominent societies. He has also bought a half interest in one of the latest improved bicycle handle bars, that will be on the market next season.

— A. T. Gordon and wife, Louise Gordon, are spending a pleasant Summer at Silver City, Idaho, where Mr. Gordon is employed.

— Della Pringle Notes: Another beautiful stage setting will be added to our scenery list. On July 12 Sosman & Landis, the Chicago scenic artists, contracted to furnish a complete new set from the curtain line to back of stage, consisting of a combination conservatory and palace filled with statuary, stairways, etc., their contract calling for strictly first class work. Our special war tax stamp was issued to us July 1, it being the first one secured by any company in our section. Miss Pringle has entirely recovered her health and is devoting the entire Summer to her new productions.

— O. F. Miller, manager Alhambra and Lyceum Theatres, Milwaukee, Wis., has been in New York for the past week booking for his two houses. He reports having secured a fine line of attractions for next season. The Alhambra Theatre will be enlarged, and will have a seating capacity of three thousand. Primrose & Dockstader's Minstrels have been booked for an early date at the Alhambra, and will probably open the season at that popular house.

— Manager Horace Grant announces that Jean Renolds and her company will open their sixth season on Aug. 22. The following is the repertory selected: "The Old Home," a new comedy drama, written by Frederick Renolds; "Under the Red Cross," "Fighting Fortune," "Arabian Nights," "Camille," "Moths," "A False Step" and "A Roman Romance." The company is booked for forty weeks through New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, and direct to the Pacific coast.

— A press dispatch from Portland, Me., dated July 16, says: "Grace Wallace Root, an actress, of Chicago, Ill., once with one of Mr. Frohman's companies, and formerly of Newtonville, Mass., daughter of George Frederick Root, composer of 'Marching Through Georgia,' committed suicide by taking chloroform last evening at Bailey's Island, in Casco Bay. The act was caused by despondency from ill health. She was twenty-nine years old. Miss Root left her mother's cottage in the afternoon, walked to the extreme easterly end of the island, and there ended her life."

— Mrs. Kate Wieberly and her husband, Charles Wieberly, separated within one year after their marriage, and she is now suing him in the Supreme Court for an absolute divorce. An application will be made during the coming week for $20 weekly alimony and a counsel fee of $250 to enable her to prosecute the action.

— Edmund Burroughs has been re-engaged for light comedy with the King Dramatic Co.

— "The Military Maid," a new musical farce comedy, by Henry Righton, music by Louis Blake, will be produced for the first time on any stage at the St. Charles Theatre, New Orleans, La., Aug. 4-6.

— Ben. W. Stone and wife, Bessie Marie Gordon, are spending the Summer at their home in Binghamton, N. Y.

— Notes from the Ideal Concert Co.: We have just finished booking a fine tour in Iowa, Illinois, Nebraska, Kansas and the South for the coming season. We have engaged Warren Bunkerr, Burt C. Ruby, Robert B. Abbott. Mr. Ruby and Mr. Grabbe will furnish the musical part of the programme, putting on a musical sketch. Mat Lamb will have charge of the cineograph, and we are arranging for a lecturer.

— W. H. Gould, who is spending the Summer in Ogdensburg, N. Y., has signed with Halford and Allen's "The Pay Train" for next season, this making his second season with that company.

— Joseph H. Slater and wife, Etta M. Slater, have signed with S. H. Golden for the coming season. Mr. Slater will produce a repertory of his own plays, with Mrs. Slater as pianist. Season commences Aug. 29.

— Little Irene Myers, supported by Charles H. Leyburne and her company, will open the season of 1898-99 in Western Pennsylvania. The route is solidly booked through the cities of the Eastern and Middle States. The roster of the company includes John d'Ormond and Agnes Fuller, late of the Alf. Pearson forces, and twelve others. Sim. Allen is the business representative for Manager Will H. Myers. Alphonso Hafner, scenic artist, is preparing the special scenery, under Mr. Myers' supervision, at Philadelphia.

— Manager S. W. Gumpertz, of the Imperial Theatre, St. Louis, Mo., has engaged the following stock company for next season: Minnie Seligman, Grace Henderson, Nellete Reed, Marian Ellmore, Mattie Earle, Lawrence Hanley, Malcolm Williams, Frank Losee, Hugh Ford, John E. Ravold, and Edmund D. Lyons, stage director.

— Mrs. Jacob Stair, mother of E. D. Stair and Orrin Stair, the Western theatrical managers, died July 14, in Morancy, Mich.

— Geo. H. Nicolai, general manager for E. D. Stair, is also a large holder of stock in the Whitney Warner Publishing Co., song publishers, of Detroit, Mich.

— The Paiges have secured these people: Stanley and Scanlon, Murray Sisters, Arthur Jennings and Joe Simons.

— Chas. Pusey and Louise Gould are engaged by Kelly and Mason for "Who is Who?"

CHRISTIE MacDONALD

Was born in the little town of Pictou, Nova Scotia, but in her youth she came with her parents to reside in Boston, Mass., where she was educated. She made her professional debut as a chorus girl in the company of Francis Wilson, who afterwards gave her a small part in "Erminie," and also made her understudy for the prima donna. Her opportunity to appear in the title role came one evening in Philadelphia, Pa., and, although Miss MacDonald always speaks most modestly of the result, it was evidently satisfactory to Mr. Wilson, for he re-engaged her for the following season, giving her a small part in "The Devil's Deputy," and making her again understudy the principal feminine role. She had many opportunities that season to fill the place of the prima donna, and gained much valuable experience. She next assumed the role of Mrs. Grigg, in "The Chieftain," and subsequently that of Lucinde, in "Half a King." Believing that she had advanced as far as possible in Mr. Wilson's company, she sought a new field, in which her powers might have broader scope. She therefore accepted last season the role of Minutezza, in John Philip Sousa's opera, "The Bride Elect," in which she met with great success. Miss MacDonald is dainty and graceful. She acts well, has a winning personality and a very pleasing voice, which she uses with much skill, her singing during her last engagement having won much commendation.

CALIFORNIA.

Los Angeles.—At the Los Angeles Theatre Carl Marten's Opera Co. closed its Summer season, at popular prices, July 9, with "La Mascotte." On 16 the organization will give a performance of "Faust" for the benefit of the Red Cross Society.

THE BURBANK THEATRE did fairly with "Gloriana" week ending 10. "East Lynne" follows 11-17.

ORPHEUM.—Patronage was good week ending 10. People 11: The Four Cohans, Watson Sisters, the Judges, Douglas and Ford, Tim Murphy and Co., Musical Valmore, Wills and Loretto.

NOTES.—The interest of A. Y. Pearson in the Burbank Theatre has been purchased by Manager John C. Fisher, who is now sole proprietor of the house. .....The Orpheum interior is receiving a new paint make up, which adds greatly to its attractiveness.....A local judge has ordered the deportation of the twenty-nine Chinese actors mentioned in a previous letter.....An out of door performance of "As You Like It," with Helena Modjeska as Rosalind, supported by the Burbank Theatre Co. and local talent, for the benefit of the Red Cross Society, was a success.....Your correspondent became a member of Los Angeles Lodge, No. 99, B. P. O. E., evening of July 6, and in connection therewith received many marked attentions.

Vaudeville and Minstrel

NOTES FROM JOHN W. VOGEL'S AFRO-AMERICAN Mastodon Minstrels, combined with the historic spectacular extravaganza, "Darkest America."—Mr. Vogel, together with his wife and executive staff, including Edgar De Coursey, Chas. Grimsley, Col. I. S. Potts, and some fifteen or twenty relatives and friends, spent the greater portion of last week at Lake Side Park, O., fishing. This was simply a preliminary outing, for Mr. De Coursey has gone East for the purpose of superintending the finishing touches on Mr. Vogel's new palace car, "Flora," which, when completed, will serve to shelter the same party during an extended tour of the resorts along the St. Lawrence River. There is little to be done prior to the opening, for the show is booked almost solid, people are engaged, paper ordered, and wardrobe completed. We open about Aug. 20.

LAWRENCE AND HARRINGTON are concluding an extended engagement over the Western park circuit.

NELSON, GLINSERETI AND DEMONIO were re-engaged by the Spanish-American War Spectacle Co., at Nashville, Tenn., making a three weeks' stay in that city. They opened at the Athletic Park, New Orleans, La., July 10, for a two weeks' engagement.

O'CONNELL AND MACK were at Contoocook River Park, Concord, N. H., last week, with Norumbega Park, Boston, Mass., to follow.

MAE TAYLOR opens at the Casino, Bergen Beach, L. I., July 25, for the remainder of the Summer season. She has signed with Robie's Knickerbockers Burlesquers for next season, to play soubrettes.

HAYES AND LYTTON have signed for next season with Hyde's Comedians. They are at present rusticating at their home in South Milford, Mass., where they are most pleasantly situated.

HIGGINS AND LESLIE are at Riverton Park, Portland, Me., this week, with parks at Auburndale and Dedham, Mass., and Concord, N. H., to follow.

FORD AND DOT WEST are playing their return engagement at Tony Pastor's Theatre, New York, this week. Next week they play the Central Opera House. They have signed with Crane Bros. & Rober for next season, the show opening Sept. 5.

ROBT. J. DALY was a CLIPPER caller last week and reports a good season. He is booked with the Higgins Bros. American Minstrels. The company will consist of Harry Manford, Chas. Kenna, Reid and Damon, Robt. Daly, Frank Erne, John Gilhenny, Frank Schultz, Frank Leroyle and William Collins, Higgins Bros. The show opens in September, at Portland, Maine.

THE TWO GERTIES, Le Claire and Hayes, are combining business with pleasure at Rocky Point, Provinence, R. I., for two weeks. They have the Gorman circuit of parks to follow.

CANFIELD AND CARLETON will next season complete their two years' contract with Hyde's Comedians. They have a new act in preparation.

MLLE. CHESTER soon plays the Castle and Keith circuits and opens at the Alhambra, London, Eng., Dec. 26.

MILLS AND LORETTO have just finished a seven weeks' engagagement on the Orpheum circuit. This was their second engagement on this circuit within a year, and their original time was extended upon both occasions, something very unusual on this circuit. They open on the Hopkins-Castle circuit July 24, for eight weeks, after which they return to this city, opening at Koster & Bial's in December. They were members of the Koster & Bial Vaudeville Show during its tour.

WALLER AND WALLER are with Hill's Vaudevilles for the Summer, and have signed with "O'Houligan's Wedding" Co. for the coming season, to play the Dutchman and soubrette parts.

THE CHICK & PETERS INTERNATIONAL STARS were re-engaged at North Highland

HERBERT AND CARON will continue to be a prominent team name in vaudeville bills, as Frank Herbert, the original member of the old team, has associated himself with one of the Farnam Brothers, and perfected rehearsals of the old act. They opened at Glen Echo Park, Washington, D. C., July 11, and are this week in the bill at Shea's Garden Theatre, Buffalo, N. Y. Mr. Herbert sustains the clowning, which brought into such prominence the fame of the late lamented George Caron, and he informs us that the audiences have thus far received his work with evidences of favor, and adds that his new associate materially assists in bringing the act into comparatively close effectiveness with the former alliance. Mr. Herbert has taken measures to protect the team name and all of the most effective situations in the old acrobatic pantomime, and seems much encouraged at the outlook for the future of the new firm.

LOTTA GLADSTONE opened at the Casino, Harrison Park, Terre Haute, Ind., July 10, and was re-engaged for July 17. She is booked at Broad Ripple Park, Indianapolis, Ind., July 24, with Phœnix Hill Park, Louisville, Ky., for July 31.

CAPT. SIDNEY HINMAN did not take out his water show. He is stationed at Coney Island as life saver, making his thirteenth season. He rescued two lives already this Summer, one lady July 12, and a man July 3. This makes sixty-six lives he has saved at Coney Island.

BABE STANLEY is at the Post Graduate Hospital, undergoing a serious operation.

PROF. LEVINA appeared July 4-11 at Girard's Wonderland Theatre, Buffalo, N. Y.

MABEL WAITE JOHNSON will join Sam Scribner's Gay Morning Glories Co. the coming season.

THE TROUBADOUR FOUR, Wixon, Power, Johnson and Shields, have closed a six weeks' run with the "Around the Town" Co., at the Tremont Theatre, Boston, Mass., and join Cleveland & Wilson's Minstrels the coming season. They have lost only one week in a year and a half, and that because of sickness.

RILEY AND HUGHES will close their twelve weeks' engagement with J. W. Gorman's New York Comedy Co., Sept. 3. They have an offer to open in London, England, with Moore & Burgess' Minstrels, at St. James Hall.

WILLIE OLIVE has just finished a successful engagement over the Burk circuit of parks, and will return to New York to reopen at Koster & Bial's.

BERNARD DYLLYN played the Ferris Wheel Park, Chicago, Ill., last week.

A. J. SEYMOUR had a narrow escape from death at Utica, N. Y., July 9. A motor with two trailers came out of Lafayette Street and was slowing down at the cross walk on Genesee Street, at the foot of the incline from the bridge. The guard rope was up and Mr. Seymour was waiting on the West side of the track for them to pass so that he could go around the end of the rear car and board it from the east side. A single motor car was coming down the incline from the bridge and Mr. Seymour saw it, but he calculated that he had ample time to allow the trailer to pass him and take it before the arrival of the motor. As he turned to round the trailer he was struck by the north bound motor and hurled violently to the ground. Bystanders say that had the cars not stopped when they did his legs would have been mangled by one car, while his head would have been crushed by the others.

TONY AND FLO VERNON have closed four weeks on the Taylor circuit.

ANTON KNOLL, father of A. H. Knoll, died in Erie, Pa., July 4. He came to this country about fifty-five years ago from Germany, and had lived in Erie ever since. Harry Pleon and wife go to London, Eng., where he has a season's engagement at the music halls. We have signed with Paige's Players, to open at the Crawford Theatre, in St. Joseph, Mo., Aug. 22. We will, until our engagement starts, Summer at 'White Bear Lake,' near St. Paul, Minn."

LE ROY BLAND, of Mahara's Minstrels, is summering at Lake Minnetonka, Minn.

ALI AND BENI are playing the Keith circuit. They are at Boston, Mass., this week.

CARR AND MCLEOD played Rocky Springs Park, Va., week of July 11. This week they are at Columbia Park, Va., with Ocean View and Richmond to follow.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

Washington.—The great majority of the Capital City's amusement seekers have evidently hied themselves to the seashore or the mountains, judging from the rather meagre attendance at our places of theatrical or vaudeville entertainment. A few cold or otherwise inclement nights during last week kept most people away, but those who did venture out to either of our open places were well rewarded for their pains, as the managers vied with each other in presenting excellent bills.

LUCKETT & DWYER'S COLUMBIA THEATRE had Conns' Comedy Stock Co. in a repertory of the Summer season's successes, consisting of "Won at Last," "The Mighty Dollar," "Esmeralda," "Brother John" and "Innocent as a Lamb;" all to fair business. This was to have been the last week of the Summer season by this company, but the present week has been added and last Summer's great success, "A Scrap of Paper," will round out the season and close the house till September.

GLEN ECHO PARK.—Amphitheatre made a radical change last week in the bill. The Parry Opera Co. had up to that time presented most excellent opera at ridiculously low prices, but it was found that just as much money could be made and equal satisfaction given by discharging an expensive chorus, retaining the favorite principals, capable of presenting condensed operas or operettas, lasting from forty to fifty minutes, and have the remainder of the evening devoted to vaudeville turns. Consequently last week the retained favorites of the Parry Opera Co., Frank Deshon, Charles Hawley, Thomas Daley, Aileen Coates and Viola D'Armon, with George Towle as leader of orchestra, presented "Charity Begins at Home" most satisfactorily. This was preceded and followed by vaudeville turns by Edith Crasker, Clivette, Whiting Sisters and Caron and Herbert. This week a new operetta, called "Galatea," condensed from Von Suppe's "Pygmalion and Galatea," with the pathos eliminated, is being presented, and the vaudeville portion of the bill is in the hands of the St. Belmos, Swift and Chase, and Clivette.

UNION ROOF GARDEN (West Washington) is doing a thriving business when the elements permit, and Truly Shattuck heads quite a long list of specialty people, which seems to please the patrons.

NOTES.—John Grimes is superintending the improvements now being made at the Bijou Theatre. .....Lotta Mills has been engaged by and will accompany Henri Marteau on his tour of this country next season.....Will Tefft Johnson, having closed with "The Heart of Maryland" Co. in London, has returned to his home in this city, where he will spend his vacation.

FAIRS FOR 1898.

Following our annual custom, we present a list of fairs for the coming Fall. The clashing of dates, the frequent changes and practical impossibility of collecting all the material combine to make a list of this kind only approximately correct; nevertheless, those fairs we record here, made up from the official fair lists, etc., will be found useful to many classes of showmen who have not yet arranged their routes for the season of of 1898-9. The letters preceding dates stand for the months, as A. for August, S. for September, etc. When no initial letter precedes the date it signifies that the month is that last indicated.

NEW YORK CITY.

Last Week's Events.—Amusements in this city have reached an unusually low ebb, and the present condition is likely to remain practically unchanged for at least one month to come. Dullness reigns throughout the entire local amusement domain, for there is but little activity visible among the agencies, and comparatively few engagements are being made for the coming season. In the experience of the present generation of road managers war has been unknown as a factor, and its influence upon the business of the coming season is a matter of anxious conjecture. There seems to be, however, strong faith in the efficacy of an appeal to patriotism, and up to date war dramas will evidently be plentiful. Farce comedy also seems to inspire faith, but very few large ventures in the line of serious drama have been announced. In the vaudeville field there is a prospect that there will be a considerable increase in the number of recruits won from the dramatic stage, and short plays, and even operas, or parts thereof, will enter largely into the make up of the programmes of first class vaudeville houses. We commend these statements to the attention of the vast number of aspirants for histrionic honors who are endeavoring to enter the profession. We are in constant receipt of letters from both young men and women soliciting our aid in their endeavor to enter a calling which is already overcrowded to such an extent that many must be left the greater part of the time without an engagement. To the stage struck boy or girl the life of a player seems to be one of constant joy and profit, but in reality there are few callings wherein disappointments are more numerous, or financial results more uncertain. Theatrical business is thoroughly speculative. Failure frequently results in spite of a manager's most sanguine hopes and most earnest efforts, and thus a prospective season of from thirty to forty weeks dwindles to one of four or five weeks' duration, with salaries in arrears at the calamitous close, and with no prospect of another engagement in sight. Competition arising from over supply reduces salaries so greatly that the average player in possession of a good engagement finds in his pay but little more than his living expenses upon the road, and a very slim margin to maintain himself in the enforced idleness between seasons. In any event he may scarcely reckon upon his income one week ahead, for if he is engaged to support a popular star sickness or death of his principal may bring the most promising engagement to a sudden close, a catastrophe which may also result in any company from various causes. It is true that there are some sterling players whose services are always in demand, and who command positions in companies where there is little risk. There are, moreover, players who have made and saved money, and have made for themselves comfortable and even luxurious homes, but let not the youthful aspirant for the stage think that his lot will be cast with the favored ones, at least during his long novitiate, and should such happy fate ere betide him it will follow days and years of poverty and despair. .....Business in the local field during the past week was far from satisfactory. "The Telephone Girl" at the CASINO was the only dramatic offering, and consequently did fairly well. It closed 16 to make way for the final rehearsals of the new extravaganza.....Variety entertainment was furnished at TONY PASTOR'S, the UNION SQUARE, PROCTOR'S, KOSTER & BIAL'S, the PLEASURE PALACE, SAM T. JACK'S, the CENTRAL OPERA HOUSE, and the CASINO and AMERICAN Roof Gardens.

PLEASURE PALACE.—A well filled auditorium, in spite of Summer's heat, is the prevailing condition at Manager Proctor's uptown house. Another capture from the legitimate ranks must be credited to the management of this house in the person of that clever character comedienne, Mrs. Charles Peters, who made her debut in vaudeville July 18, appearing in a little play especially written for her, entitled "The Widow Flaherty," which is full of bright dialogue and amusing situations, her efforts being ably seconded by Alice Irving and Soldene Powell. In the strong bill of standard vaudeville attractions are Prof. Leonidas' well known cat and dog circus, Servais Le Roy, illusionist, who pleased with his mystic marvels; Hodgkins and Leith, in their Yankee absurdity, "Silas and Manday's Courtship;" the buck and wing dancing of Emma Francis, finding favor; Arnesen, in an equilibristic turn; Lucy Nelson, and her whistling imitation of birds; White and Williams, in black face comedy; C. W. Williams, ventriloquist; Clifford A. Wiley, in well rendered baritone solos; Lowell and Lowell, in an acrobatic comedy sketch; Foy and Clark, eccentric comedians, and Fred Watson, in piano solos. The wargraph is, of course, a still continued and highly pleasing attraction, introducing continually new war scenes, the series this week presented calling forth unmistakable marks of approbation. The Sunday concerts, with special programmes, running from 2.30 to 11 P. M., serve to attract large crowds. Good shows, combined with a cool, comfortable theatre, act as special inducements for ladies and children to patronize the "bargain" afternoons.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE.—Weather conditions may have their effects upon local indoor entertainments elsewhere, but here very little falling off in attendance is noticeable as a result of the prevailing hot spell. On Monday, July 18, a bill which ranks fully on a par with any of those instituted under the new regime was liberally applauded by those who had gathered, and encores galore were bestowed upon the entertainers. Lillian Burkhart, assisted by Caryl Wilbur, appeared in "Dropping a Hint," which was delightfully acted, and proved most entertaining of itself. The National Opera Comique Co. presented "The Bohemian Girl," and though it was curtailed to a great extent, the musical numbers retained were the choicest in the opera, and the result was most gratifying. Amy and La Van brought their sensational aerial act well to the fore among the triumph winners, and John C. Fox and Katie Allen were directly responsible for the great amount of mirth occasioned during the glimpse offered the audience of "The Flat Next Door." Barton and Ashley were liberally remembered in the distribution of approval, and Gilbert Sarony, in eccentric female impersonations, and Johnnie Quigley, in tenor singing, gave every indication of having hit the spirit of approval right where it lived. The following performers, though crowded out of special mention here, were well up among the earners of favors: Steve Jennings, in songs, dances and rag time piano solos; Taylor and Farrell, musical burnt cork comedians; Alice Gilmore, in her negro specialty; Edwin Bennetto, contortionist; La Belle Maie, slack wire performer, and Provo, juggler. The wargraph continues to keep up to date in its views, and the result is a continued exhibition of unwaning interest on the part of visitors here.

HUBER'S PALACE MUSEUM.—For the edification of the warm weather crowds which liberally patronize this popular family resort Manager Anderson this week presents the accustomed attractive bill. The features of the curio hall display include German Rose, Prof. Wormfield, the Bedards, Hans Doler and John Williams, a long and strong variety show upon the stage engaging a good list of capable performers. Manager Anderson is enjoying a well earned vacation at Sheepshead Bay, L. I., these days, coming into town to put in motion the weekly change in bill. In the meantime Proprietor Huber is at the helm, and he has good reason to be satisfied with the financial results of his labors.

CASINO ROOF GARDEN.—This week, commencing July 18, the following people are presented: Maryland Tyson, Minnie Stoller, Edwin French, Sig. Ricci, Adelina Roattino, Ernest Hogan, Nellie Hawthorne, Amorita, Arthur K. Deagon, Maud Courtney, Alice Atherton, Catherina Bartho and Three Gardner Bros. Continued features are the Sailors' Ballet and the Origin of the Cake Walk.

CLOSED.—Empire, Knickerbocker, Broadway, Garrick, Lyceum, Wallack's, Manhattan, Garden, Bijou, Daly's, Fifth Avenue, Hoyt's, Herald Square, American, Casino, Academy of Music, Star, Fourteenth Street, Grand Opera House, Harlem Opera House, Columbus, People's, Murray Hill, Third Avenue, Metropolis, Irving Place, Germania, Weber & Fields', Olympia, London, Sam T. Jack's, Olympic, Harlem Music Hall, Thalia, Windsor, and Miner's Bowery and Eighth Avenue.

THE LENOX LYCEUM closed its season of promenade concerts July 16 with the departure of the Banda Rossa to fill Western engagements.

KEITH'S UNION SQUARE THEATRE.—There was a houseful here on Monday evening, July 18, when the bill of continuous variety was well up to the established standard of the house. Two acts which lack a prominent place in type display on the programme take front rank in the amusement because of their merit, the Johnson Brothers, xylophone experts, and Merritt and Newhouse, trick bicyclists, displaying marked ability. With a strong representation of trick 'cyclists already in the field, their acts containing more or less alleged comedy, Merritt and Newhouse take top rank solely on the merit displayed. The comedian does not tire onlookers with dragged out surrenders to the crafty steed, but makes quick work of his comedy introduction, and when the young man who offers a speedy round of difficult tricks takes the stage, the audience is quick to appreciate. It is worth a trip to the theatre to hear the Johnson Brothers play their xylophones. Imogene Comer is a strong feature of the bill; she puts enough acting for a four act melodrama into one of her songs, and the audience appreciates her work. She was especially effective in Monroe H. Rosenfeld's "A Hero Till Judgment Day," and would probably stir the patriotic to great extremes if she were to add his new one, "Good Boy, Uncle Sam, It Didn't Take You Long." She never fails of a hit, and these audiences are especially partial to her. Wm. Josh Daly, a fine looking young fellow, with some good material, was well received in his monologue; the Helston Sisters, a song and dance three of much ability, won much applause, and Gus Williams' monologue was heartily laughed at and applauded. The American biograph, projecting animated scenes of current interest, remains the feature of the bill, and the audiences are continually stirred to enthusiastic extremes by the patriotic situation depicted. "An Awful Fix" has the place of honor in the billing, good work being done by James Horne, who is assisted in its presentation by Justin Adams, Ella Craven and Charlotte Deane. An effective sketch, "Managerial Troubles," enlists Nick Long and Idalene Cotton; both appear to excellent advantage, Miss Cotton taking prominence in her several changes and impersonations. Larry Dooly and James Tenbrooke, black face singing comedians, score heavily in the way of applause, and the bill is pleasingly completed by the Carl Damann troupe. Fields and Loring, Wm. Payne, Laura Bennett, Gus Garholt and stereopticon views of timely topics.

TONY PASTOR'S THEATRE.—Humidity considered a good house was in line here on Monday, July 18, when the bill offered contained several notably excellent turns. Topping the list, and scoring the biggest hit of the night, John Canfield and Violet Carleton presented their clever musical comedy act with renewed vigor. Although seen here repeatedly, the audiences seem to never tire of Mr. Canfield's funny didos, and the assistance always capably rendered by Miss Carleton rounds out an invariable hit. Lulu, of Beeson, Black and Lulu (a new alliance), won unstinted applause for her agility and cleverness as a dancer. Few have been seen on this stage who approach her in ability, and none have shown greater talent in the dancing line. Black and Beeson add good comedy, and the act succeeds admirably. New comedy was offered by Charles Grapewin and Anna Chance with telling effect. Mr. Grapewin offers an exceedingly funny character impersonation as the feature of the act, and Miss Chance contributes liberally to the amusement in the way of agreeable vocalism. Their sketch is one of the strongest features of the show. Fields and Lewis offer their witty dialogue as a genuinely diverting factor in the amusement, and Ford and Dot West present a conventional sketch in an unconventional manner, the gentleman scoring a hit with his dancing, while the lady nearly cracked the celebrated welkin by her lusty singing of negro melodies. Their act was very successful. Barton and Eckhoff, in musical comedy; Conway and Leland, in wonderful monopede acrobatics, and the La Velles, knicknack and whirlwind dancers of great accomplishments, all came in for hearty favor. The Ford Brothers, dancers; Lillie Allyn and Georgie Gardner, in a clever specialty; Mlle. Oceana, equilibrist, and war views projected by a stereopticon add much to the amusement. Maud Bradley gains applause when the "chinks" enter the cake walk with their dusky partners, otherwise her "Wedding of the Chinee and the Coon" is not notably effective. Lew Dockstader is announced to top next week's bill, which will also include many other favorites, Ed. Lawrence and Nina Harrington, Jim and Fannie Donovan, and Genaro and Bailey being prominent in the list.

CENTRAL OPERA HOUSE.—The bill this week presents a large variety of turns, and the performance on Monday evening, July 18, was well attended. Dunbar and Harris opened proceedings in their extension ladder act. Winnefred Stewart, baritone vocalist; Richmond and Clements, sketchists; Williams and Adams, in their antics at the Millionaire's Club, which proved amply amusing; the Eldridges, the well known colored team; Frank Ely and Frances Brooke, in "My Little French Wife;" Paul Nicholson, comedian; Hiatt and Pearl, musical comedians, and Lumiere's cinematographe views made up the programme.

KOSTER & BIAL'S.—"Cook's Tour" is here for another week, and good business is reported. The house on Monday evening, July 18, was well filled. The tour is heartily enjoyed, and the musical numbers in particular called for frequent applause. For amusement on a higher plane the Rogers Brothers, the Four Emperors of Music, Dunbar Sisters, Vinie De Witt, Couture Brothers, the Du Held Quadrille Dancers, Sherman, De Camo and Lafayette, fill the bill on the roof, and Max Gabriel's Orchestra provides a promenade concert after the performance. The Rogers Brothers are in their last week.

"IN ATLANTIC CITY" comes to the Star Theatre Aug. 12.

AMERICAN THEATRE ROOF GARDEN.—In the current week's bill are these performers: Mabel Russell, Burt Jordan, Edith Craske, Mayme Mayo, John Le Clair, Mattie Wilkes, assisted by Tom Carter; Adele Purvis Ouri, Al. Wilson, Lottie Gilson and the Three Brothers Wilson.

Brooklyn.—The weather is all the seaside manager can ask, and the people are taking advantage of it to get a little of the cool ocean breezes. Hundreds of people from this borough make daily trips to the different seaside resorts in this vicinity.

MANHATTAN.—De Wolf Hopper is meeting with wonderful success in his revival of "Wang." He is just as funny as ever, and he is ably assisted by the clever company that surrounds him. Among those that deserve more than a passing notice are Alice Judson, Alfred Klein, George Barnum, Minnie Ashley and Maud Hollis. Victor Herbert's Twenty-second Regiment Band concerts are also meeting with great success. Another highly attractive feature is Pain's fireworks. His pyrotechnical display of the many interesting scenes of the war between this country and Spain are simply wonderful and draws great crowds to each performance. Mr. Pain has added to his other attractions "The Comic Water Pantomime," arranged and produced by Captain Ben Woodger. It is entirely different from the one seen here last season, and is a far greater success, introducing the big fat Spanish Custom officer, with whom the American and English tourists have a great deal of fun. Mr. Woodger wrote this sketch especially for Pain's patrons, and it is proving more satisfactory than was at first anticipated.

BERGEN BEACH.—"The Cash Girl" continues to draw well in the Casino. Probably the greatest attraction at this popular Summer resort is Adams & Woodger's Water Carnival. Many new features and a far better show is seen this year than was presented last season. Among the specialties are: George Golden, who does a remarkably clever performance on the swinging trapeze, and also a high dive from the top of a very tall pole, which, it is claimed, is one hundred and two feet above the water; J. J. Kelly gives a very interesting back somersault from a high point, and is well received for his exploit; Prof. Hawkes performs well on the slack wire; Herbert Robins performs well in the water, giving a long and graceful dive. Capt. Ben Woodger, the English comedian, creates no end of fun throughout the entertainment as Ally Sloper, the clown and jester. The naval demonstration is well worth the price of admission, even if it were the only thing given. It consists of the bombardment of Cavite by Admiral Dewey's squadron, and the blowing up of the Maine in Havana harbor, and a series of stereoscopic views, all of which are fully explained by Capt. C. F. Adams, completes the bill.

FLOATING ROOF CONCERTS.—The entertainments given by Manager William T. Grover on the Grand Republic are becoming so popular that there is some talk of starting another steamer. With the certainty of always getting a cooling gust of wind besides the ride, and nearly three hours of the best kind of entertainment, is sufficient inducement to draw the big crowds that go nightly on Manager Grover's floating pleasure palace. The performers are James Richmond Glenroy, Loney Haskell, Harry Thompson, the Misses Burdette and Cooper, Lottie Bell, Geneva Ardell, Irene Marshall and others.

NEW YORK STATE.

Buffalo.—At the Star Theatre the Wilbur Opera Co. is singing "Indiana" this week, with "Merry War" to follow. Business continues good, and the minstrel first parts by the company, with the war pictures, etc., are entertaining and tend to lessen the usual dull moments at a performance.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Manager Frank Curtiss and the stock company finished an uneventful and rather profitless Summer sojourn here 16. The company refused to finish the performance of "A Celebrated case" night of 16, owing to the non-perambulation of the ghost, and so money was refunded to ticket buyers.

SHEA'S GARDEN THEATRE.—Those employed this week are Herbert and Caron, Karina, Mlle. Flora, Sam, Kitty and Clara Morton, Fanchuette Sisters, Crane Brothers and Cricket Caryl, the latter a new candidate for stage victory. The biograph pictures are still a winning feature, and the swell clientel that has found its way to this new house bespeaks marked success to Mr. Shea's enterprise.

JAEGER'S ROOF GARDEN.—Allen May, Tischdorff's Orchestra and the Jubilee Singers are drawing nicely at this pleasant retreat.

SHOOTING THE CHUTES.—Manager John M. Hickey is noticeably busy these sultry afternoons and evenings plunging numerous humanity through the ozone and water abounding here. The Marine Band is an attractive adjunct.

FENTON'S SUMMER GARDEN.—Good patronage is maintained here. The current entertainers are La Couvier, Fanny Granger, Flossie Hughes, Kittie Lamont, Irene Watson, Estelle Brinker, Fred Wyckoff, John Schad, Pete Dearing and Huby Knowles. Wormwood and Moore's Dog and Monkey Show drew nicely.

Elmira.—The Lyceum Theatre, which has been closed for the Summer, will open Aug. 1, Cleveland & Wilson's Minstrels being the attraction.

RIALTO MUSIC HALL.—Business last week was good, considering the warm weather. New arrivals week of July 18-23: May Alexander, Daisy Dean, Essie MacAvoy, Cliff Breese and James Proudlove.

NOTES.—Jennie Eustace, who recently returned from abroad, where she made a very successful theatrical tour, is visiting her brothers, A. C. and J. P. Eustace, of this city.....Manager W. C. Smith, of the Lyceum Theatre, gave his stage hands a week's outing at his cottage in Bohemia last week.

MISSOURI.

St. Louis.—A most remarkable spell of cool weather so far this month has by no means helped the business here, yet the patronage has not fallen off as much as might have been expected. The attractions at the different places have been uniformly excellent.

SUBURBAN GARDENS.—Last week was the first of the season of Shakespearean productions. "Merry Wives of Windsor" was the offering, and it was decidedly a success. Edmund D. Lyons officiated as stage manager and gave a most agreeable presentation of Falstaff. Miss Seligman was another favorite as Mistress Ford. The remainder of the cast, including Nellette Reed, Miss Gusti and Messrs. Jewett, Losee, Collins, Webster and Gruner, were uniformly good. In every way the production was admirable and well patronized, especially on Thursday, 14, the occasion being the French Fete. Palace of Truth is on this week.

FOREST PARK HIGHLANDS.—Good attendance favored the Highlands last week to see the vaudeville offerings. The best features were the biograph, in a new series of war views, and Carroll Johnson, who flutters gracefully around in a resplendent costume of vari-colored silks. Miss DeWitt was another favorite. The rest of the bill included: Moulton and Revelle, W. H. Windom, Lucy Holman Hinchcliffe, and the Blockstone Quartet. Corinne is the feature this week.

UHRIG'S CAVE.—One of the best entertainments of last week was "The Royal Middy," as presented at the Cave by the Dorothy Morton Opera Co., and it is receiving the big share of the patronage, which it deserves. Miss Morton is especially good as the Parisian Actress and Royal Middy, and the support is all that it should be. This week "Giroflé-Girofla" is being played.

KOERNER'S GARDEN.—Archie Boyd, in his sketch, assisted by Earle Stirling, was the best feature last week. His many friends in this, his home city, kept the attendance up to the standard. The remainder of the bill, including Irene Franklin, was of a high order. This week the Rossow Midgets are playing a return engagement. Another good turn is presented by Hines and Remington.

LEWIS & ERNEST'S PAVILION.—The military and vaudeville bill drew well last week. Of course Lewis and Ernest were the favorites, but the bill included such features as Carrie Scott, Smith and Cook, Williams and Brown, Bison City Quartet, and Arthur Deming. The attendance was very good.

ATHLETIC PARK.—Pain's "Cuba" continues one of the best attractions of the city. The display of fireworks is magnificent, and no expense has been spared in the production.

Kansas City.—The only excitement to relieve the monotony this week will be the Sells-Forepaugh Circus, which gives two performances here on July 18, and the Hungarian Knaben-Kapelle, which commences a two weeks' engagement at Fairmount Park 17.....The Orpheum will start the ball rolling early in August, and the Grand will probably be the next to open up. The Coates will start in September, and about that time the Gillis will get into the game.....There is some talk of transforming the Academy of Music into a theatre and running a permanent opera company at cheap prices, but so far it is all talk. .....Jim McPherson and Roney Bennett, of the Sells-Forepaugh Circus, are here sick at St. Mary's and the German Hospital, respectively.....Assistant Director McQuaid, of the Orpheum, is spending his Summer with us.....Jack Holland, of Ruscoe & Holland's Minstrels, was in the city last week, counting money, as a result of last season's profitable tour. The show will be greatly improved next season.....'Old Pop" Ben Hodges, the original stage carpenter of the original Ninth Street Theatre, happened into town last week after an absence of five years.

WISCONSIN.

Milwaukee.—At the Davidson Theatre "The Two Orphans," by the Salisbury Stock Company, was well presented the past week. All the favorites were well cast and attracted good audiences all week. "Fanchon," with Eleanor Robson in the title role, will be given week of July 17, and will be followed by "Lady Bountiful."

ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—Harold's New York Opera Company closed a successful season Sunday night, 17. A double bill was furnished, consisting of "Pinafore" and "Cavelleria Rusticana." The feature of the performance was the music, and the manner in which Arthur Weld directed. This house will remain dark for the rest of the Summer.

THE CHUTES, the coolest place in the city, is drawing well. People for week of 17: Billy Cartright, Della Pino, Bella Allen, and Sanderson's Royal English Marionettes.

SCHLITZ'S PARK.—Richards and Pringle's-Rusco and Holland's Minstrel Festival will appear Sunday afternoon and night, 24. Billy Kersands, Jas. Crosby, Harry Fidler and Dan Avery are among the comedians.

NATIONAL PARK.—Buffalo Bill's Wild West comes 31, for two performances.

NOTES.—Selene Johnson and J. Harry Kolker closed their engagement with the Salisbury Company 16.....Dr. Geo. H. Rickey, of New York, who has been acting as assistant manager of the Harold Opera Co., leaves for New York 18. He will be accompanied by the principals and chorus. Stuart Harold goes to San Francisco.....E. L. Daune, who succeeded Walter Clark Bellows as stage manager for the Salisbury Company, has staged the various plays to date very satisfactory.

Miscellaneous.

RUNNING ELK'S WILD WEST NOTES.—We are turning people away nightly. Carry eighty-two people for big show, concert and side show, also band of twenty-four pieces. Marie Sousa, Deerfoot Bomba and Running Elk and Wauna are the hits of the big show, not forgetting Dick, the talking horse, and Bismarck, the clown horse, who always pleases the children. Deerfoot Bomba is the pride of the ladies, while Marie Sousa is honored with a big reception at every performance. Running Elk and Wauna win the hearts of all; in fact, all the performers are pleased with their share of the applause. We had one blow down, but Pat, the boss canvas man, and his men managed to fix it up for the evening's performance. The ghost walks every Sunday morning in Running Elk's office tent. Clarnace Dale, big headed boy, is the attraction in the side show. We give a grand street parade with a band of twenty-two pieces, thirty cowboys and twenty four Indians, fifty-eight horses and seven white and gold wagons. We are touring the Summer resorts with great results, catering to the 400. We turned people away in Long Branch, Pleasure Bay. We stay one week here in Seabright, next week four days in Atlantic Highlands, and so on along the Shrewsbury River. Our people have great sport in boating, fishing, bathing and crabbing. Every night after the show we hold a meeting, in which all the people, cowboys, Indians and performers participate.

NOTES FROM WITHERELL & DOUD'S PAVILION "U. T. C." CO.—We are now among the White Mountain Summer resorts, having nice weather and good business. Our baseball club is duly organized. We played the local club at Ashland, N. H., July 11, with a score of 18 to 19. It was a "hot" game, and some of our boys are now so lame they can hardly move. We won, however. Bob Porter is our captain and Ed. Gardner, secretary. Our band concerts are making a good impression. Jack Keehan's slide trombone solos being a feature.

TENNESSEE WARBLERS NOTES.—We opened our Summer season at Castle Shanon Park, Pa., July 3, for two weeks. Mr. and Mrs. William Curry closed with Washburn's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" at Laurel, Md., July 9, and joined our forces 11. Roster: Puggsley Bros., proprietors; L. E. Puggsley, treasurer; R. C. Puggsley, business manager; J. M. Marshall, advance; Chas. V. Johnson, pianist; Sam Wilkinson, Frank Wilkinson, R. Puggsley Jr., Tony Ringold, Master Irmie Puggsley, Wm. Curry and wife, Mrs. Bessie A. Burton, Tillie Brown and Emma A. Baynard.

EDWIN ELVORA'S Oriental dancing girls are playing to big business at Camp Alger. Elvora, principal Oriental and contortion dancer, is a favorite. Little Daisy, skirt dancer; Eddye Christopher, singer and dancer; Wash Drane, negro comedian, singer and dancer; La Belle Alice, Oriental dancer; Jack Tyroll, tenor singer; John Reh, Dutch comedian, and Doc West, manager, complete the company.

C. C. BONNETTE writes THE CLIPPER: "I wish to thank you for about one hundred and twenty-five letters I received from small ad. I had in THE CLIPPER two weeks. I am at Dighton Rock Park, Dighton Mass, this week, making two ascensions a day, one at 3.30 P. M. and another at 9 o'clock, using fireworks from balloon. Next week I put on my single wire and trapeze acts, slide for life, and close with ascension Saturday afternoon."

NOTES FROM J. T. R. CLARK'S German-American Vaudevilles.—We are now in our twenty-third week, and doing nicely. Wiley, Hamilton and Ruth Wiley, Klark and Klark and J. J. Leland are recent additions to the company. We open in Kansas City, Mo., July 25, for the remainder of the season.

PIERCE'S ORIENTAL WONDER CO., now in second week at Ringing Rocks Park, Pottstown, Pa., reports playing to fair business. Prof. Pierce, magician, a sister by Gertie Stapelton; Milliman Bros., musical acts; May Carroll, in sentimental songs; Trevor Sisters, in negro melodies; Fred Kaeber and May Lilly, aerial work, form the company.

TOM AND MYTLE NORTH, en route with Price's Floating Opera, spent a few hours at their home at Hamilton, O., while the show was at Cincinnati. The show is now on its way South, playing the Mississippi and Ohio Rivers and their tributaries.

NOTES FROM CAPT. W. D AMENT'S SHOW.—We are now working towards Southern Illinois. Our business during the past three weeks has surpassed all records in the history of the show. Manager Ament has decided to place the entire show upon a mammoth elevated stage, in order to make room for several hundred more people. It is utterly impossible to accommodate the enormous crowds. We have had several additions to the company of late. Ben Bergman's clown band will close Aug. 1, to go with "Josh Spruceby" Co. Everybody in the company is well and happy.

NOTES from Hatch, Meredith & Tedron All Featured Shows: We are doing well throughout W. Va. Roster: J. P. Tedron, treasurer; Albert Meredith, manager and equestrian director; Wm. Hatch and his trained dogs and ponies, the Hendersons, bar and aerial act; the Suttons, Mexican ladder, aerial and clowning; Kline and Rexford, Elmer Porterfield, juggling; Tressie Sutton, single trapeze; Frances Sutton, the four year old contortionist, in her contortion act. At one and seven o'clock Fred Dew make a dive of sixty-five feet into a net for the outside exhibition.

DOC. PHILLIPS and Adel Ray are now with Pawnee Bill's Wild West Show.

NOTES FROM THE ASA BARKER BIG 10 AND 20 CENT SHOW.—We are now in our tenth week. The show is touring Southern Illinois, and is doing good business. We were visited by the La Verne Bros.' Show at White Heath, Ill.

MICHIGAN.

Detroit.—The new Detroit Opera House is expected to be opened Sept. 12. The attraction will be De Koven & Smith's opera, "The Highwayman." The second offering, Sept. 19, will be "The Moth and the Flame," Clyde Fitch's drama, in which Herbert Kelcey and Effie Shannon take principal parts. Prof. Wormwood's Monkey Theatre exhibits here July 18-23.

WONDERLAND THEATRE AND MUSEE.—The biograph continues with unabated success. New pictures are added each week, and some local men of war prominence are shown to immense applause. In the theatre: Lynch and Jewell head the list, others being Hayman and Hayman, Rodell and Herbert, and Venetia, French singer and dancer.

BUFFALO BILL'S WILD WEST SHOW exhibited here 14, to two immense audiences, and the show was the best ever offered by the Hon. William F. Cody.

ZICKEL BROS., of this city, announce that they have opened a cozy corner for their special use, where their latest songs will be taught. This is the first house in the city to do this, and the "boys" show they have enterprise to win success.

Saginaw.—At the Academy of Music the Courtleigh Stock Co. closed their Summer season July 13, with "The Harvest of Sin," Mr. Dunbar, as Noel Musgrave, and Miss Reals, as Mrs. Marston, being exceptionally fine.

RIVERSIDE CASINO.—McPhee and Hill, De Veaux and De Veaux, Abt and Witt, and Charley Case.

Grand Rapids.—The Mackay Opera Company comes to the Ramona next week for two, or possibly three, weeks' entertainment. They will give the usual fourteen performances per week, playing "La Mascot." In the company are Kittie Marcellus, Etta Meuis, J. B. Fulton, Montjoy Walker, Frank Wade, Franklin Fox, Al. Wallie and Miller Bacon, Howard Cook, musical director; Frank Deshon, manager. This venture is a radical departure for the Ramona's free entertainments, and the results are awaited with considerable interest. With good weather it is to be expected the public will appreciate the enterprise.....Powers' Opera House opens 18 with the Wilbur Opera Co. and Susie Kerwin.....At Godfroy's Pavilion week of 18: Wm. and Kitty Harbeck, Soto Suntaro, Barry and Hayne and the Hemings Trio.....Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show comes 21.

Kalamazoo.—At the Lake View Casino the Columbia Stock Co. continues to draw big crowds nightly. July 14 was a gala occasion, the members of the local lodge of Elks in a body, accompanied by their wives, attending the performance, which was enjoyed right royally. The attendance was the largest since the opening of this popular resort.

WASHINGTON.

Seattle.—At the Third Avenue Theatre the Jossey-Marvin Co. began their second and closing week July 10, when they presented "All a Mistake," with Louis Martinetti in the leading comedy role, to the usual packed Sunday night house. "The Volunteer" had great drawing powers week of 3. This house will close 17 for needed repairs, and will reopen for the regular season 30, with the Sam T. Shaw Co., in "Alabama" and "East Lynne."

SEATTLE THEATRE.—Prof. J. McIvor Tyndall gave an exhibition of mind reading and palmistry to a fair sized house 12.

CORT'S PALM GARDEN is still attracting big crowds nightly with Eleanor Montana, La Petite Rose and the Chicago Ladies' Military Band.

MADISON STREET PAVILION.—The Florentine Lady Troubadours, May Fuller, J. Adrian Epping and Frances Hewett are drawing very good houses.

PEOPLE'S THEATRE.—Geneva Hazleton, Maud Clark, Allie Deimar, Will G. Baker, Genevieve Fonda, Tott Allen, Lillie Weldon, Gertie Harrington, Theo. Price, Hattie Ward, Kittie Clark, Healey Sisters, Sadie Fairfield, Ed. and Kittie Welch, Fred R. Gardner, Wm. Morse, Maud Margeson, Esther Pierce, Arthur Brooks, Mike Goldsmith.

Dog and Pony Circus banked them at every performance during week of 4. They are now playing through British Columbia.

Spokane.—At the Auditorium the Bittner Theatre Company opened its third week July 11, in high class repertory, at popular prices, with every indication of a successful Summer's run. The size of the audience continues to grow nightly.

COMIQUE.—The Hosmer Dramatic Company, headed by Albert Hosmer and Helen Leigh, opened week of 11 for an extended engagement.

COUER D'ALENE.—The new faces this week are: Mlle. Papinta, Rennie Burch, Dollie Mitchell, Eddie Dolan and the Thorn Bros.

IOWA.

Cedar Rapids.—Greene's Opera House is dark. Manager John W. Henderson is at home, after a sojourn on his ranch in Dawson County, Neb. He took in the Omaha Exposition on the way.....The Forepaugh-Sells Bros.' Circus showed here 11, to pleased audiences, that comfortably filled the tent at both performances. On Sunday, 10, over fifteen thousand people "saw the elephants" bathe in the Cedar River. Press representative Frank O. Miller extended every possible courtesy to the daily press and to your correspondent. The brightest attraction in the side show was Master Wade Cochran, the mental wonder, who was reading THE CLIPPER when the writer entered the tent.....The Cherry Sisters arrived here 11, and left the next day for the Pacific coast.

Council Bluffs.—The Dohaney Theatre is dark..... At Lake Manowa Pavilion: Brumage and Clark, the Barlows, Harris and Pearletta, Kleist Brothers, and concerts by the Hungarian Band. The attendance week of July 10 averaged fair..... John L. Howe and Tom Keating are visiting here. .....The Kennison Sisters and the Ketterlich Family Band entertain visitors at Schlitz Park, Lake Manowa.

Davenport.—At the Watch Tower Park Theatre the vaudeville opera company has been doing good business for the past week. The Cherry Sisters come 15-17. The Belle Marie Opera Co. begin a two weeks' engagement 24.....Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show is coming Aug. 15.

Keokuk.—At the Casino Theatre the Austro-Hungarian Knaben Kappelle (Boys' Band) delighted fair audiences week of July 11.....At Hubinger Park Bertha Wagner, female bicyclist, is the attraction.

MINNESOTA.

People who were compelled by force of circumstances to stay in the city on Friday afternoon, 15, were obliged to endure scorching heat, the mercury rising to the dignity of the 90's, while those who could spare the time, and whose love of speedy horse flesh induced them to visit the Coney Island course, passed a very enjoyable afternoon. The racing was good enough to please the spectators, and as the results were evenly divided between favorites and horses that did not strike the fancy of the talent, there was little to grumble at by either the general public or the bookmaking brotherhood. The event that gave rise to the most interest was a handicap for three year olds and upward, $1,000 added, at one mile and a sixteenth, and it signalized the return to the track, after a few days' illness, of the premier jockey, "Tod" Sloan, whose appearance on the back of George Keene was hailed with hearty cheers. Of course his mount was made the favorite, close pressed in the betting, however, by Caldron, upon which little Maher had the mount. The race was of an interesting description, but at the end Sloan brought Keene right away, winning by a length from Caldron, who was two lengths in front of Isador. Summary:

A seven event programme, including two stake races, furnished good amusement for about eight thousand persons on Saturday afternoon, 16, the half holiday observers having swelled the usual attendance very materially. Speculation was quite brisk on all the events, but the Nautilus Stake received the greatest amount of attention, owing to the fact that the good horses engaged were regarded as quite evenly matched, and consequently others besides the favorite, Sly Fox, received excellent support. A capital race, in which the favorite showed well until the close, when he failed to equal expectations based on his Spring form, resulted in a win for Sir Gawain by a neck from Swiftmas, after a hot driving finish. The other stake event was the Punchestown Steeplechase Handicap, for which Royal Scarlet was made the favorite, but was beaten by Equerry and Decapod, the former winning by a head only. Only two favorites won during the day. Summary:

Another unusually large "blue Monday" crowd was present on 18, when a pleasant afternoon followed a rainy morning, the rain fall, however, being only heavy enough to agreeably lay the dust, thus adding to the pleasure and comfort of the spectators. It was a "good day, on the whole," as three favorites proved good enough to make their supporters happy by increasing the size of their individual "piles," while in the other events the winning animals carried considerable money. The biggest betting event of the afternoon was the fourth race, for three year olds and upwards, with $1,000 added, at a mile and a sixteenth, which enlisted the services of Bannock, Peep o' Day, Dr. Catlett, Premier and three others, the former being honored by being made the choice of the knowing ones. In this the talent were a little amiss in their reckoning, as Peep o' Day, cleverly handled by Fred Taral, finished well in front, while the favorite got the place, with Dr. Catlett in third place. The Trotting Association Sued.

William A. Lawrence, of Chester, Orange County, has filed a complaint in the clerk's office of the United States Circuit Court in this city against the National Trotting Association, a corporation organized under the laws of Connecticut, in which he asks for $5,000 damages for alleged breach of contract. Mr. Lawrence states that it is part of the business of the association to issue to owners of horses in the United States, for the purposes of export and sale in foreign countries, certificates showing the pedigree, breeding, and speed record of such horses, and that it is impossible to sell fine horses at an adequate price without such certificates. On Dec. 7, 1897, he alleges, the association agreed to send to his representative in Milliencamp, Germany, certificates of the records of several horses which he sent to Europe for sale. He paid the fees charged by the association. The latter, however, failed to keep its agreement to forward the certificates to Milliencamp, but sent them to Mr. Lawrence's residence in Chester. By reason of this, he says, the sale of the horses was delayed, he was put to considerable expense for their care, and was obliged to sell them at much lower prices than they would have brought had the certificates been mailed to Europe as agreed.

The American Whist Congress

Closed at Boston, Mass., on July 16, the American Whist Club, of that city, then capturing the Hamilton Trophy, the biggest prize of the session. Under the rules it will be held for one year, when it will be again battled for. The score before the final round was five matches for the American and four and a half for Cleveland, and these two teams alone contested the finals. Cleveland played a strong game, and the Americans won by only one trick. The second and final round of the contest for the Minneapolis Trophy resulted in favor of Newton, with Pyramid, of Boston, second; New York third, and American, of Boston, fourth. The final result was as follows:

THE NATIONAL REGATTA.

Great Promise of Fine Sport on the Schuylkill—List of Entries.

The event of the current week in rowing circles is the annual regatta of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen of America, which will be held on the regular course on the placid Schuylkill River, in beautiful Fairmount Park, on Friday and Saturday, July 22, 23. Although there is a very unusual paucity of entries from the leading clubs of Greater New York, in large measure due to the absence of a number of crack oarsmen at Santiago and other places where they can best serve Uncle Sam, the entry list is large, and the indications point to an abundance of most interesting sport for lovers of rowing. A strong attraction will be the presence of the apparently invincible Edward Hanlan Ten Eyck, the first American winner of the coveted Diamond Sculls, representing the acme of sculling ability among our English cousins, who will represent his New England club in the senior sculls; but there are many other features that will enlist the earnest attention and serve to arouse the enthusiasm of those who attend the regatta. Here are the entries:

INTERMEDIATE SINGLE SCULLS.

Harlem Rowing Club, New York—Mark G. Davis.
Malta Boat Club, Philadelphia—John McCallum Binder.
Millstream Boat Club, Chelsea, Mass.—Sidney E. West.
Pennsylvania Barge Club, Philadelphia—Frank Marsh.
Springfield Boat Club, Springfield, Mass.—Amos Kubic.
Union Boat Club, New York—Alfred G. Wolf.

SENIOR SINGLE SCULLS.

Argonaut Boat Club, Toronto—C. E. A. Goldman.

Pennsylvania Barge Club, Philadelphia—Edward Marsh, bow; Hugh Monoghan, stroke; substitute, James B. Juvenal.
Wachusett Boat Club, Worcester—Edward H. Ten Eyck, bow; Charles H. Lewis, stroke.

SENIOR PAIR OARED SHELLS.

Argonaut Boat Club, Toronto—F. H. Thompson, bow; Joseph Wright, stroke; substitutes, E. A. Thompson and A. J. Boyd.
Pennsylvania Barge Club—Henri G. Scott, bow; John O. Exley, stroke; substitutes, Homer Meade and Edward S. Paret.

INTERMEDIATE FOUR OARED SHELLS.

Argonaut Boat Club—E. C. Complin, bow; H. A. Baldwin, N. W. Linton, A. B. Jones, stroke.
Seawanhaka Boat Club, Brooklyn—William Farnam, bow; R. Farnam, Leo. Stevens, Theodore L. Vosseler, stroke; substitutes, Harry B. Ranken and James H. Brown.
Western Rowing Club, St. Louis—G. Voerge, bow; W. H. Lamp, P. B. Blattner, F. Dummerth, stroke; substitutes, J. G. Karl and H. C. Koenig.

SENIOR FOUR OARED SHELLS.

Argonaut Boat Club—R. G. Muntz, bow; E. A. Thompson, F. H. Thompson, Joseph Wright, stroke; substitutes, A. J. Boyd and H. C. Kingstone.
Ariel Rowing Club, Baltimore—W. N. Cummins, bow; W. Swindell, W. S. Werner, F. A. Hancock, stroke; substitutes, C. Wood Rolph and C. W. Curley.
Western Rowing Club, St. Louis—G. Voerge, bow; W. H. Lamp, F. B. Blattner, F. Dummerth, stroke; substitutes, J. G. Karl and H. C. Koenig.

SENIOR INTERNATIONAL FOUR OARED SHELLS.

SENIOR EIGHT OARED SHELLS.

Argonaut Boat Club—G. H. Doherty, bow; J. N. McKenzie, H. C. Kingstone, Joseph Wright, A. J. Boyd, H. V. Duggau, F. H. Thompson, E. A. Thompson, stroke; R. K. Barker, coxswain; substitutes: R. G. Muntz, C. E. A. Goldman, N. W. Linton and R. W. Hoskins.
Pennsylvania Barge Club—John Shibe, bow; William Riddell, Henri G. Scott, Homer Meade, Hugh Monoghan, John O. Exley, Edward Marsh, James F. Dempsey, stroke; George Klages, coxswain; substitutes: Joseph F. Dempsey, Frank Marsh, Percy J. Wall and James B. Juvenal.
Worcester High School Boat Club, Worcester—Rufus H. Gould, bow; Lester Perry, Charles B. S. Jackson, Clare S. Taylor, James A. Haradon, Cornelius E. Daly, Thomas R. Johnson, F. J. Kerns, stroke; James H. Meagher, coxswain; substitutes: Lloyd Mills, Fred E. Gorham, Walter Weyer and Harry Carroll.
Fairmount Rowing Club—Crew same as intermediate eight.

The order of events on both days of the regatta will be as follows:

July 22.—First race, 3.30 P. M., first trial intermediate singles; second race, 4 P. M., finals senior pair oar shells; third race, 4.30 P. M., second trial intermediate singles; fourth race, 5 P. M., finals senior doubles; fifth race, 5.30 P. M., finals senior four oar shells; sixth race, 6 P. M., finals intermediate eight oar shells.

July 23.—First race, 3.30 P. M., finals intermediate singles; second race, 4 P. M., finals senior international four oar shells; third race, 4.30 P. M., finals intermediate doubles; fourth race, 5 P. M., finals intermediate four oar shells; fifth race, 5.30 P. M., finals senior singles; sixth race, 6 P. M., finals senior eight oar shells.

Drawings for positions will take place at the Lafayette Hotel, Broad and Chestnut Streets, Wednesday evening, 20, at nine o'clock.

CHARLES BECKWITH, son of the well known swimming master, Fred. Beckwith, recently deceased, died at his home in London, Eng., July 2. He had long suffered from an incurable disease, and passed away at the early age of thirty-three years, leaving a widow and family of small children in straitened circumstances.

THE SENIOR SINGLE SCULL RACE that was left undecided on the occasion of the People's Regatta, on the Schuylkill, July 4, was rowed on 16, when Fred Cresser, of the Vesper Boat Club, defeated James Patrick, Newark Rowing Club, by a length and a half, in 10m. 3s.

The Twenty Footer Trials.

Several trial races were sailed last week to select a challenge boat for the Sewanhaka-Corinthian half rater trophy now held by Montreal yachtsmen. Such were the nature of the conditions that no selection could be made, and the tests will probably continue during this week. On July 12, Sewanhaka proved the winner of the races sailed off Centre Island, as shown by the summary:

Yacht.	Start.	Outer Mark.	Finish.	Elapsed Time.
	H. M. S.	H. M. S.	H. M. S.	H. M. S.
Cicada	12 50 14	1 36 10	1 53 20	1 03 06
Asthore	12 50 18	1 32 28	1 52 45	1 02 27
Seawanhaka	12 50 22	1 30 53	1 46 20	0 55 58

Akabo	3 23 31	3 55 20	4 10 50	0 47 25

Weather conditions being again favorable, the little fellows were at it again Thursday afternoon, 14. The contests on that date were part of the sport provided for the annual regatta of the Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht Club, Seawanhaka again getting the best of the argument. We give the club summary:

30 FOOT SLOOP—START, 1.40 O'CLOCK.

QUERIES ANSWERED.

NO REPLIES BY MAIL OR TELEGRAPH.

ADDRESSES OR WHEREABOUTS NOT GIVEN. ALL IN QUEST OF SUCH SHOULD WRITE TO THOSE WHOM THEY SEEK, IN CARE OF THE CLIPPER POST OFFICE. ALL LETTERS WILL BE ADVERTISED ONE WEEK ONLY. IF THE ROUTE OF ANY THEATRICAL COMPANY IS SOUGHT, REFER TO OUR LIST OF ROUTES ON ANOTHER PAGE. WE CANNOT SEND ROUTES BY MAIL OR TELEGRAPH.

THEATRICAL.

G. W. R., Rockville Centre.—"Little Lord Fauntleroy" had its first performance in this country on Sept. 10, 1888, at the Boston Museum. Elsie Leslie played the title role. We have no record of her age, but she was then a mere child. This was not her debut, for she had already won some distinction in "Editha's Burglar."

A. M., Worcester.—All of the plays you mention are old works that have long been in print and that can be produced without payment of royalty. We fear that they would make a dull repertory and that your public would demand plays more nearly up to date.

S. T. R., Fordham.—The act is by no means novel, and you will find difficulty in securing an engagement.

R. J. M., Indianapolis.—We never furnish information concerning the domestic affairs of professionals.

S. N. T., Brooklyn.—The party is still living and acted last season.

TROJAN.—1. You would probably succeed better with a partner. 2. There is a fair demand. 3. Advertise in THE CLIPPER. See rates at the head of this column.

L. S. McC.—We know of no other address than that given in the last issued city directory, which is 146 West Twenty-third Street.

L. W. M., Three Rivers.—We are unable to quote salary.

N. R., Columbus.—We do not know where the show is at present. Address letter in care of THE CLIPPER.

L. S., Denver.—We have no knowledge of the whereabouts of the party concerning whom you write, but if you will address a letter to her in our care we will advertise it.

R. R. P., Albany.—We do not care to especially recommend anyone. An advertisement in THE CLIPPER would, most likely, bring many replies from which you could select a satisfactory party. See rates at head of this column.

LINOTYPE, Louisville.—Address C. S. Lawrence, 88 and 90 Centre Street, New York City.

B. A.—Consult Major Pond, Everett House, this city.

B. K. G., East Smithfield.—1. Address the agent whose name you mention. 2. Address the American Mutoscope Co., Broadway and Thirteenth Street, this city.

RAINBOW, Louisville.—We are unable to inform you what salary would be paid at fairs for such a combination of acts.

H. H. M.—Address the party in care of THE CLIPPER.

L. AND K., Baltimore.—There is not much demand for such an act unless it is exceptionally strong. Salary would depend largely upon the fame of the performers and merit of the act.

A READER, Peoria.—1. Twenty-five dollars per week. 2. Try an agent. 3. Donaldson's Guide will prove of assistance to you. Address C. S. Lawrence, 88 and 90 Centre Street, New York City.

CONSTANT READERS.—We presume there are managers who would accept your services upon the terms you mention. We never advise anyone to go upon the stage, and we think you are too young to take such a step. Seek other employment, and think the matter over for some years to come.

K. F. S., Brookfield.—We do not care to recommend anyone.

J. A. F., Boston.—The whereabouts of the party is unknown to us. Address letter in our care, and we will advertise it.

C. L. B., Philadelphia.—Address the party in our care.

W. D. N., New Bedford.—Address letter in care of THE CLIPPER.

A. M. S., Syracuse.—You should seek engagements in museums.

PERFORMER.—See route list in this issue.

H. G., Syracuse.—The sections of the War Revenue Law relating to show business are so obscurely worded we are not surprised that you do not understand them. Among the rulings of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue is the following: "Special taxes are required to be paid by small theatrical companies, as well as a circus or other exhibitions. If a company does not intend giving any performances before the first of September, the tax may be computed from that date until the first of July following at the rate of $100 per year." The tax must be paid to Collectors of Internal Revenue in each and every State in which you exhibit.

A. B. C.—1. The show would have to pay a war tax of one hundred dollars in each State in which it exhibited. 3. To the Collector of Internal Revenue. 4. There is no demand for amateurs, and it is likely that you could not obtain an engagement at any price.

MAE, Marinette.—Superiority in any line of work is so largely a matter of individual opinion, we never indulge in comparisons between performers.

W. H. O.—See reply to "Constant Reader" in this issue.

H. R., Chicago.—Advertise all your wants in THE CLIPPER. See rates at head of this column.

E. N. C.—James M. Nixon, the well known circus proprietor, is living in this city and may be addressed in care of THE CLIPPER.

P. T. R., Greencastle.—We do not care to especially recommend any one.

T. H. R., Pawtucket.—The play was written and presented by James A. Herne.

G. McN., Medina.—Address letter in care of THE CLIPPER.

AUTHOR, Chicago.—If you desire to copyright your play, you must do it before production.

W. E. Y., St. Louis.—We can give you no information concerning the company. Address letter in care of The Era, London, Eng.

H. G. W., Cleveland.—Empire Theatre Building, New York City.

G. F., Knoxville.—The sections of the War Revenue Law relating to show business appeared in our issue of July 9. See answer to "H. G." above.

CARDS.

M. S. R. Passaic.—Each player having but one point to make, and A having made in play the points he bid, won the game with high, which outranks in value all other points.

W. V. P., Bloomington.—In the game of coon can the ace is not in sequence with the king and queen. Straights may be formed with ace, two, three, etc., or with five, six, seven, knave, etc., so that the cards preserve their consecutive according to rank, which is as as follows: ace, two, three, four, five, six, seven, knave, queen and king.

J. B. M.—Any straight flush constitutes what some players choose to designate as a "royal" or "tiger" flush, whether it be composed of ace, king, queen, knave and ten spot, or five, four, three, two and ace, the ace either commencing or ending a straight.

J. O. W., Albany.—D had a perfect right to play alone, his side having assumed the responsibility of the trump.

H. D. N., Baltimore.—Yes; when there is no card out that counts towards game, or when there is a tie for game, the non-dealer scores the point.

T. W. C., Jersey City.—There is no penalty if a player plays with too few cards.

F. AND E.—There is no run for the last card in 3, 3, 3, 10, 4, 1, 5 and 2. E. is entitled to two for thirty-one only.

BASEBALL, CRICKET, ETC.

ROXY, Hillsboro.—The man who originally occupied third base is entitled to hold it. The one from second is an allen, and can be put out even if he is standing on third base.

R. H. K., Buffalo.—All of the players except the catcher and first baseman are restricted in fielding to the use of a glove or mitt weighing not over ten ounces, and measuring not over fourteen inches in circumference around the palm of the hand. The catcher and first baseman are permitted to wear a glove or mitt of any size, shape or weight.

A. W. T., Philadelphia.—The ball is "dead" on account of being finally settled in the wicket keeper's hands, and the batsman is not out.

F. G., Trenton.—The base runner is entitled to return to first base without being put out, the umpire having declared a foul strike.

ATHLETIC.

C. W. C., Minneapolis.—The affidavits are accepted, and the performance will be placed among the records in THE CLIPPER ANNUAL for 1899, provided it is not surpassed in the interim.

G. D. B., Canonsburg.—In the running high jump each competitor is allowed three trial jumps at each height, and if on the third trial he falls he is is debarred from the competition. A fair jump is one that is made without diving, somersaulting, or hand springs of any kind.

RING.

W. LA R.—1. There is no time limit to a round under London P. R. rules; a round is finished as soon as one of the principals is down, either from a blow, a fall or from weakness. 2. The time limit between rounds is thirty seconds. 3. The glove contest between John L. Sullivan and Tug Wilson was governed by the Queensberry rules, the round limit being three minutes, with one minute for rest between rounds. 4. The rules do not prohibit such appliances, and there is no reason why they should, so long as they do not threaten injury to an opponent.

E. A., Washington.—John L. Sullivan has at all times been a better "drawing card" than the other boxer mentioned, for the reason that he has always been the more popular with the masses everywhere in the country.

H. M., Cincinnati.—George Dixon, the boxer, can always be addressed in care of THE CLIPPER office.

T. K., Washington.—Bob Fitzsimmons was the middleweight champion when he fought Jim Corbett, but he did not fight at middleweight on that occasion, the match being for the heavyweight championship.

J. H. G., Parsons.—Address Dan Stuart, in care of THE CLIPPER, and we will advertise the letter.

MISCELLANEOUS.

B. J., Omaha.—There is no national holiday in this country, not even the Fourth of July. In the second session of the Fifty-third Congress an act was passed making Labor Day a public holiday in the District of Columbia, this being the only general statute on the subject. The proclamation of the President designating a day of thanksgiving only makes it a legal holiday in those States which provide by law for it.

P. R. J.—A son born abroad of American citizens, while traveling, is necessarily a citizen of the United States—that is, a citizen at birth, because his father is one. S. wins.

F. J. C., Philadelphia.—The shield was the head of a nickel of the old style, as the head is of that now in circulation.

C. M. AND T. S. H., Springfield.—C. M. wins the wager. The blowing up of the battleship Maine was a side issue.

Chess.

To Correspondents.

F. K. YOUNG, Boston.—Please accept our hearty thanks for the ample and instructive notes to the pending game, St. Petersburg vs. Vienna. We are obliged to lay it by till the close of the great tourney.

BRO. REICHHELM.—Thank you for the attention of "Hand Writing on the Wall," but fear the typographical difficulties will prevent its use.

SEC'Y N. Y. S. C. A.—Much obliged by a copy of the full prospectus of the coming Summer outing of the State Association.

WM. BORSODI, City.—We have found a copy of Vol I. No. 2, A. C. M., which we have much pleasure in placing at your disposal; no return necessary.

AD. DOSSENBACH.—Thanks for the remembrance; we shall look for its early realization.

Solutions.

Of Enigma 2,165. Part I.—1..Q B to Q 8!.....Part II has a clerical error in transcribing; let it pass for the present.

Resigns.

(a) First played by Tschigorin vs. Rosenthal, in '83.
(b) Here Dr. T. improves upon Rosenthal's 12..Q to B 3.
(c) It is difficult to find the best continuation now. White having his pieces so well posted. The tempting 20..P to B 5, for instance, would be bad, because of 21..Kt × B, Q × Kt; 22..Q × P with advantage. The text move does not seem satisfactory, either, as White gives up two minor pieces for the exchange, and two pawns.
(d) 21..Kt × B seems to retain the P ahead.
(*) [Completes note (c) with the following position:

at K Kt, Q R, K sq, Q R5, Kt 2, B 2, K B 2, Kt 2, R 2. at K R, Q R, Q 3, Q B 4, Q R 3, Kt 5, K B 4, Kt 2, R 2.

Move made—27..Q R to Q sq, B home, etc.]
(f) 28..K to Kt sq might be considered preferable.
(g) If Kt × P; B to R sq, etc.
 Perhaps Dr. Tarrasch could have played the opening better, but it is one of extreme difficulty to conduct in actual play.

The Vienna Tourney.

With the exception that Harry Pillsbury now leads Dr. Tarrasch by a half point the relative positions of the five leaders is unchanged from last week. Mr. Pillsbury during the past week added four points to his games won score and one to his games lost. The Doctor fell half a point below the young American expert, and had to be content with three and a half points out of five games played. Janowski still leads the veteran Steinitz with a point in his favor as to games lost, although in won games their scores are the same. Burn still holds his position as sixth, while Marocsy is next, a half point behind. In the games adjourned last week Steinitz beat Blackburn, Halprin defeated Janowski, Walbrodt succumbed to Baird, and Steinitz lost to Janowski. Of the tailenders, Trenchard fared the worst the week past with only a half point to be added to his credit. Showalter won one and a half and lost three and a half games, and Baird won two and lost three.

The record to date:

State Chess Association.

We have just received a copy of the official circular of the coming eleventh annual chess festival in the shape of a midsummer outing of our State Assoc'n. The dates are Aug. 8 13, incl; the place, Grove Spring Hotel, Keuka Lake, Steuben County. The managers are undoubtedly warranted in "announcing that the present outlook is that the meeting of '98 will equal or exceed in importance any that has yet been held."

Play for The Staats Zeitung Trophy will commence Aug. 8, at 10 A. M. The General Tournament will have greater interest than in past years on account of the silver cup presented last year by Mrs. Geo. C. Farnsworth, as a memorial of her late honored husband. This is to be in the keeping for the coming year of the first prize winner in the first class, the present holder being Pres't Howard J. Rogers. Also, a silver cup presented by H. D. Wright, the annual possession of which goes with the second prize in the third class. The present holder is A. Pieczonka.

The Interstate Match, N. Y. vs. Pennsylvania, seven a side, each to play one game with every member of the rival team, will be sharply contested and evoke unusual interest. This battle will commence Aug. 9. Many other attractions are to be provided. Each entrant for play is requested to bring board and chessmen. The fee for membership in the Association is $1, which may be remitted to Dr. R. W. Dahl, Manhattan C. C.

It should be borne in mind that the S. C. A. is an amateur organization, and large cash prizes are discountenanced; therefore the entrance fees are small. The manager of the hotel is C. H. Haskell, who has made favorable special rates for visiting members, and promises to do everything to make the visit of the Association pleasant.

Keuka Lake is reached from this city by the Erie and Delaware and Lackawanna R. R.; the Erie day express leaving N. Y. at 9 A. M., connects at Elmira for Bath, where the visitors take the Bath and Hammondsville R. R., reaching the hotel in ample time for dinner. By the night express the hotel is reached in time for breakfast. From the central, northern and western part of the State the lake may be reached by taking the N. Y. Central to Geneva, there changing to the Fall Brook R. R. for Penn Yan, thence by boat to Grove Spring; or from Rochester, changing to the Northern Central for Penn Yan; or from Lyons, changing to the Fall Brook for Penn Yan.

The officers of the N. Y. S. C. A. are: President, Howard J. Rogers; vice-do., D. F. Searle, Wesley Bigelow and Dr. O. P. Honegger; sec., Dr. L. D. Broughton Jr.; treas., Dr. E. W. Dahl; advisory committee, S. G. Ruth, G. A. T. Limbect and W. M. de Visser. For further information address Dr. L. D. Broughton Jr., 418 Madison Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Wheeling Sport in Canada.

The annual road races under the auspices of the Belleville (Ont.) Wheelmen were held on Washington Avenue July 16, with the following result:

Half mile.—Won by Wallwyn Hervey, T. Stone second, H. Walkland third. Time, 1m. 2s.

One mile.—Won by W. Kelsall, H. Walkland second, W. Hervey third. Time, 2m. ⅛s.

Five miles.—Won by W. Hervey, 1m. 15s.; W. Kelsall, 45s., second; T. Stone, 45s., third. Time, 14m. 18s.

THE RECENTLY ORGANIZED Amateur 'Cycling Association of England held its first championship meeting on July 5, at the Sheen House, London, Eng., where there is an excellent cement track. The occasion was signalized by the creation of two new tandem unpaced records. G. Thomson and H. B. Fitz riding one mile in 1m. 59⅕s. and afterwards beating the world's half mile record by covering the distance in 58⅘s. The one mile championship race was won by W. McBourke, in 3m. 4⅘s., and the ten miles championship by the same rider in 26m. 12⅕s.

THE Grand Circuit route for this year opens this week at Detroit, Mich., the Blue Ribbon meet beginning July 18. Cleveland, O., will follow during the succeeding week, the Columbus (O.) Driving Association Co. swinging into line Aug. 1–5. The Fort Wayne (Ind.) Driving Club has the next dates, Aug. 8–12; the Buffalo Driving Club inaugurates the Eastern assignment Aug. 16–19, Glens Falls, N. Y., comes next, Aug. 23–26, and the New England Trotting Horse Breeders' Association meeting at Readville, Mass., follows Aug. 29–Sept. 2. Charter Oak Park, Hartford, Ct., will hold the "Old Glory" contests Sept. 5–9, the circuit ending with the meeting at Portland, Me., Sept. 12–16. The tidy sum of $330,000 is held up to horsemen as an incentive to urge their horses to do their utmost, and the promise of the customary gilt edged harness sport are bright indeed.

THE ECLIPSE STAKES, of 10,000 sovereigns, second horse to receive 500 sovereigns, the nominator of the winner 500 sovereigns, and the third 100 sovereigns out of the stakes, about one mile and a quarter, was decided at Sandown Park, Eng., on July 15, nine horses starting, and Lord Rosebery's Velasquez, by Donovan-Vista, winning, with Batt second and Goletta third. The betting against the winner was 9 to 2, 6 to 1 against Batt and 5 to 4 against Goletta.

THE RECORDS were beaten at Washington Park, Chicago, Ill., on Saturday afternoon, July 16, Goodrich running a mile and a half, with 102lb up, in 2:30¼, and David Tenny, carrying 100lb, going a mile and a quarter in 2:04½. Both of these performances are the fastest ever accomplished on a circular track.

KLOTOWAH, a bay stallion by Steinway, the property of Mr. Keating, of Pleasanton, Cal., on the closing day of the harness meeting at Peoria, Ill., July 15, broke the three year old pacing record in each of the three heats in the 2:16 class, his time being 2:07¾, 2:09 and 2:06½.

JAMES R. KEENE'S American bred colt St. Cloud II won the Dullingham Plate, at Newmarket, Eng., July 12, the other two starters, King's Messenger and Sweet Hampton, finishing in order.

BUMPS, owned by D. & S. Wilson, of Rushville, Ind., paced a mile in 2:05, at Peoria, Ill., July 13. The last quarter was made in 29¾ and the last half in 1:00 flat.

RACING BY THE SEASIDE.

Good Sport and Generally Large Attendance Marks the Brighton Beach Racing Association's Summer Meeting.

The sixth day of the Summer meeting of the Brighton Beach Racing Association, at Brighton Beach, L. I., Tuesday, July 12, was marked by good racing generally. The unfortunate death of Bromley & Co.'s Rosebud, a prominent factor in the betting at 3 to 1, was a prominent incident. The colt finished eleventh and dropped dead almost immediately after passing the finish line. Jockey Taral, who had the mount, fortunately escaped uninjured. The Flight Handicap, won by Marcus Daly's Isidore, was the only stake fixture on the card, although the six remaining purse propositions elicited excellent sport, promoted strongly by some stirring finishes Ogden's prowess also added another race to Mr. Daly's string in the same card. Campania, Hurricane, Rappahannock, Miss Lynah and Kinvarra being the remaining winners. Summary:

Time, 2:49¾.

From early morning until after the opening race had been concluded Wednesday afternoon, a driving rain drenched residents of the Metropolitan district to the skin, hence only a small delegation of the most faithful ventured to take a chance on a clear up in time for a conclusion of the afternoon's sport. The turnstyles registered less than fifteen hundred admissions, but the lowering skies cleared up promptly at the finish of the initial race, and spectators were thereafter treated to exhilirating sport in spite of the soggy condition of the going. The card was innocent of stake events, the six purse struggles being captured by Doggett, Mail Bag, Briar Sweet. Sensational, Hilee and King T., five of the list being outsiders in the betting. Briar Sweet was the one to redeem the hopes of the faithful, by winning with comparative ease with an estimate of 7 to 2 on the victory going that way. Summary:

Selling, for two year olds and upward, $500 added, of which $75 to second and $25 to third, allowances, one mile.

R. C Doggett's ch. h. Doggett, 6, by The Bard-Rosewood, 116; 20 to 1.....Doggett 1

Little Danny Maher was the hero of the afternoon, Thursday, 14, his riding being of the truly gilt edged sort. He rode in all of the six events, and was "in the money" every time he mounted save one, scoring four firsts and a third, which quite equals any work of the local season. There was a crowd of thirty thousand on hand to enjoy the splendid racing and agreeable weather conditions, and although the knowing ones had received severe setbacks in late endeavors to select the winners, followers of form stuck to their bringing up, and the favorites all went to the post strongly backed. Tender, Murillo, Glorian and Charentus, the last mentioned at odds on, were the winning first choices, the outsiders being Continental and Autumn. The big majority of winning favorites put the afternoon's work on a pleasing basis for "the talent," and the lovers of the sport for sport's sake, were equally gratified at the outcome of the day. Summary:

New York vs. St. Louis.

The New Yorks found the Browns to be very much to their liking, and plucked another victory from them, July 12, at the Polo Grounds, this city. The visitors made a show of resistance, but it was a feeble effort, and the home team had apparently little trouble in winning. The latter are making a hard fight to retrieve some of the ground lost during the earlier days of the struggle for the pennant, and if they keep up their good work for a while longer they will be in a better position than they have been holding lately. Of course, everything is in their favor now, but a victory over the tail end teams counts just as much as one over the leaders. The full strength of the New York team was not out on this occasion, but they were strong enough for the Browns. Gleason and Davis were the absentees, and their places were taken by Gettig and Doyle. Meekin pitched for the home team and Esper for the visitors, and both did some creditable work in that respect. While Esper held the locals down to six safe hits, including a double bagger, he gave six men their base on balls and made a wild pitch, all of which aided largely in giving runs to the home team, as safe hits invariably followed the free passes to first base. Meekin gave only two bases on balls and one resulted in a run for the Browns. In the second inning Quinn was the recipient of four balls, and was sent home on safe hits by Carsey and Esper. A double bagger by Grady was the only long safe hit of the game. The score:

Two victories over the much lambasted St. Louis Browns is what the New Yorks accomplished on the afternoon of July 14. The double header over the Browns brought the New Yorks to within speaking distance of the Pittsburgs in the pennant race. Rusie was in good form, holding the visitors down to five safe hits, but he used no speed, merely tossing the ball over the plate and depending upon his fielders. Taylor, on the other hand, proved easy for the local batsmen, and they batted him freely, bunching their hits in two innings, when they scored more than enough runs to win with apparent ease. This game was stopped for about five minutes by rain in the second inning. The visitors played poorly, they appearing to have no ambition to win. The long safe hits were a double and a triple bagger by Tiernan and doubles by Quinn, Doyle and Hartman. Gleason reappeared with the home team. The score:

The second game was the one postponed from the day before on account of rain, and the New Yorks won it by taking advantage of Sudhoff's apparent weakness in the fifth inning. Up to this point it looked as if the visitors would certainly win the game, as they had a lead of three to nothing and were playing in good form. In the fifth Hartman was given a base on balls, then Grady bunted and Doheny was hit on the arm with a pitched ball, filling the bases. Van Haltren hit to right field for three bases, sending in three runs and scoring himself on a wild throw by Carsey to Cross. After that the Browns were never dangerous. Both pitchers did great work in the centre of the diamond. After the third inning Doheny was practically invincible, while Sudhoff did his best work prior to the fifth inning. In that time he allowed the locals only one safe hit and no runs. In the last four innings they made six hits off him, while the visitors made only four off Doheny during the entire game. The score:

Baltimore vs. Cincinnati.

Superior batting and faultless fielding helped the Cincinnatis to defeat the Baltimores on July 12, at Baltimore, Md. The visitors certainly played in championship form in this contest, in striking contrast to the work of the home team. The latter batted hard enough to win almost any game, but could only bunch their hits to any advantage in two innings—the third and seventh, while their fielding was decidedly off color. Maul and Nops, who succeeded him, proved the easiest kind of marks for the visiting batsmen, and they took advantage of the occasion to fatten their batting averages, McBride, Smith, Corcoran and Miller, in particular, helping themselves to a round dozen hits, some of them being stretched into extra bases. The long safe ones were a home run by McGann, triple baggers by Smith and Corcoran, and doubles by McBride and Corcoran. Corcoran's all around work, and De Monfreville's fielding, were features. As in the game of the preceding day, the Cincinnatis on July 13 again outclassed the home team and won with apparent ease. Hill was put out of the game for having too much to say in regard to the umpire's decisions, he being succeeded by Damman, and while both were quite freely batted by the locals the superb fielding done by the visitors kept down the former's score. Hughes was batted hard from the start, and was finally replaced by McJames. Baltimore's errors were responsible for at least five of the Cincinnati's runs. The visitors batted well, fielded finely and ran the bases superbly. Corcoran led in batting. His three hits included a triple bagger, while the other long safe hits were a triple by Miller and doubles by Irwin, Holmes and Maul. Four double plays were made, three being credited to the visitors. The score:

There was plenty of excitement and interesting features enough to suit anybody in the contest between these teams on July 14, when they struggled for twelve innings without reaching a result. The Cincinnatis put up another faultless fielding game and batted hard, but not consecutively enough for good results. The home team also batted hard, but their fielding was poor, their misplays giving the visitors four of the five runs credited to them. Besides being freely batted Breitenstein was very unsteady in his delivery, giving eight men their base on balls. Manager Ewing was put out of the grounds for throwing a ball that was in play over the fence. McGraw led in batting, while the long safe hits were double baggers by Jennings, Smith and Corcoran. The fielding of Jennings and Corcoran was sensational. The score:

The St. Louis Browns reversed the above result on July 16, when they scored their first victory in a couple of weeks. "I knew that something was due to fall," said Manager Tim Hurst, after the game, "when I saw them set that pace for the Brooklyns," and the Browns really did set a fast pace, and kept it up all through the game. They began this series well by playing a twelve inning game on the day before, and, although they lost by 3 to 2, they played better ball than they had done in some time before. They went into this game to do better still, and the result shows how well they succeeded. The work of Taylor and Clements, the ex-Philadelphians, was of the highest order, and after the first inning Taylor had the locals completely at his mercy. A base on balls, a single and a double gave the Brooklyns two runs in the first inning, and led the faithful rooters to believe that their favorites would win in a walk. This impression was short lived, for the locals stopped short as though struck dumb, and scored only one more run after the first inning. In the meantime the Browns were not idle, they gathering seven runs in the third, fourth and fifth innings; then they stopped, but they had enough to win. The long safe hits were double baggers by Clements, Hallman and Yeager. The injury to Griffin's ankle still kept him out of the game, and he was greatly missed. The score:

The Brooklyns defeated the Browns on July 18, but they had a hard job on their hands before they accomplished the trick. The visitors opened on Kennedy as if they meant to send him to the bench before the game was half over, but they failed in their mission, even if they did bat him hard, and took a lead of five to one at the close of the third inning. In the remaining six innings, however, they could get only one man across the plate. The Brooklyns also used their bats quite freely, but it was only in the fifth inning that they bunched their hits to any extent. In that inning, after the first two men up had been put out, they made five safe hits, including a triple bagger, and scored four runs. The score:

Baltimore vs. Chicago.

The Baltimores defeated the Chicagos July 15, at Baltimore, Md., in a contest that had a close and exciting finish. With the score of five to three against them the visitors went in on the ninth inning and scored six runs on two triples, a double, a single, a base on balls and two errors. It looked like all day for the home team, who, while batting Wood's delivery quite freely, were not bunching their hits in a very dangerous manner, but they went at him on their last chance and made a Garrison finish. They solved Wood's curves for five singles and a double, netting four runs, with only one man out. The long safe hits were triple baggers by Dahlen, Connor and McGraw and doubles by Isbell Donahue and Jennings. The score:

The Baltimores maintained their winning streak by again defeating the Chicagos on July 16. For six innings the game was pretty evenly played, though it could hardly be called exciting. In the seventh the locals knocked the ball about considerably, and at the same time sent four runs across the plate, taking a lead that they easily held until the end. Both sides had abundant opportunities to score during the earlier part of the contest, but both pitchers proved very effective at critical times, when a hit was needed. While McJames kept up his good work all through, Griffith broke down after the sixth inning. Both teams had out mixed teams, Ryan being the absentee from the Chicagos, and Kelley and Brodie from the home team. While McJames was a little unsteady, giving four bases on balls, he allowed the visitors only five safe hits. Griffith gave one base on balls, hit other batsmen and was batted safely thirteen times. The long safe hits were a triple bagger by Everitt and doubles by Jennings and De Montreville. The score:

The Baltimores again won on July 18, after a hard uphill fight. For four innings they could do virtually nothing with Kilroy's delivery. While they batted his delivery they could not make a hit when it was needed. In the fifth, however, they began to straighten out his curves in such a lively manner that he was replaced by Thornton, who had been playing centre field. The change proved a good one for the local batsmen, who kept up their fusillade at the bat. Hughes pitched good ball, and had he been given perfect support the visitors would have been blanked. Boston vs. Pittsburg.

The Pittsburgs struck something easy on July 15, when the went to Boston, Mass. They had experienced a hard time of it at Brooklyn and were glad when they shook the dust of that borough from their feet. The visitors outplayed the champions at all points and succeeded in shutting out the latter without a run. The team from the Smoky City did not have to do such a terrible lot of batting, but managed to make their hits at the right time. The Bostons played poorly in the field, their errors helping materially in giving the visitors a victory. Tannehill pitched good ball and had the champions guessing all through the nine innings. He did not prevent them from batting him safely, but he kept their hits so well apart that they drew only blanks for their efforts. A two baser by Collins was the only long safe hit of the game. McCreery led in batting, with three singles. The score:

The Bostons batted out a victory on July 16, as the visitors outplayed them in the field. The Pittsburgs played a snappy game for four innings. At that time they led the home team by 4 to 0, and the five thousand enthusiasts thought another shutout was in store for the Bostons, but the latter pulled themselves together and made a desperate effort to change the state of affairs; they succeeded most nobly, and for the rest of the game clearly outplayed their opponents, forcing Hastings to retire in the fifth inning, when they gave him a severe drubbing. Gardner succeeded Hastings, but he could not check the home team in their terrific onslaught at the bat. The long safe hits were home runs by Long and Collins, a triple bagger by Lowe, and doubles by McCarthy, Ely and Long. The batting of Long and the fielding of McCarthy and Ely were features. They lost another game to the Bostons on July 18, and their defeat enabled the New Yorks to go ahead of them in the percentage table. The home team were short handed, but they were strong enough to win from the visitors. Willis pitched effectively, and the perfect support he received enabled him to hold the Pittsburgs down to seven safe hits, and keep them so well apart that they netted only two runs. Rhines was hit hard at the right time. Ladd, lately of the defunct New England League, was tried by Boston in left field and did well. The long safe hits were a triple bagger by Collins and a double by Lowe. The score:

New York vs. Louisville.

The New Yorks were treated to a surprise on July 15, at the Polo Grounds, this city, in a manner they had not expected. It was another case of a throw down for the talent; a fifteen to one shot, as it were. The Louisvilles were looked upon as being as easy for the New Yorks as the St. Louis Browns had been, but in this they fooled the locals by winning the first game of the present series. A change was made in the local team. Joyce retired and Doyle was placed on first base, with Gettig on second and Grady in right field. This was looked upon as the strongest team the New Yorks could place on the field under the circumstances, but it was not strong enough to win from the Louisvilles. In fact, the visitors put up a remarkably good article of ball playing, and had they played as well throughout the season they would now be up among the leaders. Meekin pitched far better than did Cunningham and the New Yorks outbatted the visitors, but the latter had a knack of getting hits when they did the most good. The long safe hits were double baggers by Clarke, Doyle and Wagner. The score:

It was evident when these teams met, July 16, that the public was not to expect the Louisvilles to play in championship form in two consecutive days, for if they did they would be disappointed. After playing such a good game on Friday the visitors went to the extremes in this contest. In fact, after the first half of the second inning they were never in hailing distance of the New Yorks; although they outbatted the latter they played so poorly in other respects that more than offset their good work at the bat. Magee, who started in to pitch for the visitors, began well, but went into the air in the second inning, and was relieved by Dowling. The latter was no improvement, lasting only one inning. In that brief space of time he gave two men their base on balls, hit another batsman with a pitched ball, and was hit safely twice, allowing four runs. In the fourth inning Todd, formerly of the Pawtucket (R. I.) team, went in to pitch, and made a fairly good showing, but the game was virtually lost before he began pitching. Gettig pitched for the home team, and although batted quite freely the visitors were only able to bunch their hits to any extent in the second inning, when it looked as if he would be driven to the woods, but he pulled through all right, and pitched effectively after that. The long safe hits were a triple bagger by Todd and doubles by Kittridge and Grady. The score:

"Si" Seymour was chiefly responsible for the throw down the Louisvilles received on July 18, when they made only one safe hit off his delivery in a game of nine innings, and this one was credited to Hoy, their mute outfielder. The New Yorks gave Seymour excellent support, George Davis and Gleason carrying off the honors in the field. The visitors' only run was the result of a muffed fly in short centre field by George Davis, which he could have caught easily but for Van Haltren's interference. On the error Harry Davis reached second base. He stole third, and ran home on Ritchey's out at first. The New Yorks were helped to several runs through Frazer's wildness in giving bases on balls, hitting another batsman with a pitched ball and being batted at opportune times.

Washington vs. Cleveland.

The Washingtons outbatted the Clevelands on July 15, at Washington, D. C., but the wretched errors by Wrigley, Anderson and Weyhing, with the timely batting by the Clevelands, enabled the latter to win. For six innings Weyhing pitched so effectively that the visitors could not get a man across the home plate. The speed the locals were traveling at appeared to be too fast for them, for in the seventh they began to work in a combination of errors, and the Clevelands sandwiched a few hits and five runs resulted, which gave the lead to them, and they had no trouble in holding it. Burkett and McGuire led their respective teams in batting, while the long safe hits were home runs by Wallace and Anderson and doubles by Wilson and Reitz. The score:

WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE?

Pat Flynn had sixty-seven hats,
And wanted sixty more;
It was an odd, strange whim of Pat's
For only one he wore:
But he would toil by night or day
To get a hat to lay away.

'Twas "Hats" the first thing in the morn,
And "Hats" at noon and night;
The neighbors laughed the man to scorn,
And said it was but right
To send such crazy cranks as he
To spend their days at Kankakee.

A million dollars Peter Doyle
Had laid away in store,
Yet late and early did he toil
To get a million more.
He could not use the half he had,
And yet he wanted "more," bedad.

His neighbors praised him to the skies
Wherever he might go;
They called him great and good and wise,
And bowed before him low.
Is there such a difference as that
Between a dollar and a hat?

COMPANIONS OF THE ROAD.

BY HARDIE WRIGHT.

"Thank God for all things beautiful!" cried the artist.

"Thank Gord for my good dinner!" said the tramp.

Then she wiped her mouth on the back of her rough hand, and the artist felt for his pipe.

He found it, and fumbled for some matches, laying palette and brushes carefully on the ground.

The matches found, he struck one. Encountering in the process a glance from curious eyes, he sent the box spinning in the owner's lap.

"Join me?" he said, and the tramp acquiescing with a nod, tossed a cigarette after it, as he had some time before tossed her his luncheon out of the wallet at his feet.

She picked it up and fingered it, then placed it somewhat gingerly between her lips.

It was a maiden effort; that was evident. He laughed when the thing rolled, smoking, to his feet.

"Don't like it, don't you?"

She coughed and sputtered.

"Well, why the dickens did you take it, then?"

She was livid with discomfort, but she raised her brows.

"'Ow are you to know nice from narsty till yer've tried it?"

The artist laughed.

Some specks of ash besprinkled her worn gown. She shook it free of them with a careful hand. Then she locked it in its fellow round her knees, and sat looking at the artist, who, in turn, was looking at his picture. And in the eyes of both dawned a growing geniality, born on the one side of artistic satisfaction, on the other of a grosser kind, derived from a full stomach.

"Excellently argued, my wayside philosopher." He stretched his legs—with caution—on the camp stool, smiling cynically through a cloud of smoke. Other people's experiences are never satisfactory. Get your own first hand. I always do."

Presently the girl's gaze wandered to the canvas.

"Is that me!" she asked, and paused and flushed resentfully.

"A doubtful likeness, since you fail ro recognize it," he laughed.

"It looks ——," she said, and stopped.

"Well?" he urged, expectant of a quaint criticism.

"Like a play actress—in tights," she finished, frowning heavily.

He chuckled. The remark amused him. He knew so many "play actresses in tights" who would shrink from contact with this dusty wayside wanderer. Yet, in turn, this vagrant shrank from them. She resented even the resemblance of a curve. The thing was humorous.

He turned and glanced at the canvas.

Yes, he had outlined the figure somewhat daringly; but, then, it was that grand sweep from the knee to shoulder which had first attracted him. He had passed her earlier in the day, sitting by the roadside combing out her hair—had passed her, with his still buoyant step and knapsack strapped to shoulder, humming gayly. But—struck by something in the girl's attitude—he had retraced his steps, and asked her to sit to him.

She still regarded the picture, lines of dissatisfaction puckering her brows.

"Well?" said the artist,

"Them boots o' mine," she answered. A pause. "Couldn't you rub 'em out?" persuasively; "I've got a better pair—springside 'uns—in my bundle."

The artist shook his head. They were bad boots, he conceded, but good art.

"Oh, well," she said, "if that's it"—adding vaguely, "I'll forgive a gent a lot if 'e's good 'earted."

A horsey looking man, his outspread legs encased in skin tight trousers, rattled by them, driving a light cart. He leered at the girl in passing.

"Who's your friend?"

The tramp's brows lowered.

"He ain't no friend o' mine."

"Oh, come now," lightly; "you're not so solitary as I thought, apparently. To be sure, you're too young and too good looking to lack company by the way."

"I needn't," she said, and smiled in great contempt. "That cove offered me a lift larst night further up the road."

"The deuce he did! Well," with the easy tolerance of an avowed Bohemian, "weren't you rather foolish to refuse?"

She sent a scowl after the dust enveloped wheels.

"I'm on my own since mother died," she said. "When I want a pal I'll choose my own company."

The artist laughed.

"That's right, my dear; I commend your judgment; the serpent in this case was an ugly looking customer."

He pulled at his pipe in silence.

"So mother's dead?"—presently. "Dear, dear! That's bad." He struggled with a yawn. "What did she die of?" Vaguely sympathetic.

"Booze," returned the tramp, but spoke so gravely he checked a rising laugh.

"And father? Where is he?"

She shrugged her shapely shoulders.

"Gord knows." She sat up, coiling up her hair. "Where do the fathers of pore gal children go?"

He nodded comprehensively, curving his thumb downward.

The girl laughed.

"Ain't that the plaice wot's paved with good intentions? Well, father never 'ad any t'ords mother, so 'e won't go there."

Stooping for his brushes, he began touching up the canvas.

"Well—father being an accident, and mother given to drink—you led a nice life of it between them, I suppose?"

"Father was a gentleman. 'E only see me once."

"When he salved mother's conscience with alimony, I presume?" He laughed the laugh of the cynic who, blase, sins no more. "History repeats itself in matters of the kind. * * * And she beat you, of course? Half starved you 'in her cups?'"

"Wot! mother?" The girl looked up, ire flaming in her eye. "A angel of a woman—when she weren't in drink, pore soul!"

She stopped and sighed. He was struck by her expression. He went on questioning, working rapidly the while.

"What did you do for a living? Had you any trade?"

"We wos artificial flower makers in the Winter time," she said; "in the Summer we went tramping, and earned a bit at 'opping."

"'Opping?"

"Yus, 'op picking. That's wot I'm doing now."

"I see. Where are you making for?"

"A bit further up the road. To a place where they knows me. We're old hands, me an' mother."

"It's a hard life?"

"It ain't all beer and skittles!"

"I'll tell you what," suddenly; "you're a handsome girl, you make a first rate sitter. I'll put you into the way of earning money as a model."

She was silent.

"What do you say?"

"That's my address," he said, scribbling on a card. "When you're back in town just come and look me up."

He tossed it over. She let it lay unheeded.

"I'd rather stick to the flower trade," she said.

The artist was surprised; he paused, regarding her.

"'Um!" she answered, shutting her lips tight. A light dawned. The girl looked flushed and angry.

She did not blush this time. Comments—coarse, even brutal—on her physical endowments fell on her ears by no means for the first time.

"I'm a honest woman," was all she found to answer.

"Of course, of course;" adding, "all my models are."

"I promised pore mother to keep straight," she said. "Took my Bible oath on it on 'er dyin' bed, I did."

Eyes and voice were alike earnest; they impressed him, though he laughed.

"Very commendable on your part, my dear; a trifle unreasonable on mother's, though."

Frowning for a moment, she turned her head aside. "Wot was the good o' talkin' serious to these swells?"

"It isn't carrying out your philosophy, you know," he spoke again, presently; "the philosophy of the many, the philosophy of the cigarette." Gradually falling into thoughtfulness, he sighed "Life itself is only a cigarette, carelessly made up, of mostly bad tobacco, the outer coating poison, and ending—in smoke and ashes."

They were silent for a while, engrossed in their own thoughts. Said the tramp presently, with a sort of softened shyness, "Gord's good, but 'e's got a large family! 'E's got to be e-co-nomical, I s'pose. Now, mother's misfortunes 'ad to warn me off the like. * * * It's same as a teacher at a night school I onst went to. She got no time to set us all a copy—left us big 'uns to take the little 'uns in tow."

The artist answered nothing; he was frowning at the canvas. Said the tramp, leaning forward, with her elbows on her knees: "When some one as you've lived with 'as seen life, an' you're the cornsequences, the gilts took off the gingerbread—you ain't a-'aving none."

The artist conceded that it was rather humorous.

The artist pronounced it an excellent simile. Life was like sausages, he agreed, piquant and alluring to the nostrils; if it proved less satisfying to the palate and tickled curiosity you must shut your eyes and "down it," asking no questions.

The girl, wary of ridicule, eyed him with suspicion. She cried out suddenly, wishing she "was dead."

"My good soul, why?" pausing, a brush suspended in the air. "Death is extinction, a long, idle sleep; and to be idle is to be damned, which is the only creed I act on. No, I'd rather be a live dog than a dead king any day." The sketch was finished; he grew genial once more. "To die is to lose such power as we may possess—and we all of us possess power of some sort, my child, if its only that supreme one of making one's self unpleasant."

He chuckled like a man who had never wasted his.

"I must be movin'," she said, and bent to lift her bundle.

The artist watched her.

"You'd better change your mind."

She shook her head.

"You're foolish."

"P'raps," she sighed. "Gord knows."

And moved away.

"Here, stop!" He called her back. "Take this—no nonsense, now!" He forced the money into her hand. "Now smile." She looked at him. "Smile, in the name of decency, or you'll haunt me in my sleep!" She smiled—in heavy wonder. "There, there, be off!"

He was half impatient, more with himself than her. She stood at his elbow, as if loath to leave his side.

"It must be fine to make pictures," said the tramp.

"It must be finer to make money," said the artist.

He began scrawling his name in green paint across the canvas.

"Is it for the Royle Academy?" she said.

"What do you know about the Royal Academy, pray?"

"Oh, nothin', reely; but I've been there once afore,"

"The deuce you have!" turning in his seat. "I thought you told me this was your first sitting?"

"So 'tis—to remember; I was a baby the larst time. * * * Father took me; 'e wos a artist, too."

"The devil he was! You never told me that."

"'E wos, though, a real 'un, not a bloomin' paivement chalker."

He laughed.

"That's understood, since he was a Royal Academician. What was his name?"

"I ain't a-goin' to tell."

"What was the subject?"

"I wos—in long clothes. Mother remembered it; it wos the time 'e come to see 'er, an' she saw the picture afterward in a winder in Pall Mall."

He was embellishing his signature with a flourish of the brush when a thought seemed to strike him and hold him by the wrist.

"What was it like? Did your mother ever tell you?"

"'Course she did, lots o' times. She was proud to think 'e 'd noticed me. I wos lyin', a'most naked, on some workus-looking steps, an' my eyes wos wide open, lookin' up'ards at the stars."

"'The Love Child' !"

"That's it! You've seed the picture, too?"

"Often," quietly; "it's copied quite a deal."

His hand was growing careless; it swerved and the brush slipped. The girl cried out; there was a daub across the canvas.

"There, now," regretfully, "you've made a smudge across yer name. It looks like I was paddlin' in a puddle o' green paint!"

The artist did not answer.

"I'm glad o' one thing, though," more cheerfully; "them boots are hid. I ain't stickin' my toes out for the birds to roost on."

Still he did not answer. His silence and abstraction were taken as dismissal. She hitched up her bundle, wishing him "Good day."

"No; wait a bit." He got up for the first time, and came and stood before her. "Won't you shake hands before you go, my—my dear?"

Bewildered, but gratified, she gave him hers at once. It was rough and sunburned, and perhaps not over clean, yet there was a curious resemblance between the tramp's hand and his own. He dropped it hurriedly.

"How old are you, my child?"

"Eighteen, come Chris'mas."

His eyes were on her face; they studied it intently.

"Ah-h!" he said, and dropped a few steps back. "Well, good bye. Good luck! God bless you!"

Her eyes filled with tears.

"What are you crying for?"

The tears brimmed over.

"Et you. You spoke so kind; you made me think o' mother."

"A hint for your future guidance." His voice was hard again. "Never trust a man because he appears 'kind.' They're mostly dangerous, and often the worst sort."

The change in his tone depressed her.

"Ches'nuts!" she sighed, forlornly; "pore mother told me that."

His glance fell to earth. A pink tipped daisy was peeping above the grass: he ground it into the sod with the toe of his heavy boot.

"Good bye, again."

She took his proffered hand.

"Stop that, for God's sake! I can't bear to see a woman cry."

Stop it she couldn't, but she crooked her arm and held it before her face.

"Life's so 'ard," she moaned; "people is such 'ogs, an' oh! I'm so lonely since my pore mother died!"

He stood beside her, listening to her sobs.

"My dear," he said at last, "we are all lonely—you on the high road, I in the cities, 'pore mother' in her grave."

He paused, laying a hand on the girl's heaving shoulder. "Loneliness is the common lot; we carry it hidden in our souls through life; even in crowds it cries out ceaselessly above the din. We can make a noise to drown it, we can bury it deep and drink upon its tomb—it will creep out in the nighttime, when the others are all gone, and, climbing onto our pillows, sit and jabber to us in the dark.....But life has to be lived through," throwing back his head; "its prizes fought for, squabbled over; and errors, I suppose, must be committed by the way.....The preachers tell us that sin comes home to us; so it does, but it isn't to the sinner. There's a truth so brutal it might almost keep one good. The man who 'sees life' isn't asked to pay the piper; the 'wages' are exacted, but it's the innocent who pay."

The tramp's tears were dried; she was lost in admiring wonder.

"I'm a hoary old sinner," he added, with a curiously gentle smile; "but take my advice, my dear, the advice of a man who might almost be your—father; go on being respectable, stay innocent—keep good."

He patted her shoulder, then gave it a gentle push. And so they parted. He watched her tramping down the long white road.

"Confound her eyes!" he muttered; "that's why they haunted me!"

She trudged on with her bundle. His eyes followed almost yearningly. She rounded a bend. The tramp looked back.

"Liz!" he murmured half unconsciously; "poor, pretty, foolish Liz!" His own voice roused him. He smiled into vacancy. "That was the name! I thought I had forgo'ten."

The road turned. She disappeared from view.

He whistled, frowned and finally shrugged his shoulders.

"If she'd only been a lady," presently. He was staring at the canvas. "Bah! What nonsense! A tramp! Her mother's child!"

He fell on one knee and began packing up his traps.

"'Life's so 'ard, an' people is such 'ogs!'"

His laugh rang out, but it wasn't a merry one. Picking up the picture, he held it in both hands.

"Good bye, young Mournful Eyes," he said: "Good luck go with you! You've given me a headache, but I wish you well."

His face twitched. He laid the canvas gently down.

"Confound it all! I'll burn the thing directly I get home!"—The Sketch.

BY PAUL PASTNOR.

How passing sweet, in August heat,
When quivering sunbeams earthward beat
And all the landscape glows,
To linger by the velvet lawn
Where, with trim skirts about her drawn,
Fair Polly plies the hose!

Like some sweet naiad in a mist
That blows about her, rainbow kist,
Along the sward she goes.
Her wayward tresses diamond dight,
Her bare arms gleaming—what a sight,
When Polly plies the hose!

As the cool fragrance I inhale,
Blown round my goddess like a veil,
My joy to rapture grows.
Sweet to be near her—doubly sweet,
Sometimes, that witching glance to meet,
When Polly plies the hose.

And yet, alas! I learn too late
That woman ne'er directed straight
Aught that her fair hand throws.
The fluent missile down my back
Hath ofttimes trickled cold, alack!
When Polly plies the hose!

THEY WOULD GIVE A SHOW.

"In these days, when pious young women black their faces and take to tambourines and bones and minstrel jokes to raise the mortgage from the dear old church," said Mr. Johnson, of Selectville, N. J., "it should not have surprised me when Our Club decided to give a minstrel show. I should have accepted it simply as an evidence that we were moving along with the times, but I didn't.

"On the contrary, I prophesied that there would be trouble, and there was trouble. You may not know that Our Club is quite the most exclusive in town. No butchers or grocers need apply. It numbers among its members representatives of Hill Side Park, Low Ground Park and the Neck, and in Selectville if you don't live in one of those three residence portions even the census taker will overlook you.

"As a peaceful man I was selected by the club as a member of the committee of arrangements, and from that moment my worries began. First Mrs. Johnson and I received a call from Mr. and Mrs. Smith, of Low Ground Park. We people of Hill Side Park sometimes say unkind things of Low Ground Park, and the residents of the latter place say unkind things about Hill Side Park.

"They say, you know, that there is malaria in Low Ground Park. At any rate the Smiths' call surprised us a bit. They are very nice people, and Smith is a promising young physician who takes himself and life very seriously. Mrs. Smith harbors the delusion that her husband is a great wit and a sad wag. She has an Ignatius Donnelly way of reading humor between the lines of Smith's somewhat matter of fact remarks. During the course of the evening Mrs. Smith said to me:

"'Now, Mr. Johnson, you really must persuade Sam to be one of the end men in your minstrel show. He is so funny."

"'We are looking for good men,' I said, innocently.

"'Then ask Sam right now, and I will coax him to accept.'

"I fell into the trap easily, and I did ask Sam Smith on my own responsibility. His wife backed up my request by telling Sam that she knew he would look lovely in a black face, and Sam said:

"'If you are sure that you want me, and that I can be of any assistance, I am willing to oblige you.'

"That answer convinced me that I had made no mistake, and when our committee met on the next evening I announced proudly that I had secured Sam Smith as an end man.

"'Is he good?' asked the chairman.

"'One of the very best amateurs in Selectville,' I answered, confidently.

"'That's good,' said the chairman. 'I have secured the services of Major Puggsley, of the Neck, as an end man, and with the aid of two professionals to strengthen us and do a little fancy dancing, I am sure that we can make all the other amateur shows look like thirty cents.'

"The gentlemen of the circle were selected with some difficulty. Feeling certain that the show was bound to be a success, the committee began by voting itself in as members of the circle. That left only eight vacant places, and every member of the club was a candidate for them. We did select eight men, and by doing so we made 164 enemies. But let that pass. Each one of the three residence parks was represented, so that we might be sure of having a big audience. The selections being made, we called a rehearsal at my house. Talk about your Holland Dames and your Revolutionary Daughters. They are tame. Just organize a minstrel show if you want excitement.

"When the performers came together each one insisted that his pet joke or gag should be used. It took an hour to bring order out of chaos, and then we found that we were definitely committed to two very ancient gags that Dr. Smith stood out for and one that Major Puggsley insisted on. He knew it was funny, because when he was a boy he had been amused by it, and he had never told it since without receiving shouts of laughter. Such lines as were necessary were assigned, and each man was instructed to perfect himself in his part. The two professional end men did the instructing, and a week later another rehearsal was called.

"That rehearsal was a ghastly affair. We placed ourselves in a circle as we expected to sit on the stage, and the manager acted as middle man. Dr. Smith and Major Puggsley were up in all of their business, so they said, and we got right down to work. The Major began a negro story, with the aid of the manager, and his dialect was taken bodily from a recent Scotch novel. It was bad, and his jokes were bad. I took the chairman one side and said:

"'Look here, old man, the major is a good fellow, but he is no end man. You will have to withdraw him.'

"'I don't see how I can do that,' he answered. 'He has bought twenty tickets for his friends, and the crowd from the Neck is coming purposely to hear him.'

"'It must be done or the show will be ruined,' I answered, and in this opinion I was upheld by all of the committeemen. The rehearsal had been stopped, and it was decided that I should break the news to Major Puggsley. I called him to one side of the stage and said:

"'Major, you have a good voice and you are a rattling good fellow, but some of us think that you are not quite up to what we want for an end man. Not quite, you know.

"'Sir, do you mean to insult me?" asked the major.

"'Most certainly not, but—well, to tell you the truth, we want just such a man as you are for an usher, you know. You are too good looking to black your face, and ——'

"'Now, Mr. Johnson,' interrupted the Major, 'I am too old to be fooled by that sort of thing. This is a direct affront, sir, and I and my friends on the Neck will resent it. Why, I saw minstrel shows before you were born, sir. Good evening, sir,' and out he walked.

"This was annoying, and despite the fact that the entire company stood by my, I felt somewhat that I had made a mistake. The rehearsal was begun again, and Dr. Smith sprung his gags and did a dance. You could cut the silence with a cheese knife when Dr. Smith began. He had a partially developed Irish brogue which he tried to palm off as negro talk. We knew better, of course. His dance was as bad as his dialect, and his stories were about as funny as a pan of dough. Cold perspiration bearded my forehead as I sat there and wondered if he appeared as bad to the other members as he did to me, and where Mrs. Smith ever got the idea that he would make a good end man. My thoughts were interrupted by the chairman saying to me coldly:

"'Mr. Johnson, may I speak to you a moment?'

"I stepped into an adjoining room and the chairman started in with:

"'Your friend is the worse ever. Why, the Major is a laugh provoker compared with him. Call him off. Send him home. He will wreck the show.'

"'You may do that yourself,' I answered somewhat bitterly. 'I have made an enemy of your friend the Major. You tackle Smith.'

"The chairman called Smith one side and the conversation that followed was brisk. I heard Smith say that I had urged him against his will to take part, and that he considered it very shabby treatment. The chairman got angry, and so did Smith, and Smith left without saying good evening. There is no use going into any more harrowing details about that show. Families were parted, old friends became enemies. On the night of the show a big block of empty seats on the west side of the hall showed plainly that the people of the Neck had resented our treatment of Major Puggsley.

"Another large block of vacant seats in the centre of the hall showed Low Ground Park had stayed at home and sympathized with Dr. Smith. When a story that had been approved by one faction and condemned by another was told the adherents of the former laughed uproariously and those of the latter looked sad. I tell you that minstrel show was an event. No two of the quartet of end men were on speaking terms off the stage. They ran down each other's real estate in their gags and they said unkind things. It really wasn't a bad show, you know, but everything in Selectville now dates from it.

"Mrs. Johnson had resigned from four whist clubs because Mrs. Jones, whose husband acted so hatefully toward me, was a member of them. The Smith family and the Puggsley family have cut us dead on every occasion. We don't speak to them, either. I take another train to town in the morning to avoid the chairman, and there is even talk of a split in the church because of that miserable show. Now be warned by me, my boy, and never accept an invitation to take part in such a thing. Selectville is all broken up and it will be years before the wounds are healed.—N. Y. Sun.

CHINESE SHOES.

"I may seem to be quarreling with my bread and butter," said an uptown chiropodist to one of his best customers the other day, "but in my humble and somewhat professional opinion, the most sensible of all men in the matter of footwear is the Chinaman. Did you ever notice his feet? I don't believe there is such a thing as a corn or a bunion in all China. Chiropodists would starve to death there, so far as the requirements of the masculine foot are concerned.

"Whatever the deformities inflicted on the feet of women in China may be, the men certainly enjoy sound and comfortable understandings. Look at the Chinese laundrymen here in Washington; they stand at their work eighteen hours a day. No class of workingmen I know of spend so many hours on their feet as they do. Yet they never break down there, and, physically, they are a wonderfully healthy race.

"Simple living and freedom from the nervous pursuits of our civilization may have something to do with it, but I attribute their exemption from foot weakness and disease to the kind of house shoe so universally worn by them. I have a pair that I have worn for several years, and I wouldn't wear anything else for genuine indoor comfort. They are woven of straw and seaweed, and soled with horsehide. There is a thick sole of straw above the leather, and through this the air can circulate freely, keeping the muscles of the under part of the foot always cool.

"The laundrymen, you notice, are usually barefoot, which is an added advantage in the matter of healthfulness. There is about as little material in the uppers as is consistent with the idea of a shoe, and this is just enough to keep the thing on the foot. This upper, too, is woven loosely of seaweed, so that the air can have access to the foot. Nowhere does this shoe pinch, or in the least degree press the foot.

"These are the indoor shoes of the Chinaman. On the street here in the United States nowadays he wears very commonly the leather shoes or boots of American manufacture. That is one of the ways in which he is becoming Americanized. But the outdoor cloth shoe of China is a great deal worn also. That, like the indoor shoe, is very thick and soft in the sole, and the foot is never pinched or strained by it.

"The healthiest footgear ever known probably was the sandal of the Greeks. It had no upper, and, as you will see in the statuary, the feet of men and women were ideally perfect. All the sandal afforded was a protection from the ground. 'To him who wears sandals,' say the Arabs, 'it is as if the world were shod with leather.' The Chinaman seems to follow out this motto, and his shoes are nearly soles and nothing more. But the great secret of the excellence of his indoor shoe is the half inch straw sole."—Washington Star.

SCHLEY AND THE SCHOOLMASTER.

The Rev. Edward Huber, of Baltimore, has shown that Commodore Schley's ancestor was Thomas Schley, a German schoolmaster, who, in 1735, came to Maryland from the Palatinate with about 100 settlers, part of whom were Swiss. They founded Fredericktown, which they called Friedrichstadt.

The Rev. Schlatter, a Swiss-German missionary, who visited the United States from 1746 to 1757, writes, in his "Travels in America," that he considers it "a special privilege of the Frederick congregation to have the best schoolmaster I met in America." When the Germans, in 1870, conquered France, and even before that time, in 1866, when they gained their victories in Austria, it was said that "the German schoolmaster had won the laurels of the German army." At Santiago the descendant of a German schoolmaster, as it seems, won the victory for the United States.—Baltimore Sun.

WILLS AND LORETTO

"THE TRAMP and THE GAY SOUBRETTE."

Playing Orpheum Circuit. Original time extended through courtesy of Manager John D. Hopkins. Second engagement within a year, and time extended on both occasions. HERE ARE A FEW OPINIONS:

Of Nat M. Wills' tramp, Orpheum audiences never tire, nor of his parodies, and Mlle. Loretto does a Spanish dance so well that the house forgets its patriotism for the moment.—SAN FRANCISCO EXAMINER.

Wills and Loretto, the former the well known tramp impersonator, had yesterday so many calls before the curtain as to delay the show.—KANSAS CITY STAR.

Nat M. Wills and Mlle. Loretto, as the Tramp and Gay Soubrette, took the house by storm. Wills is certainly the best tramp ever seen in Los Angeles.—LOS ANGELES (Cal.) RECORD.

P. S.—The bouquet encore was given to us by Ritchie, the Tramp Bicyclist. Just mention this so folks wont think we "choosed" it. Open on the Hopkins-Castle Circuit on July 24, for eight weeks.

FOR SALE—Second Hand Tramp Wardrobe. Good chance for parties who have taken everything else.

AL. G. FIELD

Owes much of his great success to his paper. We are not unmindful of the superb merit of his excellent attraction, nor the high standard of perfomance he has always maintained. But while he has always given a high class show he has always billed his organization splendidly, as well. No one is more painstaking with his paper. Every sheet of it carefully thought out and put together by himself. He personally superintends all groupings, arrangements and ornamentation. He fixes upon all the various color schemes and drapings; and, finally, he personally prepares every line of text that appears on his paper. It follows that he is ultra-particular regarding the details of execution. We have made his paper for the past five years, and in all that time we have not failed on a single sheet.

We regard our record with AL. G. FIELD'S paper as as strong a testimonial as a printing house can offer.

SONGS THAT INTEREST THE Audience, THE Manager, THE Singer

Patriotic Performers who cannot go to the front as soldiers or nurses must display their patriotism in some other way. Here's one way—sing the greatest of all Patriotic Hits.

"THERE'S ROOM FOR ONE MORE STAR," by Feist and Hartley
"THE SONG OF OUR NATION," - - by Harry Holliday
"MISS LIBERTY," - - - by Sterling and Von Tilzer

THE KING OF SPAIN Don't Like This Song. But It Will Make YOU Happy.

"HE'S GOT TO QUIT DIS HOUSE, or Dere's a Spaniard Lives Upstairs,"
By ED. ROGERS. A great Set of Slides for Illustrators. 12 Slides, highly colored, $6.

Predicted by All Head Liners—One of the Coon Song Hits of the Coming Season.

"YOU'LL GET ALL DAT'S A-COMING TO YOU."
Here are two lines of the song: { Once upon a time his eggs were scrambled, / Now he has to scramble for his eggs. }
By STERLING and VON TILZER. (Extra patriotic verse up to the finish of the war.)

"FIRST YOU DO DER RAG, DEN YOU BOM BER SHAY,
Or HOW THE RAG TIME DANCE IS DONE," - by Harry Von Tilzer
A GREAT SONG FOR BUSINESS.

Two Coon Songs that have Entree to the Repertoire of the Best Artists on Earth.

"I'SE GOT ANOTHER NIGGER ON MA STAFF" (ILLUSTRATED 12 Slides, Highly Colored, $6.00.
A WARM NUMBER BY A COLD COON, "WHEN DER SNOW IS ON DER GROUND."

DESCRIPTIVE BALLADS from the Pens of Expert Writers, who have been trained to work the Guns of Popularity. Up Shoots your Salary, if you Enlist in Our Army.

"THE SERMON THAT TOUCHED HIS HEART," by Tony Stanford.
(Illustrated from Life. 16 Highly Colored Slides, $4.)
"THE STORY OF A BROKEN HEART," by Tony Stanford.
"STORIES THAT MOTHER TOLD ME," by Sterling and Von Tilzer.
"NOBODY CARES FOR ME" (Illustrated from Life, 12 Slides, colored, $6) by Sterling and Von Tilzer.
"DOES TRUE LOVE EVER RUN SMOOTH?" by Leo Feist.
"SHE'S WAITING FOR A LETTER DAY BY DAY," by Thos. F. Morrissey.

SPAIN Is in a bad way. Are you? Is your act? If so, try these Waltz Songs. They act as a Bracer and Fortifier.
"THE BEST LITTLE GIRL IN THE WORLD," by Harry S. Miller.
"I'M THAT YOUNG LADY'S BEAU," by Irving and Bennett.
"THE GIRL WHO IS LOVED BY ALL," by Tony Stanford.
"DOWN IN CHERRY LANE," by Sterling and Von Tilzer.
"PRETTY MINNIE CLARE," by Leo Feist.

Like Cervera, in Sampson's Blockade, once you get these MARCH SONGS in your act, you wont be able to break away.
"MISS LIBERTY," "MISS HARVARD OF YALE," "THE GOOD MR. BEST."
ALL GREAT SONGS FOR BUSINESS

P. S.—Stella Mayhew, Harry Bond, James Le Clair, write.

MIKE S. WHALEN,
RAPID FIRE HUMORIST.
Keith's Theatre, Philadelphia.
It is not always the highest art that draws the greatest applause. A few impromptu verses by Mr. M. S. Whalen at Keith's Theatre yesterday touching the personal characteristics of different persons among the audience drew more laughter and applause than all the rest of the "turns" put together. Mr. Whalen has a light hand, and while the illusions he weaves into his song are personal they are not offensive, and never fail o convulse both those at whom they are aimed and those who listen.—PHILADELPHIA PUBLIC LEDGER, July 14, '98.
One of the big hits of the evening was scored by M. S. Whalen, whose monologue aptly might be entitl d "The Advantage of a Good Memory." He indulges in some tentative mimicry. This is followed by a lot of quickly delivered "gags," after which he improvises verses referring to various conspicuous types in the audience. The "turn" is of a style that caught the audience for two enthusiastic encores.—PHILADELPHIA ITEM, Thursday, July 14.

CURES QUICKER

Tarrant's Extract of Cubebs and Copaiba is a safe certain and quick cure, and is an old time remedy, combining in a highly concentrated form the medicinal virtues of cubebs and copaiba, its portable shape, freedom from taste and speedy action (curing in less time than any other preparation) make it THE MOST VALUABLE KNOWN REMEDY. To prevent fraud, see that every package has a red strip across the face of label, with the signature of Tarrant & Co., N. Y., upon it. PRICE, $1.00. Sold by all druggists.
